Painting Woodwork.

Apply several good coats, when painting woodwork, the first an egg shell gloss. Never be persuaded into having the finish emulsion except in the kitchen and bath. It cheapens a room beyond repair. On the hall stairs, where light woodwork, especially on the hand rails, is shown, use a more glossy finish. People are becoming more and more original in their color selection for woodwork finishes. Cream, ivory or gray used to be the gamut of colors. Now we buy genuine cream walls with soft green woodwork, the molding being picked out with a darker shade. Or, if the room can stand a more enriched treatment, light, pale gold picks out the panels of the molding, the gold is repeated in a mirror over the mantel or the sideboard. Painted woodwork holds many possibilities.

GRACE M. STODDARD

Miss Grace Marie Stoddard passed away last Sunday evening, Jan. 5, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Hartson, 40 Hillcrest Parkway.

The funeral services were held at the Hartson home Tuesday last, but the interment is to be in Muskegon, Mich., which was for many years her home.

She came with her father, Dr. John P. Stoddard to Winchester the latter part of last October, expecting to make this town their home with her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Hartson.

Miss Stoddard was born at Albion, Michigan, Sept. 5, 1873, but spent less than ten years there moving to Muskegon. Afterwards with her parents, she went to Deland, Florida, for a residence of nearly ten years, and from there went to Norwood, Mass., where she taught school, and prepared for her real life work, that of a librarian.

To this end she attended Simmons College, and at the same time acted as assistant librarian in the Mass. Institute of Technology.

In June 1904 she accepted the position of librarian of the Missoula, Montana, Free Public Library, where she remained for fifteen years, really doing her life work there. She took this library, a Carnegie Institution, at its organization with no one assisting her, and saw it grow, and ended its development to a time when there were seven more assistant librarians, and the institution had more than quadrupled in size and efficiency, and was serving not only the city of Missoula, but also the county of the same name, whose area is greater than Rhode Island.

She resigned her position in Missoula on the day of last October, for the purpose of being near her father who was to make his home here with his niece, Mrs. Hartson, and also because she wanted to live again near Boston, a city which she had learned to like when living in Norwood.

Her mother died nearly three years ago and as there were no other children in the family, she felt that her father should have a better home than she could make while discharging the exacting duties of a librarian, expecting when she was settled in the new home, she could and would continue her librarian work in New England. She had already found temporary employment in the Free Public Library Commission at the State House, Boston. This work was very interesting to her, and she hoped that her temporary work there would eventually lead to something more useful and permanent in the same line.

She was always a diligent and conscientious worker, a loving and helpful daughter, and ready to do her share of the world's work.

Mrs. Emma J. Prince, who has been the guest of friends in Melrose Highlands since December 22, has returned to her home 12 Church street, her condition very much improved.

OUT OF GERMAN PRISONS

Germs Drop Note Over Lines Saying Lieut. Woods Shot. Appearance in Paris. Atoned Friends. Description of Release and Reception in Switzerland and France.

What it means to be captured by the Germans to be shut up in four prison camps, then released to return to France is set forth in letters from First Lieutenant George Bernard Woods, "Lieutenant Woods," paroled pilot, Twenty-Eighth Aero Squadron, it will be remembered, was reported "killed or missing in action" and later was found to be a prisoner of war.

Lieutenant Woods, recent letters have special interest not only for what they reveal of his experiences and the joy of being released, but because they mention his meeting with other men about whose fate many of their friends have been in ignorance.

Lieutenant Woods was imprisoned first at Leuberg, next at Karlsruhe, a distributing station for prisoners; then he was sent to Landshtut and finally to Villigen, where he was in an officers' prison. His letters home beginning after the armistice was signed, say in part:

I wish I could be justice in writing of this last week, but it is so much happening to think about and excitement that it is hard to sleep. It has all come so suddenly and is so complete that we are only just beginning to appreciate what it means. In the first place, we are no more prisoners; there are guards outside the wire, they are only a precaution to keep order and prevent an attempt to steal Red Cross food. Armed soldiers quietly took control first of the railroad station in town, then of the barracks across the street and the camp here.

The German officers have been stripped of their insignia of rank and all officers and men have removed the imperial insignia from their caps. The only changes that affect us are—only one roll call a day; no more censorship of mail and more freedom on our "word of honor walks."

The Germans realize that their best hopes lie in Wilson and America; they are grateful and will do everything possible to get us back quickly and without unfavorable reports.

The whole camp, meanwhile is all stirred up and at a high tension. It is hard to rest or do anything. It is almost impossible to foresee what will happen to us, when we get back to France and almost as hard to decide what we want it to be. I had almost decided that I shouldn't want to fly again when yesterday a German Halberstadt came over—did some very fine stunting, directly overhead and landed right outside the fence. Most of the flyers went wild with enthusiasm. It is the same about getting back home; I am crazy to get back yet the opportunity to see devastated France, the different fronts and the occupied territory is something that ought not to be missed. Then there are the 2000 German planes to be turned over and perhaps I am most anxious to see and perhaps fly.

On the other hand, it might be possible to get back by February, take half courses and graduate with the class, which would be fine; the news of the old crowd did the same thing. Thus, with our unexpected return to freedom at hand, we have much to think about. The preference of the victory has lessened the disappointment of not having played a greater part.

It is all like the happy ending of an climax to an absorbing story. The only sad part will be, I am afraid, the news of all the splendid boys whose lives will have been sacrificed for the happiness of all the rest of the world. Am very worried about Jerry Habbell, Ken Bell, Bob Elliott and all the rest.

Yesterday, I received your cable and it was a great relief. The German corporal couldn't let me keep it, but translated something to the effect that the commandant had been released. I was, of course, a "family well-wisher." Second Woods, Boston. I did not get the date, but imagine it must have taken about a week on route and as it was probably sent on receipt of the Red Cross cable, means I am afraid that there must have been quite an interval after the casualty report. It helped a lot to hear from home because I have received no mail.

Villigen is still very comfortable, although it is beginning to get quite cold. We have plenty of food and some new Red Cross clothing, no more "outfit" shirts, sweaters, etc., and underclothing. Steve Brody and I sent to a Denmark butter and egg concern when we first arrived and have already received six packages, two dozen eggs, two pounds butter, two pounds of cheese, which makes it very nice.

Yesterday a detail went down to the Villigen Museum—not much of a museum, but interesting going through the town. Very curious, interested and quite friendly. I think that it is all the news—nothing more lately about getting out but it can't be too soon.

Dated November 14, 1918. Villigen, Baden.

We have all been trying to do the same thing the last day or two—write letters, but are all having the same trouble. It has all been so wonderful lately and there is so much to write that it is almost beyond expression. So we could possibly appreciate that crowning day the 20th of November, when we pulled out of Constance across the border and down through the French and English officers on a very special train, unless they were alone. It was like Christmas, only more so in some ways.

I have kept a brief diary so the easiest way to start will be to copy it. November 21st.

German dispatch plane over with a message. A few more American officers and English arrive. Two of the Englishmen for supper. We are not to be liberated until the Rhine towns are occupied.

November 22nd. Very good concert in the Cinema.

November 23rd. Liberated to roam at large in the city of Villigen and vicinity between the hours of 9 to 12 and 2 to 6. In with Steve and McDonald in the morning and Bob and Pop in the afternoon. "A Victory for both sides" feeling, "Welcome" over the gates of the city for the troops and flags everywhere.

November 24th. We are leaving today or tomorrow. Bob and I had arranged a studio. A Bavarian diversion by the camp in the afternoon each man with evergreen and flowers in his buttonhole and the muzzle of his gun. Red flags and decorations in the horses' bridles. Supper with four Englishmen—2 tank officers, an observer and a line officer.

November 25th. Moved out of the camp. We leave early tomorrow morning via Constance. Packed and made ready.

November 26th.

Up at 3 a. m. and left the camp at 4:30 after parting speech by the German Adjutant. Pulled out at 5:20—2nd Class. Snow scene at sunrise. Arrived in Constance about 10, and marched out to Switzerland but back across the Rhine to a German hospital—Explanation by the colonel.

November 28th. Thinking of going with Steve to see the Rhine. Snow is better. We leave tomorrow probably.

November 29th. The most wonderful day I have ever spent. Up at 4:30—heard the train at 7 a. m. A Swiss one. 250 Americans including orderlies and R. A. T. men. Joined by many other French and English officers and pulled out at 9:10. Immediately greeted by most of the Swiss in the smallest villages there were cheering crowds. At Zurich we were given a lunch of two Swiss loaves and eating chocolate. At Bern the Red Cross committee and enthusiastic crowd, both American and Swiss were at the station with boxes and bags of food and presents of all sorts. The cars looked like our dining room on Christmas morning and we all like Christmas trees with flowers and little flags. Our complete happiness with such a reception lived us surely to the Seventh Heaven. At Lausanne and Geneva, it reached a climax. wonderful enthusiasm, surging crowds of people who had waited in the rain late into the night to see us and perhaps to shake someone's hand. Red fire and flags everywhere. Vive la Suisse! At 1 p. m. we arrived at Bellefleur, France, climbed into an American Red Cross train and went to bed happy and tired out.

November 30th. Breakfast of white bread and oatmeal. Shave and a haircut in the town and a cable home. Lunch with Steve, Macdonald and Al Strong. Reception by the Mayor and Committee. Found Miss Higginson and Miss Sanborn of Base 6 on the train; pulled out after supper.

And now we are at Base Hospital No. 26 Allerey, south of Dijon for a few days. They expected to find much sickness, etc., so we will probably be quarantined here for a few days more and then we hope to have an extended leave.

This has been very brief but I will be able to tell you all about it soon for I could never forget it. And I will write another letter in a day or so. Dated, Morgan Harjes, Paris.

December 2, 1918.

I wrote two days ago from Saint Nazaire, but don't remember mailing it so don't feel sure it went. I am back in Paris again now having a most wonderful time. Last night we danced. There is another dance tomorrow and again the next day, with first the Harvard Victory Dinner, and tonight I am just back from the Opera.

I have met lots of the old crowd and had a chance to talk and find out all the dope. In the squadron the same day that they got a card from me, they got a note dropped over the lines by the Germans saying that Stephen died in the Metz hospital (which was true) and that I had been shot while trying to escape—consequently it was quite a shock to Bill Jobb when we met this morning in Morgan Harjes. They had all given me up as being dead some time ago.

It was wonderful meeting people again—I also saw Eddy and Doc from 1919 and they both agreed it would be a splendid idea to go back to college and finish the year. However, I am afraid there is quite a time between when we get orders and actually get on the boat. As a rough guess, I may be home by the middle of January.

This is a scrappy letter all right—I am pretty tired out very happy. Dated, Paris.

December 12, 1918.

Still in Paris and so busy that I can only snatch a minute here and there to write letters. Yesterday was the climax—Wilson Day and he got a very wonderful reception at Paris. It was a general holiday all over the city; tremendous crowds in wonderful spirits and gay. Three out-did herself.

In the morning Steve and I watched the celebration and then went to a very fine luncheon party. Then there was the Harvard victory dinner at the Palais de Arcey, which was very nice except a little disappointing in the number of 119 men present. After that, we went to two separate dances—one at the Aviation Officers' Club and the other at the big French dance lasting into the wee small hours. It was a pretty full day and I haven't had an awful lot of pep today.

As to the future, I will probably leave about Wednesday for Tours, where we will get orders home—it will then take anywhere from two weeks to a month to get started. No word from my baggage or mail; haven't had a letter since September.

Dated, Aero Club of America, Paris. December 16, 1918.

A bill which provides for an increase from $3 to $5 per day for jurors' pay has been filed by District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts. ## LEUT. ETHERIDGE, SIGNAL OFFICER

The following article is interesting to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Etheridge, whose son, Lieut. H. L. Etheridge is Regimental Signal Officer at Headquarters, C. 117th, A. 32nd Division being transferred to this division when he graduates from Signal Officers Training School.

A Rumohr soldier, Lieut. Charles A. Shelor, son of this city, is one of the officers in the gallant 32nd division, which fought twice against German divisions on five different sectors of the Western battle front, and never yielded a foot of ground to an enemy counter attack.

The story of the gallant part played by this division of troops from the North-east is told in the following: The appearance of a Paris letter of an American newspaper, which London, England, for his part, did not believe. When the war started, the army of the United States was small. On November 17, one of our crack divisions, the 32nd, was sent to Europe on an extraordinary duty. Six months before this division first "planted the American flag on German soil in Meuse." On May 10, Wisconsin and Michigan were under enemy shell fire and from that date to November 11, the division has out-gunned the Boche guns. Only ten days after it turned to the 32nd, it chased the Boche from the Omeur to the Meuse. Then it went to a sector north of Soissons, where it fought with its Persian, fighting side by side with the heroic "Spuds" of General Mangin. After that victory with the French it had a rest for ten days before getting ready for the final drive.

The American army's grip north of Verdun was broken three days after the 32nd went to the front. For the next three weeks the Wisconsin and Michigan boys battled the Boche for Kreutzhofen Stellung. It was they who finally broke through the key position of "La Dame Marie" from which they then pushed on to Freya Stellung, pushing the Boche gunners out of Bantville wood. They crossed the line up to the point where the final attack on November 1, was launched, and followed in support of the divisions which crossed the Meuse at Dun and captured Stenay. In the last few days of the war the 32nd went into line in the Meuse bridgehead sector, and with the French were in the midst of an attack when the armistice stopped fighting. During the war the division has fought on five fronts. Also, the Meuse, Soissons, Argonne and the Meuse, and has fought twice against Germany's best divisions, mounted with the Prussian Guards. It has never yielded a yard of ground to the enemy's counter-attacks.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

The memorial service held on Sunday afternoon at the First Congregational Church for the late Lieut. H. L. Etheridge, principal of the Wadleigh Grammar School and for the last years a teacher at the Wadleigh school, was largely attended. The main auditorium of the church was filled with friends, members of the School Committee and the teachers of the public schools occupying a reserved section in the body of the church. There was a large attendance of people who have attended under Mr. Etheridge, besides many parents and personal friends.

The only decoration at the altar was a large bank of flowers from the Wadleigh School pupils. This signified the red, white and blue which Mr. Etheridge carried under red and white pinks and blue iris making a striking decoration.

Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the church, officiated at the service and a male quartette gave the musical program with Richard W. Grant as director. Mr. Chidley, in outlining the life and character of the deceased stated that he need only read extracts from the letters home, and he read many such extracts, sent to church, teachers and pupils, which portrayed in a manner more vivid than any eulogy, the loss to this town of a man respected and admired by all.

SOLDIERS' LETTER

Extracts from a letter written by Private Ove E. Mortensen, 66th Co., 3rd Marines, A. E. F.

November 29, 1918. It's all over now, but honestly, I never expected to be living at this stage of the game and I guess every one that ever had one of Heim's seabags thrown at him felt the same way as I did. However, here I am, and to the extent of not having been scratched, got a little gas at Champagne and was hit in the same battle by a bit of enemy but all that blue spit on my left side about the size of one's fist. For the first moments I thought I had passed into eternity but only the good thing seemed as though the machine gun bullets had a happy faculty of buzzing all around me and the fellows have told me that in the heat of battle one hardly feels when he is hit but to make sure I sometimes feel myself over and looked for blood marks, and I am convinced that I was still intact. You know I often said "No soft job for mine," but I have changed my mind since then.

I have lots of experiences to tell about "hon" and "par bon" places but this letter is just to give you a little of the life in the trenches. Now that the lid is off, the more exciting things will have to wait until I see you personally in order to make the experiences effective. I have to tell things which the Censor even now would not allow.

I was sworn in on June 9, 1918, August 17th our Regiment, 66th Co., landed in Brest, France. We came over on the German Cruiser, "Von Steuben," the Crown Prince owned. It was a fine boat, mounted with 18 guns. Our trip was the best ever. It took us nine days to make the trip from N. Y. The betting was 20 to 1 that we wouldn't arrive before the war. We were the last of three boats which wanted to get but we didn't even sight a "U." At Brest, we went to a rest camp, one of Napoleon's old training quarters to rest a week, but it proved to be a week of hard labor at the docks. Here also we were furnished with the necessary articles of war and the dope was that we would train for a month or two in Modern Warfare behind the lines with hearing distance of the big guns and gradually work up to the front. This is what really happened. From Brest, we were piled into box cars, jammed so that we had to take turns at sitting and standing. We rode for two days and three nights, camel tonatoes, "Monkey Meat" and bread being our rations three times a day and once or twice we stopped for hot coffee. We finally landed in the outskirts of the Metz Sector and to our surprise we hiked all night, joining our several companies in the evening, some of whom behind the battle line. The next day was spent in preparation for the coming battle. That night we spent in the woods already for the Boche, at 1 o'clock midnight Uncle Sam's big naval guns started firing and our messages to Kaiser Bill's forces. This was where the Boche learned something about an American barrack and American efficiency. The 7th and 8th Regts. of Marines, the 9th and 23rd Inf., make up the 2nd Division, all regulars and enlisted men. A Division that has been cited more than any other American Division in France. We were backed by the famous Rainbow Div., the 4th, 5th and several others.

At the dawn of the day we started over. We expected a lot of resistance but I guess Heim thought hell had broken a loose when our barrage opened up, and those that were captured were very happy. They were standing with arms uplifted, officers and men alike ready to be taken captive. It all proved to be a walk-over. We were on this front nine days. From there we went to Champagne, where we fought under the French. Here we took the famous Mont Blanc in the Argonne Woods, a regular battery of machine guns. We were here for ten days, "Par bon sector" but always victorious. Then the last and final drive, also, purely American. We routed Heim out of France and he is still running, soon will have him all over on the other side of the Rhine. This last barrage was terrible. We covered 20 Kilos, in two days, chased the Heimes in motor trucks and made them so thankful that when they escaped celebrated even more than we did when the armistice was signed.

I went out as far as Luxembourg with the company, but here I had to drop out. I had just been issued new English shoes and any of the boys that have been over here will tell you what they are like. There is a young iron heap on the head and top of each boot, and then they are as stiff as a board. My feet had six blisters on them, these broke and my feet started to swell up so that I could hardly walk. That together with bronchitis ever since September 1st put me in a hospital for a week now, and spent Thanksgiving here and am all fixed up again with the exception of my throat which is still hoarse.

We got a wonderful welcome in Belgium. I could cover pages telling about our receptions at various times but I presume that you have read all about it in the papers. Now the only thing that worries us is when we are going home. *****

WORK FOR RETURNING SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

To Merchants and Manufacturers: I have recently appointed a committee for the reception of all officers and enlisted men in the United States Service, returning from overseas and their country.

This committee has opened headquarters at Liberty Hall on Boston Common, opposite West street, and it has developed that the most important matter in the mind of each man is what are the prospects for an immediate return home.

You are an employer of men. I am taking it for granted that you are able and willing to take back into your employ all men who have left it to go into the Army or Navy branch of the United States Service.

The pay in the Army and Navy is small, and the rewards for War Risks Insurance, Liberty Bonds and Certificates have been great, and I therefore must invariably a man must obtain immediate employment to live. This applies just as strongly to officers as to enlisted men.

There are large numbers of men who have left schools, colleges, and temporary industries to enter the service and there are to this waiting for them. Our problem now is to place them just as soon as possible. Out of 1,000 men who registered for the Reception Committee to date, 571 had no jobs waiting for them. Have you any positions open now for these men? Will you have more opportunities in the future because of an expansion of your business? Will you please notify Charles E. Ware, Jr., Secretary of the Boston Committee, at Liberty Hall, Boston Common, Telephone Bench 402, of any immediate opportunities? Will you please notify him of any opportunities that may arise during the next few weeks or months? Please outline each and every position specifically. Will you please ask other employers of your acquaintance to notify Mr. Ware of immediate and future opportunities?

The Bureau for Returning Soldiers and Sailors conducted by the United States Employment Service in Boston and vicinity, is working in close cooperation with my Reception Committee and occupies the cottage next to Liberty Hall on the Tremont street Mall. Every notification received by the secretary of my committee will be immediately placed in the hands of the United States Employment Service.

This is the most vital and immediate problem of reconstruction. It can be handled here as well as it can be handled in any other part of the country. May I count on your assistance?

Yours truly,
Andrew J. Peters, Mayor.

The Collection of "Slow" Telephone Accounts

THE PURPOSE OF THIS ANNOUNCEMENT is to show that it is desirable, particularly at this time, to save the time and labor that is expended in collecting bills that remain unpaid after the lapse of a reasonable period of time.

BILLS ARE DUE when rendered on the first day of each month, and while most telephone accounts are paid promptly, there are a number of "slow" accounts that require labor, time and expense that might better be devoted to other work that is more directly in the interest of the public's telephone service.

WE BELIEVE that this method of bringing the matter to the attention of the public, this frank and open discussion of our aims, is all that is necessary to secure proper understanding and co-operation.

A FOR EIGHT LECTURE Delivered in the Town Hall, Winchester, on Tuesday Evening by Virgil O. Strickler, C.S.B., Christian Scientist

An audience exceptional in character as well as in size assembled in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening, to hear Virgil O. Strickler, C.S.B., of New York City, who spoke under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Winchester. The presence of an unusual number of local non-scientists, among them many of the most prominent people of the town, was particularly noticeable. This was Mr. Strickler's second visit as a Christian Science lecturer to Winchester, and, as on the first occasion, he held his hearers in marked attention from the beginning to the end of a remarkably informative, helpful and forceful discourse on spiritual healing.

His treatment of the subject was, doubtless, clarifying to many who had come to be enlightened with regard to the teachings and doctrines toward which so many in every community in the world are turning in this period of turmoil, confusion and doubt. An admirable feature of the lecturer's method is the patience with which he elucidates and drives home metaphysical arguments. Judging from expressions heard on all sides, the conclusion of his remarks, he sent the larger audience home greatly pleased with what they had learned of Christian Science.

The lecturer was introduced by Mr. Frank W. Jones, First Reader of the Local Christian Science Church, who said:

During the past few years of unusual world conditions, Christian Scientists have had exceptional cause for gratitude for their understanding of God.

In the home, in the camp, on the battlefield, in fact everywhere, Christian Science has proven a potent, demonstrable religion. It has been tried and not found wanting. It has stood the test and satisfied its adherents during the most trying period of the world's history.

Today, more than ever before, men are thinking of the brotherhood of man and of how to make the world a better place to live in. Christian Science teaches the true brotherhood of man and by healing both sin and disease it makes the world a better place to live in. Mrs. Edith, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, on page 340 of "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," has referred to the true brotherhood of man as follows: "One Infinite God, good, unchangeable and eternal, constitutes the brotherhood of man; ends wars; fulfills the Scripture, 'Love thy neighbor as thyself.'"

He teaches that the brotherhood of man is not a mere theory, but a reality. He teaches that the brotherhood of man is not a mere theory, but a reality. He teaches that the brotherhood of man is not a mere theory, but a reality.

Mr. Strickler in his lecture said: As it becomes more generally understood that through the ministry of Christian Science people are being healed of sickness, of pain, of worry, fear, and other discordant conditions, there is an ever-increasing desire upon the part of the general public to learn the means by which such results are accomplished. It is the purpose of this lecture to explain how Christian Science does these things. There is no anxiety about the results of healing, nor is it difficult to understand. It can be stated without any reservation whatever that every person who is willing to do so may learn how to heal sickness and to destroy the desire to sin for himself and others through Christian Science.

Many Different Religious Beliefs
It is said that there are more than two hundred different kinds of the Christian religion alone, not to mention the hundreds of other forms of religions that are not Christian. It is a fact that people do entertain widely differing religious beliefs. In many instances the differences are irreconcilable, and yet every one believes with all of the sincerity of which he is capable that his own particular beliefs are true. It must be conceded that, in the main, all people are equally honest and equally sincere in their religious beliefs. The only reason why they are grouped and separated in different forms of religion is because they honestly believe that through their own particular form of religion they will find the good which they so earnestly desire.

As one considers the subject of religion from this broad viewpoint it becomes entirely plain that most of the people in the world are believers as their religion many things that are not true.

There is only one truth about any subject, although there may be many erroneous beliefs about it. This is as true of religious subjects as of others. If one believes erroneously as to what the law he will not be a successful lawyer, nor will he be an efficient engineer if his beliefs concerning the rules of mathematics are faulty. In such cases erroneous beliefs must be displaced by positive knowledge before correct results can be attained.

Every one will recognize the desirability, but the necessity, of exchanging false and erroneous beliefs about religious matters for positive truth. In no other way can we grow spiritually. Spiritual truth is the truth about spiritual things, but as

REV. MR. METCALF ARRIVES TONIGHT

Word from Mrs. Joel H. Metcalf states that Rev. Mr. Metcalf will arrive in New York tonight on the SS Chicago and dock tomorrow morning. Mr. Metcalf was due Wednesday night, but the vessel was delayed.

RECEPTION PLANS

Welcome to Rev. Joel Metcalf Will Be Big Social Event

Plans for the reception to Rev. Joel H. Metcalf, who has been serving for the past two years with the Y. M. C. A. in France and who has been credited with exceptionally good work among our soldiers who have been fighting there, are rapidly assuming definite shape, and the affair promises to be one of the largest social events in town this winter. Mr. Metcalf arrived in New York on Wednesday, being welcomed by his wife and daughter, who accompanied him home to Winchester.

The reception is to be held on next Friday evening, Jan. 31st, and will be given at the parlors of the Unitarian Church, over which the returned clergyman has charge. The hours are to be from eight to ten o'clock and all of Mr. Metcalf's friends are cordially invited to attend and extend their greetings.

The committee in charge is headed by Miss Charlotte Edelson, and in her absence in Canada, Mrs. George H. Hazlett is carrying on the preparations, assisted by various sub-committees. The ushers will be under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Goldard and will include the members of the Standing Committee and the Hospitality Committee of the church. Mr. Robert E. Carter, Mrs. Wendell M. Weston and Mrs. Ralph S. Vinal will have charge of the decorations, and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Foster will care for the musical program. A caterer will be in attendance for the refreshments to be served in connection with the evening and a feature of the music will be an orchestra.

Aside from a general invitation to all of Mr. Metcalf's friends, extended through the Star, special requests have been invited, including out of town personal friends, Ex-Governor McCall, William Parkman Louison, of Mass., of which organization Mr. Metcalf is chaplain and which has contributed to our soldiers through him; officers of the American Unitarian Association and others.

The affair promises to be the chief event of the season and will head the festivities to come in welcoming those of our residents who have cheerfully and efficiently given their services to the cause of the war.

The ushers for the evening will include the following: Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Goldard, Wallace F. Flinders, Ralph E. Joslin, George F. Ferguson, James W. Russell, Jr., Charles W. H. Russell, Louis Parkhurst, Robert C. Metcalf, Vincent Farnsworth, Noel W. Nutt, Frank M. Russell, Arthur H. Richardson, Fred E. Holmes, Edward B. Russell, and Mansfield and Dr. Alfred E. Knight.

MID-WINTER ADDRESSES

First Congregational Church—Men of Yesterday with Messages for Today

Sunday evening, Dec. 22nd, Chidley begins a series of mid-winter addresses under the above heading. He will take Old Testament characters and show how their principles apply to the men of today and what the message means. The subjects and dates are as follows:

- Jan. 25—Joseph, a Father's Pet.
- Feb. 2—Vesper Service, 5 p. m.
- Feb. 9—Joshua, the Plodder.
- Feb. 16—"Daniel, the Man of Courage."
- Feb. 23—"Jonah, the Narrow-minded."
- Mar. 2—Vesper Service, 5 p. m.

At a meeting of the directors of the Wendell House, it was decided that there should be a hostess from one of the branches at the house each evening. Winchester was given the second Sunday in each month. Our Chairman, Mrs. E. L. Lawrence, will take the first evening. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Gilpatrick and Miss Mary French, who will give the musical program. The hostess given at Camp Devens and Mrs. Arthur Williams will have charge of the catering.

On Monday at the S. A. Room, plenty of yarn may be found for sweaters, helmets, and scarfs. We hope all of our knitters will take hold with a will, in order that we may respond to this call in good measure.

WINCHESTER TEACHER DEAD

Miss Jennie M. Wood, for 13 years principal of the Gifford School on Main street, died at her home at Newcastle, Maine, on Wednesday after a long illness. Since being ill she had been unable to leave her home, and had been absent from the school committee. She was a member of the First Congregational Church of this town, and was a member of the S. A. organization which will be represented at today's services by delegates and floral offerings.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING

January 20, 1919
The board met at 7:30 p. m., all present.

Police Department—Examinations (Patrolman): A notice was received from the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission of an examination to be held on February 7, 1919 for the position of one patrolman in the Police Department of Winchester.

Historian (Winchester's War Activities): The clerk was instructed to find out from the Town Council whether there is any act under which the town can employ an historian to record Winchester's war activities.

Board of Appeal: Acting at the request of Mr. George Neely, 5 Wolcott road, the board voted to accept his resignation from the Board of Appeal, and the clerk was instructed to send him a vote of thanks for his past services.

Under suspension of its rules the board appointed Mr. Wallace F. Flinders, 19 Lakeview road, a member of the Board of Appeal for the year ending December 31, 1919.

Pictorial Record (Winchester's War Activities): A letter was received from the War Department stating that the clerk was to be in charge of the pictorial record of the war under the General Staff of the Army, it is desired that photographs representing all important phases of war activity from every section of the country should be included and asks that Winchester send some pictures in regard to its war activities. The chairman appointed Mr. Newman of the board and Mr. T. P. Wilson a committee of two to find out from the War Department what records there were in existence of Winchester's war activity. The clerk was also instructed to send a copy of this letter to the Board of Selectmen of the 12th Regiment Machine Gun Company, and suggest to him that a picture of the Machine Gun Company be sent to the War Department at Washington.

Bacon Street Bridge: A report was received from the Superintendent of Streets that he had received notice from the police that there was a hole in the westerly sidewalk of the Bacon Street Bridge close to the house, and that upon inspection he had found that several of the stones composing the flat arch of the bridge had broken in the middle and fallen into the river. In this report he recommended that a new bridge of reinforced concrete be built and that it would seem proper to expect the County of Middlesex and perhaps the Metropolitan Park Commission to bear part of the expense. This matter was referred to the Town Engineer for further study in regard to the condition of the bridge.

Acceptance of Streets—Glenwood Avenue: A petition signed by Nicholas G. Wood, 24 Glenwood Avenue and six others for the acceptance of Glenwood Avenue as, and for a town way was received. This matter was referred to the Town Engineer for report, he to report back to the board at the next meeting.

LETTERS FROM PVT. D. J. KEAN

Dec. 9, 1918.

Dearest Mother,

On account of moving around I have not written much of late, but I am well and hope to be home soon. I was on the front at Pont-a-Mousson when the armistice was signed. Between the hours of 10 and 11, very early on the front, I picked up and there was some racket, you see. We fired our last shot at 10:56 on the 11th, four minutes before the time. For days afterwards, freed prisoners came past our place, English, French, Yanks, Belgians, all kinds, returning from Germany. We left there on foot one night, and hiked eight hours steady, roving 22 miles to Fontenay, where we stayed two days, leaving there on foot for St. Germain, where we stayed four days. Then we rode on trucks to Deluz, where we stayed two days and left on foot for this place—Moret—where I expect to stay a few days. This place is in the 14th zone, and is our last place in France, so when I get home depends on how long I stay here.

We are very busy drilling every day, so I have not very much time. Saturdays we have a stiff inspection and a few hours in the afternoon off. Hence I write on Saturday p. m. Our regiment is in the 14th zone, considering what they went through. As near as I can find out, we were among the first 32,000 in France and came on the front April 1, 1918, and stayed there until June, when we went to Nancy. At that time we were on the Toul sector, where the 22nd Division was. After that we went to Nancy, we came back to the Toul sector at Ausanville, and later went in front of Verdun and started from there in the St. Mihiel battle. We followed up that battle as far as Thiercourt, a town we fired on in the drive. Later we went to Pont-a-Mousson, where we were in an advance and so on, was the Boche's resistance, we lost two guns in action, and got our second citation for good work. Our part in the war was along the Marne, Meuse, and Meuse rivers, and I have seen quite a lot of the country so far.

Give my love to all the family, and tell them I'll soon be home.

Your affectionate son

Dan.

Metrol, France.

Dear Dad:

I hope you don't think that I have forgotten you because I didn't have a chance to write a Father's Christmas Letter. A short time ago I began started to write one, but I Rhine we left the front, I suppose according to the armistice—but I'm not sure, and were on the march from town to town, and I had no time to write with. Most of the time we were too tired to do anything but crawl into a hole and sleep. Thanking you we were in a small town called Deluz, and of course, had no regular dinner, except canned food and bread, and I didn't matter as we knew that each day was bringing us nearer home.

This town is in the 14th zone and we expect to start for the second or any day. We had some recreational and brilliant reviews last week, and we take these as a sign that our turn to go home has come.

The winter season is on here, and it rains, blows, and is quite cold and muddy. We will be very glad when we can leave these lanes and live in a real home again.

Our chance to celebrate the victory will come when we hit the Rhine. Just now we are getting in soldierly shape, after our eight months of work on the front, and we drill all day long. We have all been through the "rough lot", and we are fairly well rid of the "boobies", which is quite a relief.

I am in hope, that we will go on to Camp Devens, but of course none of us know where we will land or be mustered to.

I read one of Willie Noonan's letters in a Star that talked of his hope of being in the St. Mihiel battle, which reminds me that a bunch of Marines went over the top with me, and when they came back stayed around where we were for a few days before they went to the rear.

You see after these six or seven and are relieved they have a place to meet again, and that outfit of Marines' place was near our guns, but we were out of our boots, and we didn't have much time to look anyone up.

If you look on a man of France, from a few from Toul to Metz, and on the front. We were right near that town when the drive was made, and the strongest thing is that the strongest one of our tanks drove the bombardment.

I feel sorry for Mr. and Mrs. Noonan, and I'm sure that he had a good soldier—and fighter—he had, as the place they went over was held by this Boche for four years and was stronger. He fortified by pill boxes, machine guns, in trenches, and all kinds of mine and death traps.

In closing I hope to be home soon and I send my love to all the family.

Dan.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY TO STOP LAWLESSNESS

Guns, thugs and auto thieves will do well to give Middlesex County a wide berth these days, for let it be known that District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts is determined to put such types of criminals in well known institutions for such a stretch that they will have no opportunity to ply their nefarious trades; and let it further be known that Judge Hugo DuBouque of the superior court, shares the same opinion as that of the district attorney and has said so publicly.

The first example of the way gun-men are to be treated came recently in the superior criminal court at East Cambridge. James F. Browne, aged 25 and Leo R. Burke, aged 19, two Brighton youths, pleaded guilty to an assault with intent to rob Hapet M. Phillips, an Armenian, and the proprietor of a little grocery store on Western avenue, Cambridgeport. On Saturday night, December 14, they went into Phillips' store, held him up with a gun and fired three shots at him. The first whizzed by his head, but the second and third shots struck the grocer in the body and he was taken to a hospital.

When the case came up for sentence, counsel for the young gunmen pleaded for probation, owing to their youth. But District Attorney Tufts demanded a severe punishment for the crime and got it.

In passing sentence, Judge DuBouque said: "Men of this type have the barbed, blustering spirit of the brigand. A man who will hold up a person with a gun and then shoot him, has the spirit of murder in his heart. Robbery of this type is next to murder in the criminal calendar. A man who will use a weapon to obtain money from another person and deprive him of something that will cause privation to himself or his family, is a dangerous character to be at large. I cannot in any way consider probation for these young men. I should refuse to accept such a thing from the government, even if they offered it. Men of this type are loafers at heart. They will not work. They prefer to live by their wits and desire a life of ease. If these men were older, I should give them the maximum penalty in State's Prison. But because of their youth, I shall not do this. If I gave them probation, I should feel that I had been derelict in my duty, which is to protect the public. There may be many cases, which come before me in which I shall be lenient, but hold-up men and auto thieves had better beware, for I shall have a heart of steel when such cases come before me."

Judge DuBouque gave Brown 5 to 6 years in State's Prison, and Burke was sent to the Concord Reformatory.

CELEBRATING "POOR RICHARD'S" BIRTHDAY

Government Has Pictures Ready for Every Member in the Family. Benjamin Franklin Gave Us Gifts We Shall Never Cease Using.

Benjamin Franklin, whose picture adorns the 1919 or Franklin issue of War Savings Stamps, receives unique recognition from the country which gave him birth and which he, in turn, helped to make a nation. Born in Boston on January 17, two hundred and thirteen years ago, he began his career at the age of ten in his father's trade of tallow chandler and soap boiler. Dissatisfied, he later became an apprentice in his brother's printing office and such was his character that he quickly rose to an influential position and subsequently became one of the most illustrious figures of all times.

He not only amassed wealth through wise spending, sane saving and secure investment, but saved time to give himself a complete education, developing his gifts to the utmost as a writer, philosopher, scientist and statesman. He founded the Philadelphia library, the American Philosophical Society and the University of Pennsylvania; he discovered that lightning is a discharge of electricity; he was Postmaster of Philadelphia and later on Deputy Postmaster General of the British Colonies in America, a signer of the Declaration of Independence and Minister Plenipotentiary from the United States to France. All this when there were no typewriters, no telephones and few facilities for traveling.

Franklin always ascribed his achievements to careful saving and spending of money, of time, of energy. A great part of his writings were devoted to the happiness and other benefits resulting from thrift, and he took pains to make clear the distinction between miserliness and sane saving, just as he did the difference between leisure and laziness.

In Franklin's day the almanac was the most popular form of literature, and for many years Franklin was the author of an almanac signed by one Richard Saunders, in which information regarding the weather, etc., was mingled with wisdom emanating from "Poor Richard." These sayings are familiar to every American.

For instance, "Poor Richard" said: "Time is money. Lost time is never found again. It is that waits upon fortune is never sure of a dinner. Look before or you'll find yourself behind. Beware of small expenses; a small leak will sink a great ship."

So, on Franklin's birthday anniversary, the United States pays to its great counselor the fine compliment of putting his teachings into practice. Judicious buying, wise saving and safe investment are to be the watchwords for individuals and the nation during 1919. And that they may not be mere words the government is issuing another series of Savings Stamps as a stimulant to saving and an absolutely safe and profitable investment. On each stamp appears the picture of Benjamin Franklin.

ARE YOU PAYING TOO MUCH FOR YOUR WHISTLE? BEN FRANKLIN DID ONCE.

When Franklin was a child of seven he was given a lot of pennies one holiday. Hastening into a nearby toyshop he voluntarily gave all he had for a whistle. A little later he discovered that he had paid four times too much for his toy. Realizing how many other things he might have had in addition, he wept with vexation and got no more pleasure from the whistle. Afterwards whenever he was tempted to make too great an outlay in time, or money, or energy, he would say to himself, "Don't pay too much for the whistle."

Lots of folks are using up all their energy on some showy thing that gives them no comfort. Some are lavishing valuable time on a few unimportant tasks. Others willingly "blow in" an entire week's salary on one evening of frivolity, robbing themselves of all manner of pleasure for an indefinite period.

Others sacrifice the best of their talents in pursuing some fruitless ambition. Still others forego the simple, natural joys of life in worshipping a snobbish ideal.

They are all paying too much for their whistle.

How is it with you? Are you paying too much for your whistle? Or are there some 1919 War Savings Stamps in your life? Franklin's picture is on them; his ideas are back of them.

A THRIFTY PAIR.

Ben Franklin was a thrifty man. To this you'll all agree. Instead of squandering what he got, he used frugality.

His wealth increased from year to year.

He won fame and position. But not alone did he succeed in gaining his ambition.

To smooth the way to help along these stood his saving wife. And 'twas this partnership of thrift Gave them a happy life.

Some folks attribute wealth to luck, this fortunate knave foundation. His luck to find a thrifty mate. Was Ben's interpretation.

There Are Just a Few Who Make Collections Costly

MOST TELEPHONE SUBSCRIBERS pay their bills promptly and the labor expended in collecting the majority of telephone accounts is, therefore, reasonable.

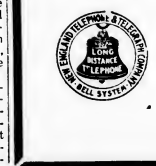

BUT THERE ARE A NUMBER of subscribers who overlook their telephone bills, who neglect to pay them within the reasonable specified time, and the labor of collecting these accounts is great—probably two or three times as great as that involved in collecting all the accounts that are paid within the desired period.

THE LABOR involved in collecting overdue accounts would be saved if all accounts were paid within a reasonable time, and, under present conditions, might better be devoted to other work of value to the community's telephone service.

We are taking this means of placing the facts before telephone subscribers in general and we feel certain that they will co-operate by paying their bills promptly.

N. WEBSTER AND NEW YORKER
DISAGREES ON DEFINITION OF WIFE'S POSITION IN HOME

Owen Johnson's Story "Virtuous Wives" Based on Problems of Modern Married Life to be Shown Here in Pictures

What is a virtuous wife? Amy Forrester, around whom Owen Johnson centers the celebrated story of "Virtuous Wives," which, in motion picture form, will be shown at the Stoneham Theatre beginning Monday, for two days, with Miss Anita Stewart as the star, declares that virtuous is essentially a state of mind. Webster's dictionary agrees with this definition, but Andrew Forrester, her husband, espouses society's "super crust" in proving his own theory.

The theme of the story and screen production, in which Miss Stewart returns to the ranks of staid life after an absence of several months, is of the modern problems of married life, the division of responsibilities; time and activities between husband and wife, the allegiance a wife nominally owes to her husband, and the extent of the trust he can place in her.

Beautiful Settings Used For Atmosphere

With the Forresters, Amy and Andrew, leaders in their social set, the atmosphere of the production is confined to scenes and locations long familiar to and patronized by New York's ultra rich. The settings are necessarily lavish and extravagantly furnished, to make accurate the replicas of the actual homes of the society personages they are intended to represent.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

February 12 and 13 the fourth of the series of conferences of the Massachusetts W. C. T. U. will be held in the Friends' Church, Silsbee street, Lynn, and representatives of all the unions in Essex, Middlesex and Norfolk counties are invited. Winchester is entitled to four delegates in addition. Mrs. Harrison goes as vice president of the Middlesex county union, and Mrs. Gleason, who will preside and make one of the addresses.

On Wednesday there will be a complimentary luncheon for the delegates and guests and that evening a stereoscopic lecture by Lily Owen Burbank of the State Board of Health, for women especially, on "The Most Important Problem in Preventive Medicine." Mrs. Gleason will speak on the "Re-adjustment of W. C. T. U. Work in Prohibition Times" and Mrs. Lois H. Rantoul will discuss "Problems of Women in Industry." Mrs. Katherine Lent Stevenson, now national superintendent of Americanization will present her department work and other speakers will include Rev. Harry E. Halsey on Anti-Narcotics, Mrs. Mary F. Frost, Child Welfare, and Miss Caroline M. Caswell, Patriotic and Social Service.

The other conferences have been very successful, Taunton, Northampton and Worcester, being the other places of meeting. A plan for equalization of fares has helped the attendance, and as all the state officers are present they have helped to unify the work and to make both officers and local workers better acquainted. The delegates from Winchester are Mrs. M. D. Kneeland, Mrs. George Arnold, Mr. Frank Roberts, and Miss Eugenia E. Elliott.

"NO SCHOOL" NO LONGER GIVEN BY TELEPHONE

After February 1, school children will have to depend upon the regular "No School" signal and not rely upon the telephone operators for this information. The telephone operators have been instructed not to give out this information on and after February 1.

Mr. Stanley E. Cook, local Commercial Manager of the company, says the giving out of this special information by operators causes a serious congestion of the service to subscribers in general, and operators at the local central office confirm this statement.

"We have tried in every possible way to give this service and at the same time to serve the general public," says Mr. Cook. "It is impossible to do this however. On stormy days the calls of the public are much heavier than under fair weather conditions."

"These calls have increased so rapidly in volume that they now congest the switchboard and make it impossible to promptly answer other calls, even emergency calls. The public naturally complains of these long delays, and after trying various expedients, which failed to remove the difficulty, we reluctantly decided that this special 'No School' service would have to be abandoned."

Clerk of Selectmen.

MR. CRAUGHWELL A CANDIDATE

Editor of the Star: As I have resided in the Town of Winchester all my life, and have been connected with the various departments for the past 25 years; namely Health, Fire, Police and Highway departments, and inasmuch as it is reported that all but two of the Selectmen will retire from the board, I have decided after a careful consideration to allow my name to be printed on the official ballot for that very important office, namely, the Honorable Board of Selectmen.

If the intelligent electorate deem it expedient to elect your humble servant, I assure you, gentlemen, that I certainly will be very grateful. I have always felt that a laborer, if elected, would be an asset to the Town. I never fail to grasp an opportunity that may broaden my viewpoint, when in doubt I always seek the opinion of others whom I deem competent to render an opinion.

Very truly yours, Patrick H. Craughwell, 33 Swanton Street.

ARTIST BRACKETT BREAKS HIS LEG

Walter M. Brackett, aged 96, dean of New England artists, well known to Winchester people as a former resident and brother of the late Edward M. Brackett, is at the local hospital suffering with a fractured leg, due to a fall in his studio at 154 Bolyton street, last Monday afternoon.

Mr. Brackett is at the hospital in the company of the artist, as at the studio when the accident occurred, summoned Dr. John Dixwell, and accompanied him to the hospital in a private ambulance. Physicians at the hospital reported last night that the aged man was "fairly comfortable."

The artist is a well known painter of fish and game subjects.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE

Now in the fourth week of its engagement at the Hollis Street Theatre, "The Better Ole" has itself well established in the hearts of theatre-goers in and about Boston. It has everyone going to see it and many talking about its original type of theatrical humor and its musical features. Neither preaching nor propaganda poisons, "The Better Ole." It aims at nothing but entertainment, and will be liked by veterans who have served their country "over there," as well as by those who never knew the dangers and privations of trench life, which this play is said to picture so amazingly well.

Songs are interpolated during the action of the play that were especially written by Herman Darewski and Percival Knight, interpreted by a large chorus of pretty girls. So there are thrills as well as thrills.

There are three modern musketeers in "The Better Ole"—Old Bill, Bert and Alf, and the audience will follow them through many trench adventures during which the rollicking humor of the British Tommy surmounts all obstacles and remains untarnished by the grime and gruesomeness of war.

PAYING THE DOCTOR.

Should It Be For Curing You or For Keeping You Sick?

We haven't yet learned to take advantage of the resources of civilization to anything like the extent we might. For instance, we pay until we get sick, and then we pay the doctor to help us get well. It would be much more sensible to pay him to help us keep from getting sick.

But the idea you say. Not at all. It already is working in a large number of college communities, right here in the state universities of Missouri and Kansas. For instance, in both institutions the pupil is charged a fee which is applied to safeguarding his health. In the University of Missouri the plan is still further developed so that the fee covers medical and surgical attendance. The health work in both schools is so interesting, not only for what it is doing for the pupils, but for the example it is setting other communities, that it is only right and proper to call attention to it.

The important point is that these universities and other schools are proving that health can be made much more of a commodity rather than had been supposed and that the wise thing to do is for groups to pay medical men to keep them well. Kansas City Star.

A WATER SPOKED TOWN.

Where Nearly a Foot of Rain Falls Every Week in the Year.

It is a remarkable fact that in India, one of the most arid countries in the world, there is a spot that has the record rainfall of the whole earth, said Dr. William Roberts, British agricultural expert in India, to a correspondent of the Washington Post.

"This place is Changanassery, in Assam. It is in the path of the monsoon and in a valley and there is almost constant rainfall."

"The average rainfall is not inches a year, or fifty feet, which is nearly a foot a week. This seems almost beyond comprehension when it is considered that the rainfall of the United States, for instance, ranges from sixteen to thirty-five inches. In some places there has been as high as sixty inches of water in a year, but this is the exception."

"During the rainy season in Changanassery the water is heaviest, but there is rain throughout the year. So, notwithstanding the terrific moisture, the inhabitants of the district raise vegetables and grain. They do this by building terraces which carry the water off."

Jam Started as Medicine.

Jam in its early days seems to have been regarded as possessing medicinal properties. Galt in "Annals of the Pacific" notes in new history that got to among the common ailments about 1700, the young men that were suffering going to Jamaica and the West Indies brought home, while many, among the sailors, in their yards, had plenty of berry bushes, which two things had joined together the fashions of making jam and jelly came to be introduced into the village. It was found that jelly was an excellent medicine for a sore throat and jam a remedy as good as London candy for a cough or a cold or a shortness of breath. "Did it ever occur to you that 'Jam' was abbreviated from Jamaica?" London Spectator.

When Hubby Fooled Her.

Mrs. Scatterbrain was constantly bemoaning her lot. Her husband, who was entitled to place half the letters of the alphabet after his name, had the most forgetful memory in the world. He could remember nothing his wife told him, in spite of bits of string around his finger and knots in his handkerchief. They were old Mr. Scatterbrain remember to do his wife's bidding.

Said a friend to Mrs. Scatterbrain: "I think you are getting as bad as your hubby. I got a note from you yesterday dated a whole week ahead."

"Heavens!" gasped Mrs. Scatterbrain, trembling with the shock. "My husband must have posted it the very day I gave it to him!" Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Cold Rice.

Cold rice should never be thrown away even the smallest quantity can be used. It can be added to any soup. A good omelet can be made from a mixture of minced meat and rice added to the eggs. It can be used in a dessert in the form of a plain rice pudding or a rice custard. Left over meat can be chopped and mixed with cold rice, then moistened with gravy and put in a baking dish. Cover with bread crumbs and bake.

Beyond Repair.

"What happened to you down the road?"

"I ruined a tire on a nonrefillable bottle."

"One of those bottles with a patent stopper?"

"No; just the ordinary kind, broken into about fifty pieces." Birmingham Age-Herald.

A Long Reach.

"I thought I put that vase out of baby's reach."

"Well, he yelled for it," explained dad. "What his attraction for such things will." London Courier-Journal.

A Time Killer.

"I've got an hour or two to kill. I wish I knew what to do."

"Just go over and ask Brown how the new baby is getting along."

FRENCH SHARE FOOD WITH OUR BOYS

Extend Hospitality of Their Tables Even When Food Must Be Taken From Next Day's Supply.

Invitations extended American soldiers to dine with French families were declined in many instances a letter to A. C. Hatzschky of the State Food Administration says for the reason that by accepting the boys knew they would be eating food taken from the French people's next meal. "Under such conditions the usefulness of the French family in offering hospitality to the American doughboys calls for the highest admiration," said Mr. Hatzschky. "That spirit of hospitality should be equalled by our people here."

"Civilian France," says Mr. Hatzschky, "thrive doubly in obtaining food supplies which for the most part are needed for the army and for the refugees. The food supply of France, he points out, flows in three directions: first into the military area, second the largest cities and third and last into the rest of the country."

Food production there has been dropping steadily during the past four years, with the work of tilling the soil and gathering harvests left to old men, women and children. Now that the growing season is over the country is dependent upon outside sources for its food supply.

The Food Administration asks, therefore, that the people of Massachusetts feel the necessity of continuing the saving of every particle of food possible for those who need it so much.

REGULATIONS LIFTED FROM EATING PLACES

War time restrictions placed on the serving of food in restaurants and hotels last October will be removed tomorrow and patrons of the establishments allowed to order food in any amount they desire, an announcement from the office of Food Administrator Henry H. Emhoff states.

With the open sugar bowl and all wheat flour already restored, the lifting of the regulations, known as the "twelve general orders," now allows the diner to eat as much bread, meat, butter, cheese and other food as he desires. During the period of restrictions consumption of wheat bread had been limited to two ounces a person a meal, butter and cheese was restricted to portions not exceeding one-half ounce, only one kind of meat was allowed, double cream was prohibited and similar regulations placed on favorite items on the menu. All these are now rescinded.

DIET AND DISEASE.

Rickets in Children Is Caused by the Wrong Kind of Foods.

"Howards of gliding young children to much pasteurized milk, proprietary feed or even cereals is the exclusion of brook bread and butter, stewed fruit or roasted apple and a little meat once a day," writes Dr. Beverley Robinson of New York in a warning note about rickets in the New York Medical Journal.

He adds that he is considering especially children two or three years old who are healthy and vigorous unless rickets develops markedly because of faulty dieting. And he quotes the following from Osler:

"Like scurvy, rickets may be found in the families of the wealthy under perfect hygienic conditions. It is most common in children fed on condensed milk, the various proprietary foods, cow's milk and food rich in starches."

Rickets is the rick of knee-knees and bowlegs. It is due to too little animal fat and protein in the diet, together with too little lime salts.

Curious Choice of a Wife.

Some years ago an English curate surprised his parishioners by marrying a widow considerably older than himself. The astonishment was still greater when the curate was known. The curate had become engaged to a young girl whose frivolous conduct soon led him to regret the step. He offered a settlement for his release, but it was refused. He endeavored in every way to break the engagement, but without success.

"Is there nothing I can do to escape this?" he exclaimed one day in despair. "Yes," remarked the girl's mother, who was present and who had been the prime mover in the marriage negotiations, "by marrying me."

The curate decided if he had to marry the most and accepted her. The young girl married a wealthy stock broker.

Unkind Wit.

The desire to shun by delivering himself of a crushing retort all too often leads the witty individual into excesses that seriously offend charity and not rarely justice as well.

A wit that is unkind is not a gift to be proud of. It usually belongs to a discontented and spiteful person who apart from these fillings would be a very nice friend, but the biting wit in which he prides himself keeps every body at a distance. While we despise the person who is ready to agree to anything one may say, it is rather better to have that continual din of green and stinging wit.—Exchange

One Was Overlooked.

Father says he doesn't recall that the kind to Animals Week brought him any unusual attention.—Toledo Blade.

FOOD SAVED BY WOMEN MADE VICTORY POSSIBLE

But for the large saving of food by the Women of Massachusetts and other parts of the country, American troops would still be battling in France. Henry H. Hatzschky, in a recent statement, declared. He continues: "Without the food the people of the United States sent to Europe, the morale of the allies would have weakened and that of the enemy strengthened." Women continue even now in their households despite the fact that the war is over. The food administration has supreme confidence they will do this.

The Administration points to the vital need of conserving everything possible, in order that nothing shall be wasted. The lifting of the regulations places the people of Massachusetts on their honor to help fulfill the promise made to the Allies, the Administration asserts, that food will continue to be shipped until it is no longer needed.

BIG OUTPUT OF WINTER EGGS ASKED FOR

An urgent necessity exists for a large output of eggs this winter. Storage stocks are 21 per cent less than a year ago and are rapidly being consumed.

The United States must share its egg output and its storage eggs with Europe.

Importation of Chinese dried eggs stopped in February 1918, and bakers are now using shell eggs, thus adding to demand.

Every farm poultry house in the United States should be made a better factory this winter. Consult your county agent, state experiment station or the U. S. Department of Agriculture for best methods.

What "Slow" Accounts Mean

"SLOW" ACCOUNTS mean something more than the mere matter of delay in receiving payment of bills.

THEY MEAN DUPLICATION OF EFFORT, the maintenance of records and additional office work that would be unnecessary if such accounts were paid within the reasonable specified time.

BUT MOST OF ALL they mean that labor which might be devoted to necessary tasks essential to the comfort, convenience and efficiency that you derive from your telephone service, is wasted on what should be unnecessary tasks.

AT THIS TIME IT IS DESIRABLE that unnecessary labor be eliminated as much as possible so that the output of necessary labor may be increased.

Subscribers who pay their telephone bills promptly help to conserve labor at a time when the conservation of all labor is a national necessity.

THE RIVER RHINE

FORTNIGHTLY NEWS

On Monday afternoon, Feb. 10, occurs the annual musicale of the club, under the direction of the Music Committee. The program will consist of a concert and recital by Pauline Corolla, soprano and Riccardo Bonelli, baritone, assisted by Ruth Collingbourne, violinist, and Marion Hyde, pianist and accompanist. These artists come to us highly recommended. Press notices from many cities speak most appreciatively of their work before other audiences. As a child Miss Corolla's amazingly high, clear voice gave promise of the work she should do later. She has studied abroad at two different periods, as well as with some of our best teachers. Mr. Bonelli has, also, spent some time abroad. During these years of study he was the pupil of Jean de Reszke, who had arranged for Mr. Bonelli's debut in Italy during the winter of 1913-1915, but like many others, his plans were rudely upset by the great War. He returned to America and has sung successfully some fifteen operatic roles, touring many cities in Eastern United States, Canada, and Cuba. Miss Collingbourne and Miss Hyde were well chosen to assist Miss Corolla and Mr. Bonelli. It is said of Miss Collingbourne that she is "an excellent violinist. Her tone is beautiful, and her technique adequate to the demands of any composer." Miss Hyde "possesses in her musical resources the ability to play an excellent solo program, and is a most skillful accompanist."

The chairman of the Music Committee announces that there will be the usual Community singing at the beginning of the meeting, and as a large number of the song leaflets have disappeared, she strongly urges that members who have taken them from the hall by mistake, return them at this meeting. Those who wish to own these copies may obtain them at the door for ten cents each.

At this time a matter which should interest every club member comes to us. The last check sent by The Fortnightly treasurer to the local Red Cross was returned because that organization has now sufficient funds to complete its work. The club will therefore, have at its disposal, the money voted last year to the Red Cross. What shall be done with it? Shall the usual number of meetings be held until the close of the club year? Shall it be devoted to other philanthropies? The officers of the club wish the members to consider these questions carefully, and make the business meeting prepared to discuss them.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Twenty years ago this month Frances E. Willard was "promoted" to the higher life and since then the members of the W. C. T. U. have observed the meeting nearest February 17, as a memorial to her. A fund to which each member is asked to contribute at least two dollars has been created and it is to be furthered by the work of the society which owes so much to her vision and inspiration. Winchester has always had a share in this work and will devote a part of its meeting on Friday, February 11, to Miss Willard's memory and as forward work has asked the new county superintendent of Sunday Schools and Temperance, Mrs. M. L. Manthorne, of Somerville, to speak on "How to Make the Sunday Schools a Force for Temperance." The meeting will be held in the vestry of the First Congregational Church and all interested are cordially invited to be present. The meeting is for three days. Reports from the Lyon Conference will also be given.

At the meeting of the executive committee of the union the following superintendents were appointed for the current year: Flower Mission and Relief, Mrs. J. C. Adams; Sunday School, Miss Cassie Sands; Our Parents, Miss Eugenia Elliott; Science Temperance Instruction and Media Contests, Mrs. Bortha Holton; Soldiers and Sailors, Mrs. Robert Brown; Press, Mrs. W. H. Tracy; Legislative, Mrs. G. H. Hamilton. One or two others will be appointed later.

The National W. C. T. U. is planning a Million Dollar Drive for the early summer but as Massachusetts had its drive last year and has contributed its quota to nearly all the objects for which the appeal is made, it will not take part in the general attack but will do its work in other ways, as will the other forerunners.

K. OF C. NOTES

The exemplification of the first degree on the new members of the Council, Sunday afternoon, impressed the recipients, also the brothers attending. The chancellor performed his duties in a manner which called for praise by the visiting K. of C's. The warden added to the occasion as his long experience in degree work showed. The work of the other officers of the Council was creditable and in all it was a splendid first degree.

The new members are enthusiastic and hope to be able to take their next step in Columbianism soon. The Council is desirous of helping these brothers and will, within a short time, hold a second degree.

The Daughters of Isabella invite the Council to help them in an event which will be held in the hall, Wednesday evening, Feb. 10th. The affair is to be held in the interest of "The Light of Small Nations for Self-Determination," of which Ireland is one. Honorable Patrick J. Duane, U. S. Marshal, and formerly mayor of Baltimore, is the gentleman who can throw some light on this present day topic. All residents are invited to attend and also bring their friends.

In reading over the honor roll in the Council Chamber, we find twenty-five of our brothers still in active membership—seven members have been honorably discharged. We are anxious to show them our appreciation. As yet no definite plans have been formulated as to the greater part of the brothers are back with us, a "do-over" will be tendered them which will be a remembrance for years to come in our town. This subject should be taken up at our next meeting and plans perfected.

The play and dance committee announces that their efforts will be directed in producing the play entitled "Stop Thief" on the evening of March 17th. Mr. Charles Harrold is the director and no doubt it will be an excellent play as all his products have been. The cast has been made up and as there will be bound to be a few changes the name will be published later. Brother Lake P. Glendon, chairman of the committee believes the play to be out of the ordinary run of amateur shows and will take well.

Chief Machinist Mate, William F. Leonard, of the U. S. S. Astorock, was in town on furlough this week. His ship was in the dangerous work of laying mines; in fact it helped put down the North Sea mine barrage, which proved a successful barrier for the German U. boats.

Corporal Edward G. Boyle writes that the remains of our late brother, Augustus Leonard, who was killed in action, are interred in a cemetery, and the grave marked, in a small village named Nantolais, France.

Bro. "Pet" Cullen has been detailed to the commandant's office at the Charlestown Navy Yard. A sailor's joy—remains remarked.

Brothers Dan Keane and Robert Donnelly arrived in New York Monday afternoon from overseas. They have been away a year and a half and are delighted at the thoughts of home and the fun they are going to have.

Dr. Charles F. McCarthy, our examining physician, has had his time pretty well taken up with our insurance candidates, examining them and still attending to his regular duties. A few of the candidates have found the examination quite rigid, in fact a little too stiff, which is a good sign the doctor is living up to his reputation for thoroughness.

Brother John S. O'Leary wants to know why it is that so few of our members are interested in calisthenics.

James Smyner, who is in Germany, started for the sea coast for home, but he has himself swinging around the compass, heading for Berlin and working as hard as ever. William Rogers was last heard from in New York and at that time was very lucky, as his brother met him, and so states.

Sergeant John Leonard is a locomotive engineer over in France. Someone said that they hoped "Jack" would blow four toots of the whistle so the "Shack" on the rear would not be left behind.

John Maguire, stationed at Camp Devens, which has been a soldier's home for him, is resting comfortably and expects to be retired from active service soon.

Sergeant Daniel Hanlon is still enjoying army life as his letters show. Some of us won't know Han when he returns, as he has developed physically to a marked degree. Come on home boys we are waiting.

Edward Leahy, stationed at Pelham Bay, is checking in the boys from overseas. Brother Ed was always a good poker player. When is your next move Ed?

What is a "highbrow" we were asked yesterday by a member, and our opinion was, someone who thought they were better and knew a little more than the average person. It didn't jibe with our brother's view. He thought in a few cases it was the selfish motives of the individual played in the open. It may be so brother, but when it comes to the jumping off spot we all are on the same level and know as much, so why not be so now, instead of waiting for the inevitable.

The regular meeting of the Council will be held on Monday evening in the Council Room at 8 o'clock promptly. Important business of the Council is to be transacted. All members, new and old, are requested to be on hand.

We have made a start and are progressing. Let's keep the good work going. We want to be at the top this year and to do so, must increase our ranks 100 per cent. Be a K. of C. now and forever. Come. "Watch us grow!"

TELEPHONE NUMBER 29.

With deep sorrow we record
this week the death of Theodore P. Wilson, editor and proprietor of the STAR. A truly self-made man, he entered upon his life work at the early age of fourteen, and in quick passing his worthiness to carry out every trust conferred upon him, he rose through the ranks of the foremost Boston newspaper of his day until he started his own paper in this town, which has grown and prospered with the community, under his able and unfailing and untiring labor. No better portrayal of his character and worth can be found than the paper which he published.
His policy always held the community first and its columns never held material to give any member pain or shame. The prosperity and growth of Winchester has in a large measure been due to his newspaper, and the recognition of this by the residents has enabled the newspaper to advance and retain its position at the head of public affairs. Of a quiet and unassuming disposition, his absence will be noted by many, for his work brought him in touch with all sections and all classes of the community. He was a citizen. The endeavor of his new proprietor will be to continue in his footsteps and carry on his work as a credit to his example.

OLD FELLOWS MATCH

The regular weekly match in the Old Fellows triangle was held last night on the Winchester at the STAR Building. The scores proved to be the best yet rolled in the league and among the highest rolled in any team match this far this winter.
Team 1 took three firsts, team 2 got one first, team 3 and two seconds and team 4 a like number. Graham rolled a fine match with a score of 325, a string of 115, Dutton got 200 on 112, Mellott 205 on 110, Fisher 205 on 101, Hersey made 111 for a single and Amber 105.

George R. McLeod DEAD

George Rankin McLeod, a former well known resident of this town, died at Sackville, N. S., last night of heart failure. He was found dead on the street after leaving his desk at the Tribune office where he was employed. He was 40 years of age.

For a number of years Mr. Mc-Leod was a resident here, he being employed as a telegrapher by the Boston & Maine Railroad and being stationed at the tower at the crossing. He lived here with his mother, brother and sister. He was a nephew of Miss Fanny J. Bowser, who formerly ran the drug goods store on Pleasant street, and also of Miss Sara E. Bowser, who resides on Winthrop street.

On the outbreak of the war he enlisted, going to France, and seeing much active service, for a time being with the "Princess Patrol". He won the commission of lieutenant on the field of action and was recommended for the D. S. O. for courage, endurance and executive ability in battle.

The funeral services were held on Wednesday.

Rev. Timothy J. Donovan of Lincoln street, who has been doing Christian work in the South, sailed yesterday from New York on the U. S. Pass-burg, to do transport duty as Chaplain of that boat.

A petition was presented to the Selectmen on Monday night by the men of the Fire Department asking for an increase of Fifty Dollars ($50.00) per year in the salaries paid the call men. This petition was signed by all the call men in the Department. The Board voted to recommend to the Town that the salaries of the call men of the Winchester Fire Department be increased from $100 to $125 per year. The Clerk was instructed to notify the Finance Committee of this action taken by the Board.

THE SALARY INCREASE FOR CALL FIREMEN

Editor of the Star.

An article in the editorial column of last week's STAR no doubt informed the majority of the inhabitants of our town that the call men of the Fire Department were after an increase in their salaries. If that were all that was said yours truly wouldn't worry, but there was a slight increase in the article that, as far as I can ascertain, no member of the Department seems to know the meaning of namely:—"That the men should present their petition to the Finance Committee, if not too late, and not put an article in the Town Warrant, to be used as a lever to hold up some other article, probably to the dement of what the men are seeking."

There may have been some talk of putting an article in the Warrant, but the majority of the call men seem to know anything about it. If put in, we feel to see in what manner our insignificant force of twenty-two men could do much, putting into any other article toward holding it up. I have been in the Department quite a few years as call man, and I can't remember there being any "pols" members of the Department during my time.
Also the men were always more or less lax in taking the interest they should in town affairs, and I don't think there is a man in the whole crowd who would know how to go about canvassing votes for his own article, let alone getting mixed up in any other one. Enough said about the leaver business.

Now, the men have been talking, at different times, about going after a little more pay, and a week or so ago, started a petition asking for same.
They presented their petition to whom?
They considered the proper person;
namely, their chief, with a request that he recommend it if he saw fit, and present it to the proper authorities to act on. They were willing to abide by the decision of said authorities, only hoping that they might have the privilege of explaining their reasons for the request. As far as known at the present writing, the petition either has or will be presented. In regard to the lateness of this request, probably about seventy-five percent of our inhabitants know that a man belonging to the Fire Department is more or less of what is commonly called a "mutt"; if a call man, probably more, "more" than "less."
Now, as the men, of course, have a man, and that man is talking the feeling every time they get an opportunity. They think of nothing but the fact that together last fire night, big fires, last fire night equipment, etc. Now all "mutts" unless in the violent way have a few hard moments at times, when they are able to think of something else besides the thing that is making them "mutts".
During their brief intervals, on instant, a couple of call men of our Department would come to a realization of the fact that the pay they were receiving was not commensurate with the services rendered or the risks sustained as members of an up-to-the-minute Fire Department. The only trouble was, there was no one to advise them to get their brief intervals at the same time, so as to be able to start something. For a week or so ago a few of them, together, and forgetting fires, etc., for a few minutes, started the ball rolling.

It is a very momentous question to decide, as there are but fourteen points to it, and the committee deciding it all speak the same tongue.
There is only one of two things to settle, the one is, the other is, the fact that they do not. In deciding it we feel that the fact that fires in our town have been kind of quiet the past year should not be taken into consideration.
Fire is in the world, lightning being a foregone conclusion in comparison with it, and a continuing sky a few intermittent flashes portend the lightning storm to follow, but no man living knows when, where, or how, fire is to strike. It matters not if the day be clear as a bell, or raining pitchforks. It matters not if it be a bright moonlight night or as dark as the inside of an undershirt pocket. It matters not if the day be hot or the night be 70 degrees below zero. It matters not what condition of time, weather, or anything else, you are apt to hear the also danger of the fire alarm, telling you something has started and help is wanted.

No man can say that because we had only seventy or eighty alarms last year, we may not have two or three hundred this year.

A few years ago this winter I don't believe there was a week but what we were turned out one or more nights to an alarm. This condition may happen again this year. There has been nothing done or can be done that will insure this town or any other town against the liability of having fires.
Therefore it is not fair to quote what we had last year or the year before and expect it to be a criterion of what we may have this year or next.

Now, as to reasons why we are entitled to a little more at the present time than we have been receiving years past. It is an easy matter for a man to run a pair of shoes or a suit of clothes at a fire. A few years ago the shoes could be replaced for $3.50 or $4.00, and a fair suit, such as a Call Man of the Fire Department could be replaced for $18.00 to $20.00.
The shoes today are a bargain at $7.00 or $8.00, and what was a $20.00 suit could possibly be purchased today for $40.00.

Another thing, the pay of the average call man for his other work a few years ago was $12.00 to $15.00 per week. These same men are now getting $18.00 to $20.00 a week. A day lost at a fire means $2.00 to $2.50, and it means $1.00 to $1.50, and I can state personally one week a few years ago, when the West Side works were burning.

There is no legitimate business, the other three and one-half being put in on my side here, the Fire Department. My profits that quarter member of the Fire Department, were about $3.00 short of being seventeen cents.

Again, the fire fighting job is considered more or less dangerous and a man is apt to be injured or taken sick on account of work at a fire and be laid up anywhere from a couple of weeks to several months. A few years ago a member of our own Department was seriously injured while at drill, and wasn't able to attend to his regular occupation for over a year. A couple of years ago a man could be laid up and probably wouldn't go in the hole more than $50.00 or $60.00 a week, today he would have to have a mighty small family to keep from going $100.00 to $150.00 a week in the hole, and after a few months he would probably want somebody to fill in the hole and let him stay there.
His chances of getting out would be mighty slim.

Another thing, most of our surrounding towns have seen the fairness of granting their firemen more pay and have done so, our neighboring town of Arlington paying $175.00 a year to their call men, Melford also paying $175.00 a year. And, there may be others. Melford the past year has paid quite a few alarins. I remember a while ago when I was at the Melford alarm coming in would come in a decent talk, among the "nuts" when they would congregate, as it was quite a rare thing to hear. These are only a few reasons why we think we are entitled to the increase.

You have all heard different men say, "I wouldn't belong to the Fire Department and turn out on a cold night for $500.00 a year." Of course they wouldn't and we wouldn't either, if we weren't "nuts." The trouble is the "nuts" are getting scarce, and unlike "Tin Lizzie," the Fire Department cannot drop more than a dozen or so without becoming seriously crippled.
Ask our Chief if he has more than four or five filing cabinets full of likely candidates for call men for his Department.

A hundred dollars a year doesn't pay a large now as it did a few years ago, but I think it never did look very good, especially when one is stricken with a disabling malady.

I don't feel to explain the fact that the call men of the Department are not to mix up with any "pols" in the town, and I don't put something else through along with what they want.
And I hope I have made myself clear.
Anyway, I will close, hoping the Finance Committee can see the validity of our claim and that the voters will ratify it in Town Meeting.

Yours respectfully,
One of the "Nuts,"

TO SPEAK ON ROOSEVELT

Hon. Joseph E. Warner at First Congregational Church Sunday Morning

Next Sunday morning at the usual hour of service, Hon. Joseph E. Warner, speaker of the House of Representatives, will give an address on Theodore Roosevelt, in connection with a service of call men of the First Congregational Church.
The Boy Scouts, troop 1 and 2 will attend in a body, and Mr. Chidley will give a short address to them on "The Boy's Roosevelt."

There will be special music appropriate to the occasion. The public is invited to join in this memorial service. Worship at 10:30.

At the evening service, 7 p.m., Mr.
Chidley will continue his series of popular Sunday evening addresses on "The Boy's Roosevelt." Mr. Chidley will speak on "Joshua, the Pioneer."

Miss Elizabeth E. Pullen of Norwich, Conn., has been engaged as church assistant. Miss Pullen is a graduate of Norwich Academy, and has been a leader for the Women's Board of Missions. She has also had charge of the Girls' Camp of the Foreign Missionary Conference at field, Maine, for the past five years.
She is one of the two representatives of the Congregational denomination for the Interdenominational Communication of the Summer School at Northfield, Mass.

Miss Pullen will have an office in the church, and will act as clerical assistant to Mr. Chidley. She will devote most of her time, however, to the young people's work in the church, working in the Sunday School and other young people's organizations for the religious education of the young. The growth of the church during the last three years is due to a membership of more than hundred people has made it necessary to engage someone to take care of the detail of Mr. Chidley's shoulders.

Miss Pullen has had a thorough training in young people's work, and it is anticipated that her influence will be felt in bringing in modern methods of religious education. The church school will be made one of the best organized in the state.

Mr. John Adams Love will succeed Mr. George S. Cabot as superintendent of the Sunday school and Mr. T. Grafton Abbott will be assistant superintendent. Mr. Love is a member of the State Library Commission.

REPORT ON SCHOOLS

Extracts of Interest From Superintendent's Annual Statement

We print this week an extract from the report of the Superintendent of Schools, and it is the first of the series of reports of the year. The report is issued monthly. This report is always of interest to all parents, and this year's is especially so.

The annual report of the Superintendent of Schools is herewith presented. It is the thirty-sixth in the series of reports of the year. The present Superintendent, inasmuch as I took charge of the schools on April 15, and from that time until June 30, divided my time equally between the towns of Winchester and West Springfield, the actual time the schools have been in session under my charge has been but little more than half the actual school year.

In addition to the usual review of the year's work, this report will contain a discussion of school buildings, Junior High School, High School enrollment and a special study of the results of the year.

The year that has just closed, affected profoundly as it has been by the war, has witnessed many changes in school organization and program. During the past year there have been fourteen resignations of teachers and nine requests for leave of absence that have been granted, while nineteen new teachers have been elected and nine transfers have been made. The loss of a large number of teachers has been an experience which Winchester has shared with many other towns in the State.

The loss of teachers has been especially felt in the supervising force. The following positions have been made vacant:

Supervisor of Schools,
Supervisor of Home Gardens,
One elementary School Principal,
Two Supervisors of Physical Training, Supervisor of Music,
Head of the Household Arts Department,

Head of the Science Department. A large proportion of new teachers and supervisors has made the problem of organization and supervision especially difficult. In fact, the shortage of teachers has been general and so acute that it has been only by the use of margin, that Winchester has escaped a serious impairment of school efficiency and it was only owing to our being able to fill the higher salaries than some other communities that we were able to fill positions made vacant by teachers.

The key to the situation, of course, is found in the one word, salary.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY PARTY

The Calumet Club announced this week that it will hold open house on Washington's Birthday. During the morning bowling, pool, billiard and card matches will be held informally as has been customary and a program has been arranged for the afternoon and evening.

At 2 o'clock there is to be an elaborate children's party. This will be held in the hall at the club and will consist of a program which will entertain the young folks of the members.

The key to the situation, of course, is found in the one word, salary. The entertainment for the evening is not being announced, other than that it is to be of a novel nature. The committee is reported to have gone to considerable trouble in arranging this program and will keep its attractive features secret. It is anticipated, however, that dancing will follow the entertainment.

BRUSH FIRES NUMEROUS

Brush fires during the past week have been numerous, due to the continued lack of rain and the dry, tinderlike material in the woods and fields. The fire department had a number of minor alarms to answer none of which was serious.

On Saturday evening at 6.25 a grass fire near the sign for the Main street at the Blue-south shanty on Cutter Hill called the firemen out, and at 9.55 a telephone call from the town stable on Lake street took it out again for the barn on the old Holt estate on Main street. This is now owned by Mrs. Catherine Murray. The barn was evidently set on fire and the blaze was extinguished with hand chemicals before it had made much headway.

Sunday forenoon at 11.20 burning grass on Chester road, caused by blowing paper from a bon fire, called the chemical out again.

On Monday forenoon 7.02 was scumpled for a fire in the woods on Border road, the alarm coming in at 12.55. At one o'clock, just as the all-out for this fire was being sound, an alarm was rung in for a fire in the field at Chisholm road. Neither fire did much damage.

The fire Tuesday at 12.20 at the rear of Hemmingsway street was the worst of the lot, endangering surrounding property to such an extent that it was feared that it might be able to wipe the place down before leaving it.

On Wednesday forenoon at 11.10 a fire was started by a bon fire on grass on Everett avenue near Sheffield West. There was no damage.

Yesterday forenoon at 10.15 a telephone alarm called the firemen out for a fire in the field at Brookside road for burning grass, and at 10.40 an alarm from box 572 took the chemical and chief's car on a long trip to the West Side hills for a fire in a pile of lumber on the Hutchinson place. There is a saw mill there and some of the finished lumber took fire. Wolcott answers this fire with a pump, which operating from a nearby well, pumped water on the fire for some time. The lumber was destroyed.

COURT HONORS MR. ELLER'S MEMORY

Hon. Samuel W. Metcalf Pass Tribute to Former Friend and Townsman

Former President William H. Taft and many other men high in official profession gathered on Saturday in the full bench courtroom of the supreme court to pay tribute to the memory of Samuel J. Eller, with whom most of them had been associated in cases and in law for 10 years or so that he practiced law.

Justice Braly presided at a special sitting of the court, held at the request of the Boston Bar Association, to receive its memorial. Inside the enclosure were Judges DeCoursey, Crosby and Pierce and former Justices Henry S. Shedd, all of the supreme court, and Justices Wait, Jenney, Hitchcock, Mortimer, Raymond and Keating and John F. Brown of the superior court. The court room was crowded. Seated, if ever, have so many prominent lawyers from all parts of Massachusetts gathered in the courtroom.

In the gathering were the three daughters of Mr. Eller.

Alfred Hemenway, former president of the Boston Bar Association, presented the memorial. Addresses were made by former President Taft, former Governor Samuel W. Metcalf, Hon. Samuel W. Metcalf, Hon. Thomas W. Proctor, Samuel L. Powers and Justice Braly, who received the memorial for the court.

Hon. Samuel W. Metcalf of this town, a close friend of Mr. Eller's for many years, spoke as follows in paying tribute to his departed friend:

"I fear that I am fitted to do but scant justice to the career of a friend of my friend, for I was far less in touch with him than were most of you when he was winning his way among you. But a long friendship enabled me to know something of the character of his mind, and that of a moment the basic quality of his character, and the nature of his outlook upon the world. We know him as a man who was a man of law, knowledge, self-mastery, judgment, tact, eloquence and that industry which is the mother not only of success but of the highest quality of success. We know that he was a wise counselor, that he was a wise lawyer, that he was a wise man."

He spoke of the high quality of his character, and the nature of his outlook upon the world. ## OUR MARINE CORPS.

It is a Fully Equipped All Around Efficient Little Army.

Do you know the definition of the word "corps"? If you do your knowledge over the man in the street is considerable for the word in itself signifies a large fighting force so completely equipped in all its arms that it can act as an independent army. And that is what our marine corps is, a fully equipped fighting force, complete in infantry, artillery, armor, signal service, engineers, medical, aviation, aviation and hospital service.

The varied nature of the marine's duties is reflected in the dress uniform, its dainty peaked "dixie". The trousers are the color of the Infantry, but the strap is red, like that on the uniform of the artillery. His coat is a dark military blue, but if he wears chevrons on it they are yellow like a cavalryman's. As an example of com-moditization his cap device bears a resemblance of half the globe. An eagle with outspread wings surmounts the globe, and a faded anchor shows in the background. To "red" a marine at a glance whatever his uniform or his rank look on the front of the hat or the cap for that globe. It is the distinguishing emblem of a marine the world over.

Great Britain is the only other power that has in our sense of the word a real marine corps, and the cap device of the British marine also has a globe in the center of the design.
Charles Phelps Cushing in New York Independent.

A FAITHFUL HORSE.

Paul Revere's Sturdy Stead Fastly Entitled to Fame.

Paul Revere's name was made immortal when he rode from Boston to Lexington and Concord warning the patriots along the way of the British approach, and his fame has been securely enshrined in the hearts of all Americans.

Historians have honored themselves in honoring him. Poets have found inspiration in praising him. He is an idol of childhood, an example in the prime of manhood and a shining memory of old age.

How few characters boom up like great peaks above the mountain ranges of time.

And Paul Revere was one of those.
He was one of the precious few great enough to grasp an opportunity to do an heroic deed so manly.

But while we are deserved glory to Paul Revere let us no longer forget that there was another hero in that wild midnight ride.

There was the horse
"Any other horse might have done as well," you think. Well, so might any other man have done as well perhaps.
So might we disparage any hero.

But the fact remains that it was Paul Revere and Paul Revere's horse that did it. And the hard work fell on the horse. But for the one horse's faithfulness Paul Revere would have been a failure. Christian Herald.

Winchester Court, No. 225 M. C.
O. F. will hold a 4th and Degree Party in the Parochial School, Friday evening, February 14th, with Mrs. J.
Murray as chairman.

REPORT ON SCHOOLS

On the first of December, the School Committee acting with the approval of the Finance Committee made increase in the salary schedule amounting to $1000. Although this increase was a relatively small one compared with the more general increase in the cost of living, it enabled us to retain a number of our teachers who had received offers to go elsewhere at a higher salary and promises to relieve to a limited extent the economic disadvantages under which our teachers work. Whether the salaries we pay at present will enable us to hold our position is problematical, depending somewhat on the tendency of prices to rise or fall.

But this question is larger than that merely of securing teachers for our own local schools. Our ability to secure teachers of desirable personality and training is dependent not only upon our ability to pay but upon the general supply of teachers available and their quality. Whether or not we can secure desirable teachers depends upon the supply of teachers to be had, and the supply depends upon the number and the qualifications of those entering the profession. In this particular Winchester has a duty to perform by setting the example of paying adequate teachers' salaries. The schools can never be safe from incompetency until the teaching profession is made attractive enough to draw to it teachers who have the ability to make it efficient.

War work in the schools has been carried on with untold vigor, directly and indirectly, teachers and pupils have done their share in the many activities of war support. They have given their time and their thought and their money liberally. A book could be written on war activities in this work has been made truly educative and teachers have not forgotten to emphasize the permanent lessons these activities have taught. Especially has this been true in the War Savings Stamp Campaign. Our work has also included work for the Fuel Administration, for the Food Administration and the raising of War Gardens.

On account of the shortage of fuel, the School Committee, at the request of the Fuel Board, decided to close the open window and screened window rooms for the year. The reason for this was that these rooms were requiring considerably more fuel than ordinary school rooms. Whether these rooms are reopened under former conditions or not, the lessons to be learned from them in the way of heating and ventilating should not be lost, but applied generally to all the schools. Children are able to do better work, are healthier and happier when working in a lower temperature necessary for health and comfort.

Table I shows the character of our buildings. From this it will be seen that, with the exception of the Wadleigh School, they are all wooden structures of a type that has served its usefulness and will probably never be duplicated. They may be characterized in somewhat the same way that the French railways have been characterized by "Poor but useful."

The fact that the location and character of our school buildings does not conform to a modern plan is, of course, no criticism on the town. School buildings of a similar type are quite common in New England communities. These small buildings are costly to keep in repair, costly to heat and difficult to ventilate. And there are, in addition to the foregoing, other considerations such as fire hazard, belching, sanitation, that render them inferior to buildings constructed according to the more recent requirements of good school architecture. What has been said, however, does not imply any criticism of the upkeep of these buildings. This has been looked after as carefully and as successfully as has been possible under the circumstances. They are in about as good condition as could be expected.

It may confidently be expected that in the period of reconstruction following the war, population and school attendance will rapidly increase. Winchester as a residential town, will appeal even more than it has in the past to those who seek desirable homes for their children. While the town would probably not wish to abandon these buildings at once, it certainly is time to plan for housing school children in the future.

It is certain that Winchester would not want to lose the opportunity to move in the right direction in this matter, while she is progressing so finely in other matters of civic improvement.

Table II shows a more ideal distribution of elementary schools. With such a distribution, practically all pupils would attend the same school through the first six grades, and only in exceptional cases would pupils be required to walk farther than at present.

The seventh and eighth grades would naturally be consolidated in the Wadleigh building, as at present, offering a fine opportunity for the working out of a Junior High School organization in the lower grades, relieving expense and increasing efficiency.

Several years ago Winchester tried a program in the upper grades of the grammar school that had in its germ the Junior High School idea. The experiment was not altogether unsuccessful, if we take the testimony of teachers who were in the High School at that time. There was a loss, however, of effectiveness in the teaching of the fundamental subjects, and it was abandoned. The program as carried out at that time lacked in its administration and organization the definiteness of purpose and adjustment of means to ends that characterize the modern Junior High School.

Under the war motive there has developed in the community and in the schools a spirit of unity before unknown. This spirit of unity is a national asset that it will be a misfortune to lose. If it could be preserved and utilized in achieving the ends of peace rather than those of war it would make up in part for the destruction and losses of the war. It is for us now to turn our attention resolutely to the problems of reconstruction. As the school adjusted its program to meet the problems of the war, so must it adjust its program to meet the problems of reconstruction.

Our school system is characterized by small schools distributed rather unevenly throughout the town. These schools were built as occasion seemed to demand from year to year without regard to any definite plan. They constitute a rural rather than an urban type of school organization. At the same time the destiny of population in Winchester and the school population are about the same as found in the better residential sections of cities. For purposes of school organization, Winchester is a small city.

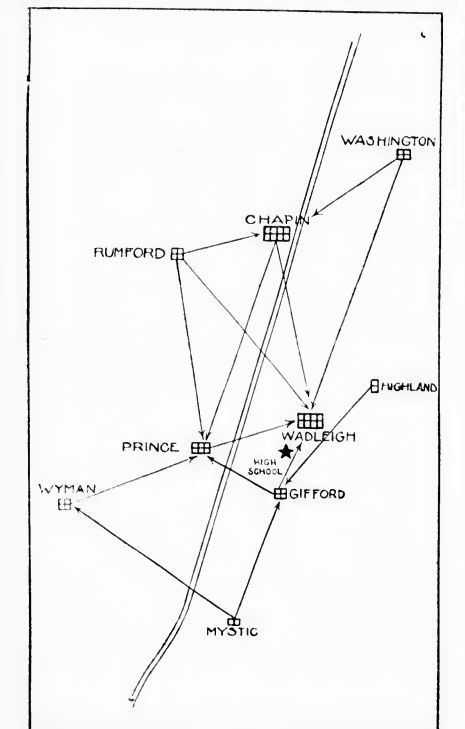

PLATE I.
SHOWING DISTRIBUTION OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS AND PROGRESS OF PUPILS FROM SCHOOL TO SCHOOL

For three weeks through the month of October the schools were closed by the local Board of Health on account of an epidemic of influenza, the first time the schools have been closed for such a cause for years.

Evening schools were reopened at the Chapin and High School buildings in October with an increased attendance. The High School classes devoted to Stenography, Typewriting and Bookkeeping have been especially well attended.

The Summer Review School for grades five, six, seven and eight was held as usual with an enrollment of seventy-eight pupils.

Home gardens under the organization of the United States School Garden Army were greater in number than those of the previous year and produced a larger volume of products. An exhibit was held in the building to building as they move upward through the eight grades. These small buildings necessitate small classes and an excessive shifting of pupils from school to school. Nearly all pupils attend as many as three different buildings, and some four, before they enter the High School. So much shifting is bad for school discipline and for school work.

SHOWING A DESIRABLE PLACING OF ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS

Since that time the Junior High School movement has developed, especially in the more progressive communities throughout the country, until it has come to be recognized as an established part of our school system with aims and methods scarcely less definitely marked than those of the elementary school or the senior high school. The time has come when we cannot safely continue to shape our educational program without taking the Junior High School movement into account. We have already at the Wadleigh School consolidation of the seventh and eighth grades, with the additional advantage that the school is located near enough to the High School to give opportunity for some pupils to do part time in that building. As far as the Wadleigh School is concerned, we are in a position almost immediately to take advantage of some of the benefits of the Junior High School organization.

TOWN POLITICS

Candidates Line Up For March 3rd

The thing of nomination papers by the various candidates for town offices last Friday gave the first real insight of the list to be voted for in the coming election. All the names proposed and mentioned some dropped out, and with but few exceptions no new ones were added. The names included J. Alfred Dolben of Lawrence road, Patrick E. Fitzgerald and Whitfield L. Tucker for School Committee, and Whitfield L. Tucker for Assessor, and Patrick E. Fitzgerald for Water and Sewer Board and Andrew J. Flaherty for Planning Board.

This leaves a list of 11 candidates to appear on the ballot for School Committee and for the offices of Auditor, Assessor, School Committee, Collector of Taxes, Overseers of the Poor, Planning Board, Water and Sewer Board and Moderator. Mr. Whitfield L. Tucker having filed papers for the latter position in opposition to Mr. Ives.

The surprise of the nomination was the filing of papers by Patrick E. Fitzgerald on Wednesday night of names for four offices. Mr. Fitzgerald all himself filed for School Committee and Water and Sewer Board; he filed the name of Whitfield L. Tucker for School Committee and the name of Andrew J. Flaherty for Planning Board.

As regards the chances and probabilities of the election the STAR remains silent. Friends of all candidates are working hard to ensure their election. It is gratifying to note that there are to be contests for the important offices, and that the town takes an active interest in town affairs.

The contested offices, together with the candidates running are as follows:

ENDORSEMENT FOR DR. CUTTER

February 19, 1919.

Editor of the Star:
I am very glad to know that Dr. Cutter has consented to become a candidate for the office of Overseer of the Poor. I feel that it is of great importance that the town should have an office on the various boards of our town should not be of too long duration. Introduction of new men into the service of the town insures new ideas, active initiative, and the very valuable feature of enlisting the largest possible number of men in the duties of citizenship, and educating them to its demands.

My long acquaintance with Dr. Cutter leads me to believe that his education and training, which have been of an exceptionally broad and liberal character, equip him to render the town a service, and by his modern study and humane ideals, in this very important office.

Dr. Cutter is a graduate of Harvard University in the class of 1903 and of the Harvard Medical School in 1907; he has had two years' experience in the Boston City Hospital and has practised medicine in Winchester for nine years. Dr. Cutter has had a long and successful military career in both the State Militia and the U. S. Army, starting sixteen years ago as private in the First Corps Cavalry and serving almost continuously during these years in various capacities. During the present war he has held the rank of Major in the Medical Corps, serving as regimental surgeon. Winchester needs such a man as such men as Dr. Cutter and the voters should see to it that he is elected.

Maurice C. Tompkins.

PROPOSED BATH HOUSE ON WEDGE POND

A BATH HOUSE ON WEDGE POND

Matter to be Discussed at Coming Town Meeting

Among the articles to be considered at the coming Town Meeting will be that of a bath house on Wedge Pond. This article is presented by the Park Department and brings up a subject which was under debate at the time of the opening of the War. It being laid over until a later date.

Through the courtesy of the Park Department we are able this week to present a sketch of the proposed bath house. The Finance Committee have recommended that the matter be postponed for a year, referring it to the next annual town meeting, but the Park Department evidently deem it of sufficient importance to carry it before the voters this year.

The house as proposed will be a frame building 20x28 feet, with an ell 5 x 18 feet. Either side of the main building are two wings. The building will be of stucco on wire lath, with roof of green slate, presenting a most attractive appearance. The two walled yards on the sides are each 28x11 feet, the dressing rooms being grouped along the walls, with the centre space left open to the sun and air. The construction of the yard walls will be as described for the main building.

The yards may easily be enlarged as indicated if a demand for larger accommodations should arise, without making any changes on the main building and without marring the exterior effect.

The estimated cost of constructing the bath house as planned will be $2,000, and the cost of constructing a suitable beach and approach to the bath house is estimated at $1000.

WILLIAM E. PRIEST FOR AUDITOR

The qualifications of Mr. William E. Priest for the office of Town Auditor are strongly recommended by the Winchester Star. Mr. Priest is a resident of the town, and has been a member of the North End Savings Bank of Boston.

The Winchester Star, Winchester, Mass.
Dear Sir:

Mr. W. E. Priest was in the employ of the North End Savings Bank for many years. He left about one year ago to become Treasurer of the Winchester Savings Bank. I am pleased to say that his work as book-keeper and teller in our bank was most satisfactory. He was most efficient in his work, and with a very remarkable pleasing personality and absolute honesty, made him a perfect bank man; well liked by his associates and our customers. It was with great regret that this bank lost his services. He has my unqualified approval for the office of Auditor of the Winchester Savings Bank, which he is, I believe, in every way capable of filling.

Very truly yours,
William G. Shillaber, President.
North End Savings Bank, 57 Court Street, Boston.

JOHN O'MELIA

John O'Melia of 77 South Sheridan circle, well known to many Winchester residents through having made his home here for the past 42 years, died on Tuesday. He was 64 years of age.

Mr. O'Melia was a native of County Mayo, Ireland. He came to this town and for many years was employed as a carrier at Regis & Cobb factory. For three years he was employed by the Town Highway Department, resigning a year ago owing to ill health. His death was due to infirmities due to his advanced age.

He married Miss Catherine Hawley, this town, 20 years ago, and besides his wife he leaves four sons and two daughters. — Philip G., superintendent of the Lally Column Co. of Brooklyn, John Joseph, who returned recently after serving in France through the war in the Adjutant General's Department, Edward J., Mary Ellen and Charlotte, all of this town. He was the eldest of 14 children, and leaves several brothers residing in neighboring towns in his vicinity.

Requiem Mass will be celebrated at St. Mary's Church this Friday morning at 9 o'clock. The burial will be at Calvary Cemetery.

NEWMAN, CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION

To the Voters of the Town of Winchester:
Having served on your Board of Selectmen the past year and being much interested in the work, I am desirous of continuing.

The year of my service on the Board has been one of difficulty owing to the war conditions. First, the appropriations were cut to the very least possible point at the last town meeting. Second, the Town has been confronted with an unlooked for increase in payrolls and cost of materials. Third, there have been numerous calls of a patriotic nature which have been rather difficult of solution.

All these things would naturally cause an expectancy on the part of the Voters to see an overdraft in many of the departments under the control of the Selectmen. As a member of the Finance Committee of the Board I point with pride to the Town Report and especially to the fact that almost every account under our control there has been an unexpended balance returned to revenue account.

It would be a pleasure to me to serve the Town in this capacity for another year.

Respectfully,
Adv. Sewall E. Newman,
9 Cliff Street.

O'CONNOR—FORD

The wedding of Dr. Edward M. O'Connor of this town, brother of Postmaster John E. O'Connor and son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick O'Connor of White Street, to Miss Alice U. Ford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ford of Sixth street, Chelsea, drew a large attendance of Winchester friends on Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Welch of St. Rose's church, Chelsea, at seven o'clock, the couple being attended by Dr. James H. O'Connor of this town, brother of the groom, and Miss Mary T. Moran of Rochester, niece of the bride.

The bride wore a dress of white net with silver trimmings and her wedding veil was caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and sweet peas. The maid of honor wore silver net with an over-skirt of pink tulle, and she carried roses and sweet peas.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the residence of the bride's parents, the couple being assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor and Mr. and Mrs. Ford. The ushers were Messrs. Joseph J. Hervey, John T. Ford, Charles E. Ford and Charles P. Ford, all of Chelsea.

Dr. O'Connor has been practicing at North Cambridge, and will make their future home at No. 228 Mass. avenue, North Cambridge. Among those who attended the reception were Messrs. Nelson, E. Ford and Charles P. Ford, all of Chelsea.

The usual Saturday night lunch followed the address.

His service is at 5 p. m., and the public is cordially invited.

FOURTEENTH NOTES

For eighteen years he was employed in a dry goods commission house in Boston having entire charge of the books of a corporation doing a business of over four million dollars a year. For twelve years he was with the Mutual Trust Co. National Bank of this town and the Winchester Trust Co. He was also with the Massachusetts Trust Co. of Boston for a short time, having been in the position of Asst. Cashier of the Winchester National Bank, which position he now occupies.

POST OFFICE APPROPRIATION RAISED

Announcement was made at Washington Saturday of the increase of $22,500 to the appropriation for the erection of the Federal building in this town. The original appropriation for the Post Office building was $75,000. Of this sum $20,000 was appropriated for the site and the balance of the building to be used for the erection of the building.

The first bids for the plans submitted by the Treasury Department were far over the sum available, and a bill was introduced to raise the appropriation by $10,000. The department also cut the plans to what it considered necessary to come within the sum. When we entered the war all construction on Federal buildings was stopped.

Recently bids were again asked for the building, and it is understood that all submitted were greatly in excess of the available money. The increased appropriation for the Public Buildings Bill reported Feb. 15th. Postmaster John E. O'Connor has been notified by the Department that he has been appointed without salary, custodian of the Post Office site on Waterford road. It is very probable that new bids will soon be asked for, for the erection of the building.

A Flipped Coin

By HARRY LOCKWOOD

By HARRY LOCKWOOD
Copyright, 1919, by Morning Newspaper Syndicate

The scene opens with our brave bachelor hero alone in his bachelor apartment, two rooms and bath in Hilton's famous new hotel.

He was wondering if it would be better to ask the girl who appealed most to him as a possible wife to marry him and break it to her that she was also a stenographer, or if he should wait until he had better to look up a good stenographer and having selected one to let her marry him in this capacity.

He took a chance on the proposition of making her his wife. There were two ways of accomplishing the situation.

The manly facts in the case were that in his work in one of Hilton's recently created war industries, his efficiency was decidedly curtailed because he had no stenographer, and that after having used every means he could think of he had not been able to find a young woman in town capable of taking the place who was not already employed by, or of any considerable money where a girl from out of town might be found.

Bradley had come six months before when the hotel in Hilton was just starting, and he had been fortunate enough to get what at other times would have been regarded as a rather "good" job in the way of an apartment.

It had two rooms and much as Bradley had been of the habit of studying something with a male stenographer, he had considered the proposition of getting a young man to take the job and allowing him to sleep on a cot in his living room.

Yes, the Coin Had Come Up Tails. Living room. But male stenographers were simply not to be had.

There was still the idea of sharing the apartment left, and simply because it was the only possible solution Bradley decided he would have to marry his stenographer and share his quarters with her or make a stenographer of a wife. He had come home to decide the best method of procedure. He drew a coin from his pocket and then flipped it and looked over to see how fate had decided for him.

He had settled that if it came up heads he would ask Molly Drew in his home town to consider the proposition. She wasn't a stenographer, but she had learned to type in school and he could take care of his correspondence.

He flattered himself that the idea of becoming Mrs. Blake might not be entirely distasteful to her. The coin came up tails. That meant that he should make his selection according to the ability of the young woman as a secretary, and then, somehow, throw in the marrying line. Yes, the coin had come up tails; but after Bradley had pondered it he decided to ask Molly Drew anyway.

That is why he took the eleven o'clock train back to the home town and by nine o'clock the next morning had telephoned to Molly to tell her that he had something important to propose to her. By ten he was at the Drew house. Then he and Molly started walking in the autumn air.

It was very difficult to say what he had to say in a tactful way, and perhaps he bungled it. At any rate, ten minutes after he had begun with "Molly, I have something important to ask you," he realized that he was walking beside a rather frail young woman who had her hair drawn from her face and he was making short work of himself that after that he would say the duties of a flipped coin.

"You never thought of asking me before," he remembered. That she had said. "Now that I can be of use to you, now that I can earn my own living and help you besides, you ask me."

Bradley took the afternoon train back to Hilton, and on the train, at first tried to doze, but then rather well-timed the society of Maud Gresham, an old schoolmate of his, she was going to Hilton. She had heard that there would be lots of rare opportunities there for stenographers, and she was tired to death of earning her pittance.

After a week in her mother's law office, she had had enough of her mother's law office. She was tired to death of earning her pittance.

Preparedness

Maud had put his fingers over the silver shirt placed on the counter before him, and then produced a pair of socks. "I'll take the whole lot," he murmured to the weary-looking clerk. "There won't be another bargain like this for years."

The clerk was too surprised to answer, but as Jack was staring away, he ventured to suggest the purchase of something else.

"No, thank you," Jack smiled. "I've got everything else. I have socks enough to last me for six years and underclothes for just as long. I don't need a lot of these and socks of clothes. There is not an article of wearing apparel that I will need for years to come that I haven't got stored away. I believe in preparedness."

"The clerk was going to knock prices high and I have noticed I have saved hundreds of dollars on what I have purchased and packed away. In two years' time we poor beggars who have to stay home won't be able to buy shirts like these. I have just bought for $50 apiece."

The dress goods counter was on the way out. As Jack was hurrying past it a light hand was placed on his shoulder. He looked up to meet the smiling face of Jessie Fowler, the jeweler's daughter.

Jessie had been an old schoolmate friend, and had just returned from college. She had not changed much. Jack thought as he took the graceful finger of her hand.

"I was going to ask you assistance with my parcels," Jessie laughed, for they were full of socks.

"And so here I am. I have been studying stenography this winter. I didn't tell you, but I really wanted to do some sort of work. It was just because I was pestered because I said never asked me before that I said what I did."

By that of much persuasion Bradley found accommodations for Molly for the night in the little hotel, and the next afternoon after his day's work at the office was over he took upon himself the burden of his heart and nequipped in stenography.

Molly never knew that at nine that Monday morning he met Maud Gresham and told her what he felt was the best thing he could give her. He said that she would never even regretting leaving her father's home, that he would soon be over and then inflated salaries in Hilton would be a thing of the past, and that she would be a very smart, sensible girl if she hurried back to the home town on the next train.

Whereupon Maud sighed with relief. "I was afraid you'd find a job for me," she said. "And I'm homesick already. I don't want to leave my home and never tell you any more about me."

And having expected a similar promise from Maud, Bradley hurried on his way.

HOW WAR GARDENS HELPED

American "Back-Yard Producers" Increased Food Yield in a Degree That Was Remarkable

America's back-yard and vacant lot food producers have come into a fine harvest. They have helped the nation's wartime food production and at the same time lessened the traffic demands on railroads by growing this food near the kitchen door.

Patriotic gardeners this year cultivated 5,285,000 plots, according to figures made public by the national war garden commission. We had in 1,785,000 more gardens this summer than we did last year. A combination of patriotic zeal and high cost of living did it. The value of the garden product, estimates the commission, will be $25,000,000.

There were more gardens this year, and the average yield was better. More of us are learning how to grow things in our back yards and on nearby vacant lots. Let us keep right on learning more about gardening. There's health and money in it.

Those who did not have one of these 5,285,000 war gardens missed much. It is not too early for them to plan on a next year's garden. More gardens are possible to grow it. That's a fine war-time slogan.

Only One Road to Moral Victory.

Psychologists tell us that one of the great dangers of slipshod work of our moral and mental forces is the repetition through which most of us try to make our peace with the world. We cannot win peace while constantly warring within ourselves. The way to gain complete victory over ourselves is to expect that which is good and let it be the place of that which is marred by our lives.

A great ethical teacher has said that he has known personally of many cases where a man's good efforts have been spoiled by the child's thoughtless new ideas by supplanting the impulse with the pure.

Peaceless.

Fear (uttering on his girl's) I wonder what is the easiest way to remove suspicious flesh?

Girl (sneering and rather bored)—Why not try a taxi—Life.

Molly never knew that at nine that Monday morning he met Maud Gresham and told her what he felt was the best thing he could give her. He said that she would never even regretting leaving her father's home, that he would soon be over and then inflated salaries in Hilton would be a thing of the past, and that she would be a very smart, sensible girl if she hurried back to the home town on the next train.

Whereupon Maud sighed with relief. "I was afraid you'd find a job for me," she said. "And I'm homesick already. I don't want to leave my home and never tell you any more about me."

And having expected a similar promise from Maud, Bradley hurried on his way.

HOW WAR GARDENS HELPED

American "Back-Yard Producers" Increased Food Yield in a Degree That Was Remarkable

America's back-yard and vacant lot food producers have come into a fine harvest. They have helped the nation's wartime food production and at the same time lessened the traffic demands on railroads by growing this food near the kitchen door.

Patriotic gardeners this year cultivated 5,285,000 plots, according to figures made public by the national war garden commission. We had in 1,785,000 more gardens this summer than we did last year. A combination of patriotic zeal and high cost of living did it. The value of the garden product, estimates the commission, will be $25,000,000.

There were more gardens this year, and the average yield was better. More of us are learning how to grow things in our back yards and on nearby vacant lots. Let us keep right on learning more about gardening. There's health and money in it.

Those who did not have one of these 5,285,000 war gardens missed much. It is not too early for them to plan on a next year's garden. More gardens are possible to grow it. That's a fine war-time slogan.

Only One Road to Moral Victory.

Psychologists tell us that one of the great dangers of slipshod work of our moral and mental forces is the repetition through which most of us try to make our peace with the world. We cannot win peace while constantly warring within ourselves. The way to gain complete victory over ourselves is to expect that which is good and let it be the place of that which is marred by our lives.

A great ethical teacher has said that he has known personally of many cases where a man's good efforts have been spoiled by the child's thoughtless new ideas by supplanting the impulse with the pure.

Peaceless.

Preparedness

Maud had put his fingers over the silver shirt placed on the counter before him, and then produced a pair of socks. "I'll take the whole lot," he murmured to the weary-looking clerk. "There won't be another bargain like this for years."

The clerk was too surprised to answer, but as Jack was staring away, he ventured to suggest the purchase of something else.

"No, thank you," Jack smiled. "I've got everything else. I have socks enough to last me for six years and underclothes for just as long. I don't need a lot of these and socks of clothes. There is not an article of wearing apparel that I will need for years to come that I haven't got stored away. I believe in preparedness."

"The clerk was going to knock prices high and I have noticed I have saved hundreds of dollars on what I have purchased and packed away. In two years' time we poor beggars who have to stay home won't be able to buy shirts like these. I have just bought for $50 apiece."

The dress goods counter was on the way out. As Jack was hurrying past it a light hand was placed on his shoulder. He looked up to meet the smiling face of Jessie Fowler, the jeweler's daughter.

Jessie had been an old schoolmate friend, and had just returned from college. She had not changed much. Jack thought as he took the graceful finger of her hand.

"I was going to ask you assistance with my parcels," Jessie laughed, for they were full of socks.

"And so here I am. I have been studying stenography this winter. I didn't tell you, but I really wanted to do some sort of work. It was just because I was pestered because I said never asked me before that I said what I did."

By that of much persuasion Bradley found accommodations for Molly for the night in the little hotel, and the next afternoon after his day's work at the office was over he took upon himself the burden of his heart and nequipped in stenography.

Molly never knew that at nine that Monday morning he met Maud Gresham and told her what he felt was the best thing he could give her. He said that she would never even regretting leaving her father's home, that he would soon be over and then inflated salaries in Hilton would be a thing of the past, and that she would be a very smart, sensible girl if she hurried back to the home town on the next train.

Whereupon Maud sighed with relief. "I was afraid you'd find a job for me," she said. "And I'm homesick already. I don't want to leave my home and never tell you any more about me."

And having expected a similar promise from Maud, Bradley hurried on his way.

POPULAR CANDIDATE

It was good news to a large number of residents of Winchester when they learned that J. A. (Fred) Dolben had consented to be a candidate for the Board of Selectmen.

Here is true leadership of the office seeking the man, and our town is certainly to be congratulated that he has consented to run. Mr. Dolben represents the highest type of a sound, active, progressive business man. Need we ask for anything more? Associated with his brother, they comprise the firm of Dolben & Co., the largest distributors of fire brick goods and terra cotta in New England. He is also Vice-President of the National Association of Fire Brick Dealers of the United States. He is very popular and has all the qualities necessary for the office. We therefore, heartily recommend him to the voters of Winchester, knowing that they will not make any mistake by supporting and voting for him on election day.

CALUMET ENTERTAINMENT

Open House With Program for Afternoon and Evening

The Calumet Club served Washington, Thursday, by keeping open house during the day, making plans in the afternoon and evening for a number of 200 children and a number of adults. The program was the death of Mrs. Samuel E. Perkins, wife of Chairman Perkins of the entertainment committee, the evening feast was brought to a close shortly before ten o'clock.

During the morning the usual games were played on the alley and in the evening there was a dancing dish supper, followed by a musical program and dancing.

The children were entertained with songs followed by a musical program and dancing.

Miss Anna Varner Baker gave an hour, which included an attention, a musical program, singing, animated pictures, charred dancing and other attractions that kept the large audience of little folks quite interested.

Following her part of the program there was a short intermission and J. de Vere Simmons, the man who made for society a program of magic and tricks which filled out the balance of the afternoon.

Each child was presented with a patriotic hatbox filled with candy and refreshments, including ice cream and cake, were served, making a most complete afternoon for the children.

At 6:30 there were 200 members with their families present for the chafing dish supper. Lobster a la King, crab Newburg, other delicacies were served by a corps of ladies under the direction of Mrs. Maurice C. Tompkins and including Mrs. A. A. Smalley, Mrs. L. T. Cutler, Mrs. A. A. Maddison, Mrs. G. W. Fitch, Mrs. C. H. Symmes, Mrs. J. F. Tuttle, Miss Elizabeth Downs, Mrs. C. C. Crafts, Mrs. B. F. Miners, Mrs. R. L. Emery, Mrs. E. R. Butterworth, Mrs. George E. Willey.

Each gentleman entered the club in the evening he was taken in charge by a corps of expert make-up artists and transformed into a French soldier, complete with uniform, his identity, French soldier hats completely transformed the ladies.

The ladies were all given French tricolor hats also, and the brilliant colors, together with the hundreds of red and small flags, the streamers and bunting, with which the interior of the club was decorated, made a brilliant scene. Each lady was also given a favor.

During the supper there was a musical program, an orchestra and at eight the dancing commenced in the club hall. When the news of the death of Mrs. Perkins was received, the committee announced that the activities would be brought to a close and at ten o'clock the program was ended. Mrs. Perkins attended the afternoon program and she was stricken with heart trouble on her way home, passing away early in the evening.

Winchester people were shocked to learn last Saturday evening that the sudden death of Mrs. Samuel E. Perkins of Crescent road, Mrs. Perkins died of heart trouble just as she reached her home after spending the evening at the Calumet Club. She was stricken while in the automobile but a short distance from her home, and she was taken into the house, where she died of heart trouble, and lived only about twenty minutes.

ST. MARY'S REUNION

The annual reunion of St. Mary's Parish was held in Town Hall on Wednesday evening, February 20th, and drew out one of the largest gatherings in the history of the parish. The program was a very interesting and significant one, and the presence of so many soldiers and sailors who have been discharged from duty. Father Merritt is intensely interested in his boys who have been service and from the departure of the first boy he has maintained an undying interest in their spiritual and temporal welfare. Naturally he takes advantage of every opportunity to demonstrate to them the gratitude of the community they so gladly served.

MR. NEWMAN NEEDED ON BOARD

To the Editor of the Star:

There is no man more qualified this year for the Board of Selectmen than is Roland E. Newman. He is a candidate who has been in the town for many years, and his experience as a member of the Board of Selectmen, Mr. Newman has long been a resident of the town, has given during the past year largely of his time, energy and best efforts to the interests of the town, and well deserves re-election to the Board at the coming town meeting.

I have no doubt that the work of last year's Board of Selectmen with some care, and never have our streets been kept cleaner or the general order and appearance of the town been better, and it is of interest to note that there are more unexpended balances to the credit of the Departments than heretofore.

DRAMATIC PRODUCTION
MARCH 8

Rehearsals for the Junior-Senior play are progressing most satisfactorily, much interest being shown by every member of the cast. It has been gratifying to learn that many have expressed the delight that "Under Cover" is the dramatic production chosen and all agree that this drama is well worth seeing. The management earnestly request the audience to be seated by eight o'clock sharp, that Act I, may not be marred by confusion.

EDUCATIONAL SURVEY

Committee to Be Appointed to Consider Public Schools

It is ordered that the Finance Committee, as it is composed of the town, and a special committee consisting of two citizens be appointed to consider the advisability of having made an educational survey of the public school system with a view to improving it or of taking any other action with respect to the public schools.

The following letters relative to the introduction of the matter to the Finance Committee and its correspondence with the School Committee are explanatory of the action to be asked:

Food Purchase Board
18th and D Street, N. W.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:

As you know, I have been in Winchester but little during the past year. During the year I spent here, however, the matter of public schools has been called to my attention, and it appears to be a matter of very great and urgent interest. So far as I have observed, this has taken no form other than a discussion of the personnel of the school committee and the school organization.

LADIES' FRIENDLY SOCIETY

The Ladies' Friendly society of the Unitarian Church held its annual supper in Metcalf Hall last Tuesday evening. A turkey supper was served to more than three hundred people, the arrangements for which were in charge of Mrs. George W. Ames and Mrs. George H. Root. The boys and girls of the Metcalf Union were very efficient helpers.

The entertainment given by the dramatic committee, Mrs. Lillian T. Mason, chairman, was enjoyed by everyone present. Mrs. Helen Ellerson sang several songs which were enthusiastically received. Mr. Percival Lewis accompanying her.

Mr. Carleton Cummings led the singing and the boys and girls of the Metcalf Union were very efficient helpers. It was inspiring to see that people who had not sung for years found their voices—in fact everyone sang. Mr. Cummings sang several songs which were enthusiastically received. Mr. Percival Lewis accompanying her.

Lincoln Russell and Prescott Taylor played for the dancing.

MR. NEWMAN NEEDED ON BOARD

To the Editor of the Star:

There is no man more qualified this year for the Board of Selectmen than is Roland E. Newman. He is a candidate who has been in the town for many years, and his experience as a member of the Board of Selectmen, Mr. Newman has long been a resident of the town, has given during the past year largely of his time, energy and best efforts to the interests of the town, and well deserves re-election to the Board at the coming town meeting.

I have no doubt that the work of last year's Board of Selectmen with some care, and never have our streets been kept cleaner or the general order and appearance of the town been better, and it is of interest to note that there are more unexpended balances to the credit of the Departments than heretofore.

TO THE VOTERS OF WINCHESTER

It hardly seems likely that the town can fare otherwise than well in the election, which is so near at hand, because the candidates for the various offices are so generally of a high character. Still in some of the contests there may be reasons why the voters should use some discrimination in the way in which they mark their ballots.

We are particularly fortunate in the candidates for the office of auditor. Mr. Lochman, the present incumbent, has not only abundantly demonstrated his ability to fill the office, but has been as well a highly respected and valued resident of Winchester for twenty years. That is about all that can be said in a candidate.

Mr. Priest, may be equally capable, but he is a new comer and we do not know much about him. Indeed he is a candidate who has not even been registered to vote until after he had taken out his nomination papers for this office.

Now it lies up to the people of Winchester to elect a man who will, but glad to extend a cordial welcome to all good people who come to make their home with us and share with them the benefits and benefits which our town affords.

It is quite another thing to accord the honors of office to a late arrival to the election of those who have long made this their home. Wouldn't it be better for Mr. Priest to wait a year or so until he has had at least a chance to make a poll tax or two before he aspires to office?

I am sure if the attention of the voters is called to this very peculiar situation, Mr. Lochman's election is assured by a large majority.

To assume any other outcome would be to accuse the people of Winchester of having not only no sense of fair play, but no appreciation of long and upright citizenship. I do not believe they will show themselves unworthy of the high qualities of Mr. Lochman for Auditor. It is his due and also ours.

Kidder as a candidate for Selectman, and it is the earnest wish of all those who have the pleasure of knowing Mr. Kidder that he get a rousing vote. ## YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

In the present age the question of clothes is a paramount one. The weather has something to do with it, but fashion influences us even more. No soon have we decided to wear our old things than a new fashion comes along which makes such tremendous appeal that we go in, buy and are happier for it. The price of things to wear has gone up and up. Well-to-do Winchesters are having their shoes half-soled and there are many people who wish they had shoes to half-sole. So, in view of the vital problem whether we shall journey to work in a barrel or else wear what is left from last year, it is interesting to know that a professional dancer has come to the rescue. She has written a book on the modern, classical dance, and in the volume she has something to say about clothing.

For more than twenty centuries, declares this young woman, dancing has suffered martyrdom to clothes. She says that the Greeks attained their greatest influence before clothes were invented. And, she adds, the scum of draperies are more modest than any clothes. Clothes are suggestive. She would have us go dance, just as we are, and she says that if we have a war, we shall have a war.

Now, throwing aside your self, join a group of sister nymphs who are bathing in the sunlit stream. After that you may pick up your skirt or leave it alone. Just the spirit strikes you, but whatever you do, go dancing merrily on. Should these dances become popular the item of expense, caused by the purchase of elaborate ball gowns, would be eliminated. The dear young thing who always is urging more and more coming frocks, might be expected to address her mother thus: "Oh mother, dear, may I go to dance?"

Now, my dear, don't get a hook.

I'm sure luck to nature. And of course, you won't wear a frock. Perhaps, the professional dancer has solved the riddle of civilization. The day may come when a Winchester shall throw aside the scarf, thick instead of clothes, cars, automobiles or such. With our eyes on the sun and our bare feet spinning the pavement, we dance gaily alone Main Street, a dozen eyes in one hand and a quarter's worth of street loafers in the other.

No thinking Winchester can doubt that there is a growing dislike of the word duty, and of all that it stands for. There has been a feeling that there was an antagonism between duty and love, and that if people were free they ought to be permitted to do what they chose, and not compelled to do what they ought. Nothing has been so far from this idea, yet it has prevailed widely. Many here in Winchester have thought of duty as a Victorian convention, and therefore, that we, in our wisdom, had left far behind. If it is Victorian, it sheds additional luster on that great era of human history, the one of the best of that time certainly made much of it. Thompson wrote:

For the right and the good, let all good things await of him who cares not to be great. But as he saves or serves the state. Not once or twice in our rough island story.

The path of duty was the way to glory. He that walks it, only thrives. For the right, and leaves to heaven Love of self, before his journey closes. He shall find the stubborn thistle bursting.

Into glossy purples, which outadden All voluptuous garden roses. Not once or twice in our fair island story.

The path to duty was the way to glory. He that walks it, only thrives. For the right, and leaves to heaven Love of self, before his journey closes. He shall find the stubborn thistle bursting.

Into glossy purples, which outadden All voluptuous garden roses. Not once or twice in our fair island story.

We are learning that the gospel is true, under the inspiring instruction of our soldiers of France. It again appears that "the path of duty is the way to glory." It also leads to calmness of mind, serenity of soul and peace of spirit. Men are finding this world to serve to serve, if not greatly, at least faithfully and conscientiously. They are under bond to do their duty in that state of life "unto which it shall please God to call them." Perhaps one may look for a revival of this feature of Victorianism. For the great era of the day is that every man shall do his duty. It is felt that the obligation rests on all, as it most assuredly does. The Spectator.

MR. CRAUGHWELL SPEAKS

Editor of the Star: The old reputation for wisdom by keeping silent, but as this is the so-called reconstruction period, a time for conservation, concentration and I have felt, perhaps, that I could speak a few words and at the same time remain silent. Every student of municipal finance has heard of the old motto, conservation, concentration and consolidation means economy, efficiency and eventually a reduction in our taxations. I am glad that the germ of extravagance is slowly but surely creeping into our municipal expenditures, and the sooner we eradicate that germ the better it will be for the man or woman with moderate means.

I have ascertained after very carefully scrutinizing the names of the aspirants who desire to be elected members of the Board of Selectmen in the Town of Winchester, the Athens of America, that beautiful Berkshires to the Golden Gate, from Bunker Hill to Chateau Thierry and from Washington to the pear tree at Versailles, as the home of famous men with national reputations, that four of the gentlemen named in the list were, four of the best citizens of the town. I am glad to see that one of the North Main street section, one at Symmes Corner, and your humble servant at the north end of the town. I am glad to see that one of the gentlemen who formerly wielded the big stick would pronounce that a course in the police academy would in putting one over on your truly, please pardon the slang.

Now listen attentively and read between the lines. I have been approached very recently by a few inquisitive mollycoddlers and asked why a laborer should seek the office of Selectman. My reply is, I am the son of a Civil War Veteran who served with Grant in the Wilderness. When he marched to the front and I was a small boy, he rode to Winchester. I am a citizen of the United States and a resident of Winchester all my life. I am proud to have a son who is a laborer. I have a fundamental privilege under the Constitution of the United States that these great men should be remembered. I am proud to have a son who is a laborer. I have a fundamental privilege under the Constitution of the United States that these great men should be remembered. I am proud to have a son who is a laborer. I have a fundamental privilege under the Constitution of the United States that these great men should be remembered.

Now then, gentlemen as I am immune from an income tax and have no other duties, I have been asked to convey the electorate to the polls. I would like to suggest to my friends, if I have any, that they walk, and I believe that they will. I do not show them rats, and please remember gentlemen, never let a crumple with his own crumple, as there is no crumple in defeat in an election. I am proud to have a son who is a laborer. I have a fundamental privilege under the Constitution of the United States that these great men should be remembered.

Very truly yours, Patrick H. Craughwell, 21 Swanton street, Alv.

CORRECTION

Winchester, Mass., February 28, 1919.

Editor of the Star:

Please allow me through the columns of the STAR to correct a statement in last week's STAR in which it was stated Mr. James Keaney, a roomer at my home, was found dead in his room.

The facts of the case are: Mr. Keaney finished his day's work on the Town Highway Department at 4 o'clock, came in and went to his room. About an hour later he called me up stairs, saying he had a very severe pain over his heart. With his consent I called Dr. Mead, who immediately pronounced it pneumonia, with very little hopes of his recovery. He was taken to the Winchester Hospital the same evening and passed away within a week after being taken there.

Thank you for correction.

Yours respectfully, George R. Nowell, 9 Thompson street, Winchester, Mass.

Once again we call attention to contributors to the need of sending their names with articles given for publication. We must have the writer's name whether he desires it used at the foot of his article or not. We exercise our privilege in publishing his article. Unpublished letters are always plentiful about election time, and if communications are not printed it is not always because they are unaccompanied by the writer's name, but they are seldom, if ever, printed at election time if the name is withheld. We trust this will explain the absence of several communications received during the week.

Go to the polls and vote Monday. If you are one of those who stay away and then kick the next day because the election does not suit you, you will have little sympathy this year. The United States of America has been led before all nations as the one democratic form of government which allows the people the greatest liberty of action and right of self-government. This is our first town election since the war closed. Surely every man will desire this year above all others to exercise his inborn right. Civic interest should be an additional spur to the largest turnout. We have a good list of representative men as candidates for the various offices. Their candidacy in itself should call every voter to the polls. Town meetings, too, will have some interesting articles up for discussion. Kickers are going to be out of style this year after March 3rd. Watch your step.

SECOND COWBOY TOURNAMENT

The second round of the cowboy pool tournament at the Calumet Club has opened this afternoon. The B men will meet for their matches. The following games are on the schedule: Dr. C. E. Nason and A. W. Pittman vs. George E. Wiley and H. A. Norton. J. F. Tuttle and G. T. Davidson vs. J. E. Nelson and J. E. Gentry. W. D. Eaton and C. T. Crafts vs. T. P. Wilson and J. A. Downs. H. C. Proctor and C. C. Rogers 2d vs. W. T. Carleton and W. B. Brown. W. R. Baker and W. E. Gilmore vs. C. S. Tenney and B. F. Blais.

TO THE VOTERS

I stated last week I would like to be one of your selectmen, and I outlined my reasons. Today a large number of the boys have returned. They have done their bit, and it was well done. Then, their fathers, mothers, standing up and filling a man's place, thousands of miles from their home, fighting side by side with other nation's forces of the world, so that we at home could live in safety from now on. Place me in this position, so I can do something for your boys. I will give it my whole attention and spend time to make this a success. The service flag is in its position, it appeared last Friday after an absence of three months; and hear in mind Mr. Voter this was the second time they allowed it to happen. You will notice that the flag states that 626 boys served their country from this town. Article 18, is signed by the Selectmen, and they ask the voters to appropriate the sum of five hundred ($500) dollars. This sum should have never been stated, for it is out of proportion for the service flag. These boys have made, less than eighty ($80) cents apiece to welcome the returning sailors and soldiers. I know that the people themselves are anxious to show their generosity and they will do it, and the time to do it is now, not six months from today.

This is my reason and only reason for being a candidate. Drop into any bank or business house and see what the people have to say to my dealing and credit. Twenty years as a contractor, six years in real estate business, served two years on the Finance Committee. Will any other candidate put this in public print eleven days before election. A vote for me is a vote for justice. Patrick E. Fitzgerald, 165 Washington St.

AMERICA STRING QUARTETTE TO PLAY AT VESPER SERVICE

Owing to the fact that the Boston Symphony Orchestra was unexpectedly engaged to play a concert at Lawrence next Sunday afternoon, Mr. Joseph Malkin, Cellist, will be unable to appear at the Vesper Service at the First Congregational Church. The Music Committee have been extremely fortunate however in securing in his place the American String Quartette.

The Quartette played at a Vesper Service, two years ago much to the keen appreciation of the audience. With Miss Gertrude Marshall, Violin, Miss Ruth Stickney, Violin, Miss Adelaide Packard, Viola, and Miss Hazel L'Amoreux, Cello, this organization whose sponsor is Charles Martin Loebler, may be said to be a feminine edition of the Flonzaleys. The services will be at 5 o'clock and the public is cordially invited.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Winchester Board of Trade will be held at White's Hall, Tuesday, March 4th, at 7:45 p. m. The representative William A. Knobel had been secured by the Entertainment Committee to speak on a subject of general interest to all. The subject was heard Mr. Knobel speak with great interest and the public is cordially invited to hear him. The membership has doubled since the first regular meeting, and several matters are to come before this next meeting and it is advisable that there should be a full attendance.

WINCHESTER PEOPLE IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Two Winchester girls and two returning soldiers were in an auto accident in Arlington Saturday afternoon when the car, driven by Mrs. Frances T. Conlon, daughter of Selectman Patrick Noonan of Canal street, skidded across the street and struck an electric light pole. The accident occurred on Massachusetts avenue, near the Lexington line. The party included Mr. and Mrs. T. Conlon, Miss Elizabeth Noonan, Mr. Conlon's sister, and Edward T. McLean of 21 Spring park avenue, Jamaica Plain. The young men had just received their discharge from the U. S. service, and Mrs. Conlon had gone to Devens to meet them, and bring them to Winchester.

Mr. Conlon was the most seriously injured. He was unconscious when the accident occurred and suffered bad cuts about the face. Mrs. Conlon was badly shaken up and cut, and her sister, besides being cut about the face, had several teeth knocked out. McLean was cut on his face and had his knee injured.

The party were attended by doctors and the two ladies and Mr. Conlon taken to the Synnott Hospital. Mrs. Conlon was able to return later to her home, but her husband and sister were detained for time until their injuries had been definitely determined.

The condition of Mr. Conlon was such as to cause considerable apprehension during the week, but while he is still at the hospital, reports were made yesterday that he is now recovering and no serious results are anticipated.

The force of the shock broke the electric light pole off at its base, and it brought down another pole, heavily charged electric wires adding to the danger of the accident. The automobile, which was a new one, was badly wrecked.

K. OF C. NOTES

The re-exemplification of the first degree will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. All members of the Council are requested to be present to help the applicants in their first views of Columbianism. A large class of candidates are awaiting admission to our Council and it is for the interest of the Knights to be in attendance at this degree.

Our Chaplain, Rev. Nathaniel J. Merritt, is pleased by the interest shown by the members of the Council and knows they will keep up the ideals of the true Knight of Columbus.

The Worthy Financial Secretary, Mr. Edward Goggin, says, "It is some busy these days," as the applications and financial matters are increasing. He says, "It is some busy these days," as the applications and financial matters are increasing. He says, "It is some busy these days," as the applications and financial matters are increasing.

The rehearsals of the play, "Stop Thief," are progressing with "good results." Mr. Charles J. Harrold, with his well known ability to arouse the players to enthusiasm, is meeting with fine success.

Sergeant Daniel Hanlon is reported to be on his way home, and as he was somewhat away, he said, "I wish he would hurry up." Dan has been missed by the members of the Council, as he was interested in all our activities, which he has done so well.

Sergeant George LeDue writes that he is longing to be back in Winchester, as France is not the country he would want to settle in for a family.

Corporal Edward Boyle writes that time hangs heavily on his hands now and if he had a chance and owned a car, he would make a try for this side of the water.

Brother William F. Leonard, who has shared in the honors of the U. S. Navy, is now in the waters of the North Sea during the war. He is in line with those performed by him in the Navy. He is now in the waters of the North Sea during the war. He is in line with those performed by him in the Navy.

William Rogers is wearing the red stripes, discharging from the army. Bill says the easiest way to get for him in the army as now he is scared to look a meal at home in the face for fear it might run away at the sight of his countenance. Three squares is a soldier's delight and Bill will sure be delighted.

Brother Henry Longfield, our Treasurer, is sure to be a success in that office, as the Council's funds are increasing under his care and he has been generous in mind to members who do not realize that Brother Longfield is on the job. Good men as well as good treasurers are scarce and can't afford to lose any of our members.

We wonder if the members of the Council know who are the east in the West? It would help some if they would ascertain and talk this "real good" show up a bit. Find out for yourself brother who's who and what he is doing for. Ask for information. Seek until you find out.

Corporal John Blackburn from Devens reminds us of a joke a friend made. It was, "Why is a soldier discharged from the army like a ham sandwich? Because one is mustered out and the other mustard in. John is still in and that is no joke. Four bells and a jingle, "Watch us grow."

Mr. J. H. Gerlach of Everett avenue has sold his factory at Arlington to the Huff Electrostatic Separator Company of Boston. The transfer included 250,000 square feet of land with buildings, having about 4000 square feet of floor space, and water power estimated at 60 horse power.

Star Office

ENDORSEMENT FOR MR. NEWMAN

Editor of the Star:

Through your columns I wish to express my well wishes for Mr. Newman as a candidate for re-election to the Board of Selectmen. The past year has been a trying one for the Board due to war conditions. There has been an honest desire on the part of our citizens to keep our tax rate within bounds. As no money was raised during the past year by Bond issues, the appropriations for the year were of necessity cut to the limit, which made it a difficult problem to complete the work as laid out. All this and more in the shape of increased costs of labor and materials have made it a difficult year for the men guiding the expenditures of the Town.

Mr. Newman, as a member of the Finance Committee of the Board of Selectmen, has seen to it that the appropriations of the Departments coming under the direct supervision of the Selectmen have not been overdrawn. He is conscientious and fearless in his endeavors to vote on all matters after careful investigation in a manner which shall be for the best interests of the majority. He has never on any question the past year where he has shown any regard for other than the best interests of the citizens at large. It is because of this office that I wish for his re-election. Respectfully, Vincent Farnsworth, 8 Wedgemere avenue.

COMMUNITY SUPPER

Last Friday evening, February 21, under the auspices of the Ladies' Bethany Society of the Second Congregational Church a very pleasant and profitable time was enjoyed by members of the society and friends, about one hundred being present. It was most gratifying to have present a number of old friends from the First Church, among whom was Deacon Swett, who offered prayer.

Under the efficient leadership of Mrs. Minnie Fogg, the following committee, Mrs. Wm. J. Nutter, Mrs. George Harrison, Mrs. Dora Foster, and Miss Mary M. Cheney assisted by some of the young ladies of the church served a bountiful supper.

The church was very nicely decorated with American and Allied flags and pictures of the following members of the church were on display: Washington. Also, at each place was a tiny tin hat given as a souvenir to all present.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Richard Taylor, president of the Society, who presided in her usual charming manner. After the singing of "America," Rev. Wm. Taylor, pastor of the church was called upon for a few remarks. This was followed by vocal solos by Miss Jenn MacLellan, and the evening's program closed with an address on the subject, "Home Garden," by Mrs. Lorraine Woodside, which proved most interesting and instructive to the audience. After the address Mrs. Woodside read several entertaining selections for the children present.

HOLIDAY REUNION

Mr. G. H. Lochman's brothers and sisters and their families met at his home last Sunday for a family reunion. Tables were set for 20 who sat down for a happy meal and an enjoyable afternoon. ## W. C. T. U. NOTES.

Five or six women from Winchester have been invited to a luncheon which is to be given next week by the board of directors of the Frances E. Willard settlement at the Westminister, in order to raise the better known. Mrs. Ella A. Gleason is one of the directors and will be one of the hostesses. The settlement has been in existence for over twenty years, its early beginnings in two or three small rooms down on Hanover street, Boston. Its larger work is now carried on in the building on Myrtle street, in November, 1907, since which time its growth has been steady and rapid. Miss Caroline M. Caswell, its founder and always its head, is still full of plans for its extension and has the gift of inspiring others with the same spirit.

The White Ribbon Home at Ayer is still the center of active life and the men from overseas who went from Camp Devens drop in often to say how glad they are to get back and to tell of the good times they used to have there, before they went overseas. It will be some time before the place will be out of commission for its original purpose and after that there are several plans whereby it may continue to be of service to the community. The home mother can still make good use of reading matter and delicacies for those in hospital.

The desperate efforts of the anti-pollutionists reveal their distress at realizing that what could not be done last year, they are now doing. Their efforts do not seem to be clear to them, but a careful study of the records of the states that have ratified gives them much encouragement. As twenty-nine of the legislatures ratifying were elected last November on that issue it does not look as if the misrepresentation of last year were dry states and their action caused an outburst of anger from the voters. It looks as if the anti's were not poor strategists.

LAST TWO WEEKS "THE BETTER ONE"

"The Better One" which has been making theatrical history for the last nine weeks at the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, is to terminate its engagement, Saturday. There has been such a demand for this amazing theatrical success that Mr. and Mrs. Cohn have decided to send the Boston company to tour to a number of the large cities. Just a little suggestion so you will not be disappointed—it would be wise to send a letter to the Boston company, or to the manager, Mr. Cohn, in advance and be sure and enclose your money for your tickets and the war tax.

The play is so intensely human and Bert, Alf and Bill the three marketeers know as the "three musketeers" with their good nature and wit, have been literally raising the roof nightly at the Hollis.

The great thing about "The Better One" is that it makes you think of the war and forget it at the same time. Queer, isn't it? But it is gospel truth. You sit there and laugh your head off over things that won't arise in your mind as funeral when you were living them.

Islanders Once Pirates. Recent archaeological research in the Virgin Islands, formerly the Dutch West Indies and now belonging to the United States, indicates that the ancient Indian inhabitants of the islands were pirates who made long voyages in their canoes in search of loot.

Liberal Response Expected by Massachusetts to Call For Funds to Save Starving People of the Asia Minor

Governments of the World American Committee for Relief in the Near East to Rescue Destitute Armenians and Syrians From Ruin—Disasters—Displacements and Massacres Depicted in Pictures—"Ravaged Armenia" Trail Only Half the Truth—At least Sixty Thousand to Contribute $1,000,000 to Feed Starving

THEY SHALL NOT PERISH
CAMPAIGN for $30,000,000
AMERICAN COMMITTEE FOR RELIEF IN THE NEAR EAST
(Formerly American Committee for Armenian-Syrian Relief)

THE OFFICIAL POSTER OF THE AMERICAN COMMITTEE FOR RELIEF IN THE NEAR EAST

Caricatures received recently by the Massachusetts Committee for Relief in the Near East tell of the huge need for funds to carry on work among the destitute people in Asia Minor.

Many of them Armenians of Anatolia, a population of some 6,000,000 of Turkish formerly, now, confined to their homes, deliberately denied, and in some cases, their children are taken in the streets and the Turks still threaten. The situation is now relieved by the presence of Turkish troops under Sultan's command.

One out of four of the Armenians, a population in Asia Minor has survived the deportations and massacres. The relief workers of the American Committee for Relief in the Near East are now on their way to Turkey to see these transports, which also are carrying supplies of food, medicine, clothing, farm implements and portable hospitals.

Massachusetts has been asked by the American Committee for Relief to contribute $1,000,000 in order to finance the rescue work. The committee undertakes the task at the request of the United States State Department and the governments of the European Allies.

The campaign in Massachusetts is under the direction of a committee headed by Mr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University. Among the men who accepted appointments to this committee recently are United States Senator-elect David I. Walsh, Joseph T. Brennan, Field Director for New England for the Near East, and Dr. Harry A. Garfield, President of Williams College and United States Field Administrator.

There was shown in Boston last week the photographic "Ravaged Armenia," the official picture of the Near East, which is based on the report of former United States ambassador to Turkey, Henry Morgenthau, and the Committee of the European Allies for the Near East.

The Boston censor allowed this picture to be displayed because it was propaganda for the Near East. It was not permitted to be shown as a commercial proposition. Yet missionaries who have seen the film say that it is true and that the horrible crimes the Turks committed upon the Armenians could not be shown. Each scene is a reproduction of a historical fact. The Turks are depicted throwing Armenian children into the Black Sea, driving men, women and children into houses, which they then set on fire leaving the inmates to perish. Mrs. Jeannette Enrich, a returned missionary declared that she saw on the banks of the Black Sea the bodies of Armenian children whose bodies had been washed ashore, and watched the Turks drive an Armenian woman, the wife of a Syrian physician, into one of the Black Sea.

The present governments of the world have decided that the time has come to suppress the Turks and to give his alien subjects a fair chance to enjoy life. The Allied victory has made it possible to carry out this program and the American people are expected to contribute liberally to the fund which will help to make this under.

No campaign has been more heartily endorsed by the leading citizens of all religious denominations in America than the one for relief in the Near East. President Wilson, Cardinal Gibbons, Cardinal O'Connell, Food Administrator Herbert Hoover, his law, Lawrence and hundreds of other prominent men have endorsed it. One of the last contributions made by President Roosevelt was to the Near East fund.

AWARDED CROIX DE GUERRE

Former Winchester Boy Under 18 Receives Honor

The following is clipped from the Boston Herald: Under 18 contains an account of the awarding by the French medical service of the Croix de Guerre to Private Henry L. Houghton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Houghton, former well-known residents of this town.

Henry Lincoln Houghton, Jr., Private Henry Lincoln Houghton, Jr., S. S. U. 626 A. E. F., with the Forty-seventh Division of the French Army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Houghton of 176 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, has received the Croix de Guerre, although he is only eighteen years old. His citation was dated Oct. 27 and he was decorated on Thanksgiving Day. The citation says:

"Henry Lincoln Houghton, S. S. U. 626 young American volunteer ambulance driver, who has fallen since the offensive beginning in the month of July to give proof in the highest degree of the great qualities of energy, coolness, exceptional courage, endurance and devotion in going to the relief of our wounded at the advanced post of service of our battalion in the course of the numerous actions in which his section was engaged."

Cl. Zumbach

"Le Membre Principal de 24"

Private Houghton was a student at Noble & Greenough School and sailed from New York City in 1917, when only seventeen years old, as a volunteer in the American Field Ambulance Service. After reaching France he was assigned to a private in the A. E. F. for the duration of the war, the Ambulance Service having been taken over by the United States Army. He was at once assigned to active service at Verdun with the French Army, with which he still is serving.

TOWN ELECTION

Good Vote Prices Some Surprises in Contested Offices

The town election, held Monday night, almost without exception, conditions, brought out a good vote and resulted in surprises for some of the citizens in several of the contested offices. One surprise especially was the vote of the women, for school Committee, no less than 167 casting their ballots. This is the largest women's vote ever cast in town, and while those in the know anticipated that the women would vote for the Republican ticket, they were surprised to find that the women voted for the Democratic ticket.

EDUCATIONAL RECONSTRUCTION

PARSONS SMITH

Educational Reconstruction and its Relationship to Local Interests will be discussed by Mr. Parsons Smith, State Commissioner of Education, at the Town Hall, Wednesday evening, March 12, 1919, at eight o'clock. The report of the Reconstructive Commission on Education, appointed by the Governor will receive special attention. The Journal of Education says: "The bills accompanying the report of the Reconstructive Commission carry a program of educational revision the most radical and far-reaching ever proposed in the State. There are about twenty of these bills covering many phases of educational administration."

Commissioner Smith is one of the most pleasing and effective speakers on educational subjects in New England. He is never dry or heavy, but always simple, practical and interesting. During the past year, he has been serving as a member of the committee organized by the National Education Association to draft a bill to establish a national Department of Education at Washington with a cabinet officer at its head. Such a bill has been drafted and is awaiting the action of Congress at present. The importance of this bill carrying it into effect, a program of educational reorganization for the nation has the same relationship to national educational interests that the re-construction of our state educational system has to state educational interests. With both programs Commissioner Smith is perfectly familiar.

His report will be held under the auspices of the Winchester Teachers' Club, who are anxious to have the attendance not only of all those who are directly interested but also of all those who are interested in it. Tickets may be secured upon application from any Winchester teacher or at the Town Library.

WINCHESTER RED CROSS

Beginning Monday, March 10, the rooms will be open for sewing and knitting two days a week, Monday and Wednesday. It is hoped that all those who have so kindly assisted the help other days will arrange to come one of those days, as there is a lot of refuse work to be done in both the sewing and the knitting. The following will be of interest to many of our knitters:

More Knitting

Draw and knit the knitters needles that temporarily were sheathed, following the signing of the armistice! Hands that became expert in winding them in thousands of Red Cross work rooms, when there were garments to be made for our boys in camps and trenches, have new work to do. This time it is not a matter of supplying comforts; it is one of relieving actual and terrible suffering.

Patriotism never had any finer personification than in the case of the millions of American women who responded to the country's call and became the "Army behind the Army." Now it is humanity that calls. Women and children all over Europe and in the countries of the Near East, are suffering from the lack of proper clothing. Over here, on this side of the people had the money with which to buy, there is no material to be made into the articles that mean protection, health and sanity.

It is to supply in some measure the crying needs in this line of relief that Red Cross chapters, now are summoned to the task. Unfortunately there is in stock a considerable quantity of yarn, originally intended for use in knitting garments for the soldiers. This yarn has been made available for the making of stockings, mufflers and sweaters for children who are innocent sufferers of war now ended, and for the women who have lost homes and loved ones—everything except the hope which must be turned to courage in order to set the world going again.

To what happier use could this leftover material be put than just this form of relief now presented? What greater opportunity could there be to serve for those who learned the beauty of service when the guns were roaring? Sometimes in the past, in the enthusiasm of their patriotic energy, women workers have said that they did not want to knit for refugees; that they wanted to knit for soldiers. Whatever reason there may have been in such declarations heretofore, it certainly has not existence now; for there is no need whatever for additional soldiers' garments, while there is need so great that it can not be exaggerated for all the garments that can be supplied for hundreds of thousands—millions of unfortunate human beings in other lands.

The immediate duty of the Red Cross on a "peace basis," is to supplement the tremendous work of reconstruction.

EPIPHANY WOMAN'S GUILD

Next Wednesday, the day for the regular monthly meeting in the Parish House, will be used to sew for the mountain people in the South—from 10 a. m. until 4 p. m. The sewing meeting will be held at the usual hour, 2.45. A cordial invitation is extended to all women of the Parish to bring their own "peace basis," is to supplement the tremendous work of reconstruction.

TOWN MEETING

Big Attendance at First Session
Accomplishes Considerable

The first session of the annual Town Meeting, held Monday evening, was attended by a big gathering of voters and likewise large gallery of feminine spectators. Considerable was accomplished, the regular routine appropriations being made and the usual voting question between capital and labor as presented by half holidays and legal holidays with pay for the town employees being settled.

The Finance Committee, represented by its energetic chairman, Mr. William L. Parsons, made a fine showing and was well supported by the voters. In fact hardly a single appropriation was questioned and the chairman gave ample proof of his knowledge and familiarity with every department.

Practically the only debate of the evening was over the labor question, and as soon as this was put to a rising vote it showed that much of it was needless, as the matter was disposed of 215 to 95.

Moderator Fox opened the meeting promptly and read the result of the election held during the day, this being followed by his swearing in Mr. Metcalf of the Board of Assessors and the rest of the town officers.

Article 2. The report of the Finance Committee was accepted as printed.

Article 3. $36,000 was voted to meet payment by the Town of bonds and notes becoming due in the current year. In connection with the passage of this vote Chairman Parsons of the Finance Committee outlined the work and action taken by that body. He spoke of the increase made in the Team 3 made another strong showing today evening, thereby strengthening its hold on the second position, one point behind team 9. Team 14, in third place, one win behind team 3, also made a strong showing, keeping the three leaders in last week's line. Teams 10, 5 and 1 were the losers. Mrs. Tompkins again led the ladies, she rolling 186 with a single of 95. Mrs. Fahey got 165 with 84, Mrs. Wadsworth 88, Mrs. Smalley 82 and Mrs. Farnsworth 81. Mr. Wood rolled a total of 206 with a single of 107, Mr. Newman a single of 105 and Mr. Blank 101.

SPRING TOURNAMENT

Top Teams Still Remain in Tie

The two top teams in the spring bowling tournament at the Calumet Club still remain tied, being unable to break the deadlock in weekend matches. Team 1 took a four point lead over team 2, and team 3 a five point lead over team 4. Owing to new pins, all of the scores were low. Team 1 partially revived its standing by a win of four points from team 4, neither at present being in a dangerous position. Stephenson was the only man outside of Judge Lattfield to find the combination of the new pins. Stephenson rolled a total of 337 with 116 for high single. The Judge got three eights for 252. Dr. Olmsted got 312 with 113, Redwell 112, Finn 111, Goddard 107, Keppers and Gordon 105, Olmsted 104, Metcalf 102 and W. Baker 100.

Wednesday night's matches saw a shift in third place between teams 10 and 11. Team 10 dropped into a fourth place tie with team 11. Teams E and F went up considerably, while the tail-enders, D and G, fell several places. The scores were low as a whole. The D and B match was the closest, B taking its only point by winning the first string by four pins, while it lost the third by but a like number. Bradlee was high in individual work. He rolled a total of 337 with 115 for high single. Taylor with 308 on 108, and Hildreth with 304 on 105, were the only other men to reach a 300 total. Singles were made as follows: Downs 118, Tarbell 113, Barrett and Newman 105 each, Metcalf and C. W. Tarbell 102 each and Knibbs 101.

TO STIMULATE INTEREST IN MUSIC

Prizes to Be Competed For by School Pupils With Awards in May

To stimulate an interest in and appreciation for music among the children at a time when they are most receptive to the development of musical appreciation, and to encourage familiarity with the standard musical classics, the Winchester Music Association, in cooperation with the STAR and private citizens of Winchester, and the National Music Association, Department of Music, will offer prizes amounting to $55 for the greatest proficiency in recognizing standard music.

The Plan
Mr. Richard W. Grant, supervisor of music has selected fifty compositions representative of the different types of classics. This list will be found in this week's STAR and in every succeeding week until the third week of May, when a public test will be made in the Town Hall, at which fifteen compositions will be to the effect that the returning soldiers of the laboring men would see it that this income was granted. He felt that other citizens as well as the laborers had sons in service and that they should not be called on in this matter. Mr. D. J. McCall explained that the laborer had more sons in the service.

Mr. Parbury favored a 48 hour week and a Saturday half holiday, but not a 44 hour week.

The question then came up as to how much money the laborers received a week. Mr. Barrett desiring this information, Ex-Secretary Laraway stated that it would be necessary to get the pay roll to give exact figures, but the steady men got $21 and sometimes $20 and $25. He desired a vote on the question so that the Selectmen would have definite information. Selectman Newman also desired a vote.

Moderator Ives stated that the passage of the motion to indefinitely postpone disposition of the matter properly. A vote by acclamation was desired and a rising vote taken, Messrs. W. J. Brown, J. W. Russell, Jr., E. S. Snyder and J. A. Laraway being appointed tellers by the Moderator.

The articles were indefinitely postponed 27½. This debate occupied about a half hour.

Article 1. The first vote under this article was that of transfers, and the following appropriation was made: Assessor's Department $2,500 Auditor's Department $1,150 Board of Survey $100 Cemetery Maintenance $1,050 Claim Account $6,841.15 Clerical Assistance $2,115 Collector of Taxes' Department $3,111.70

Independence Day $700 Inspector of Animals' Department $100 Inspector of Buildings' Department $825

Inspector of Wires' Department $300 Interest $31,000 Legal Department $1,750 Library $1 and dog tag Memorial Day $200 Parks and Playgrounds $5,175 Pensions for Police $546 Pensions for Town Officers $324.50 Planning Board $100

Door $12,000 Reserve Fund $3,000 Schools $100,895 Senior Citizens' Weights and Measures' Department $255

Selectmen's Department $1,450 Sewer Construction $10,000 Sewer Construction—House connections $1,000

Sewer Maintenance $1,500 Shade Trees $550 Snow and ice, care of $3,200 Soldier's Relief $360 State and Militia $7,000 Street Lights $11,200 Surface Drainage $4,200 Town Clerk's Department $620 Town Hall $4,000

Town Stable, Maintenance of $9,161 Treasurer's Department $1,550 Unclassified Account $1,985 Water Construction $2,000 Water Construction—house connections $1,000

Water Maintenance $16,000 Winchester Hospital $500 Workmen's Compensation Act Expense $1,100

During the passage of these appropriations, Mr. P. E. Fitzgerald questioned the advisability of paying $1,000 for counsel, feeling that there were plenty of lawyers here who would like the job at half the price. This was lost.

Chairman Parsons explained that the increase of $800 in the Police appropriation was for an additional patrolman at the Highlands north of Lebanon street.

Mr. P. E. Fitzgerald desired information regarding Black Ball pond in the Park Dept. appropriation and Chairman Parsons explained that this was in connection with a gift of land bordering the pond made to the town by an unnamed citizen and further explanation would be forthcoming later.

Article 5. Under this article the following votes were passed upon recommendation of the Finance Committee:

1. That the Finance Committee be appointed to investigate the following items, this investigation being and it is hereby requested, as soon as it can conveniently do so, to investigate and report to the Town at some subsequent meeting, such facts and recommendations as it may deem to be of advantage to the Town upon the following questions, to wit:

1. What public improvements, if any, may profitably be entered upon by the Town with a view to increasing the valuation of the taxable property in the Town.

2. What changes and improvements, if any, can be made in the system of assessing the taxable property of the Town?

3. What economies may be advantageously adopted by the Town through its officers, boards and committees in the performance of their duties without impairing their efficiency?

In accordance with the terms of this vote the Finance Committee may act as a whole or through such sub-committee or sub-committees as it may choose from among its members.

4. That a committee consisting of the following persons be a committee to investigate the advisability of erecting a permanent memorial to the citizens of Winchester who, as members of the military and naval forces of the United States or as members of other armed services overseas, participated in the recent world war; said committee shall determine the form of the permanent memorial, its location or site, when it shall be erected, how it shall be paid for and maintained, and shall report its findings to the next annual town meeting.

Levy T. Hubbard, Charles T. Main, Fred Joy, James J. Fitzgerald, Rev. J. H. McCall, Dr. Daniel C. Bennett, Roland H. Sherman, Robert H. McCall, James Barlow, Robert Coit, Dexter P. Blakie, Ralph E. Joslin, James Hinds, Thomas H. Jones, George T. Davidson.

Vote. That the Moderator appoint a committee of fifteen to consist of both men and women living within the Town to consider the advisability of having an educational survey of the public school system of the Town made with a view to improving the same, or of taking any other action with respect to the public schools, said committee to report as early as possible to the Selectmen who may thereupon call a special town meeting to act upon the report either prior to June 1 or after October 1, 1919.

In the matter of the school survey the original motion called for a committee of five to report at a special town meeting June 1st. Mr. Snyder, who was interested in presenting this motion, moving the committee of fifteen and Mr. Jewett felt that in order to consider the findings of a committee by a representative town meeting, such thing should not be held between June 1 and Oct. 1.

In presenting the motion Moderator Ives stated that he had been asked to place the ladies on the committee and the question had arisen regarding the ward citizens those interested desiring to know if that included ladies. This part of the motion was subsequently changed, although Moderator Ives gave it as his judgment that ladies could be included.

Mr. Snyder desired the committee be made up of representative men and women from all sections, and Mr. Tucker desired that at least two women be placed on the committee (original of 5). Mr. Laraway did not favor allowing the matter to rest until fall, but was over-ruled.

About this time Mr. Tucker presented some heavy motions under committee appointments, Senator Lodge, President Wilson and the freedom of Ireland being involved. The weight of the motions caused Moderator Ives to decline to put them before the meeting. Mr. Tucker then offered a motion that Mr. P. E. Fitzgerald be appointed a committee of one to investigate and report on using the "Water that goes over the dam" to furnish power to operate a municipal electric lighting plant. This was lost.

Article 7. The Selectmen were authorized to employ a Town Counsel.

Article 8. The Selectmen were authorized to employ a Town Engineer.

Article 9. The number of messengers of wood and bark was fixed at not exceeding five persons.

Article 10. The School Committee was authorized to spend the necessary sum from its appropriation to convey pupils to and from remote districts.

Article 11. The Selectmen were authorized to make cancellations and renewals or other changes in the fire insurance policies and a vote of $300 was voted in connection, to be raised by revenue.

Article 12. It was voted to pay to Mr. H. J. Thurston the sum of $273.60 to reimburse it for selective draft work.

Adjourned at 10 o'clock until Monday evening, March 10, at 7.45.

NOTES

Pat the Bath House off until the last. Every day it grows warmer.

The gentleman without a vote held the town until Monday night with fluent oratory.

We might combine the history of our Civil War veterans with that of the present war veterans; then our record will be complete.

The Town is going to see what it can do in letting out contracts for the purchase of supplies and material. Will it cost as much as a town manager, and can a local man handle the job?

An article which appears to be filled with possibilities is the question of the building of a house and building on Swanton street. Is there a building boom in that section?

It might be interesting to know just how the Town stands at this time in regard to any reimbursement from the State for its expenditures in connection with the raising and equipping its State Guard Company.

Apparently there will be some fireworks when the article appropriating $500 for a celebration to returning soldiers comes up. $3,000 has been mentioned as a more appropriate sum. Why not combine the celebration with the memorial to be erected, either in a dedication or use of the funds. Perhaps we will do both.

The advisability of the appointment of a committee of fifteen men and women to consider the matter of an educational survey of our public schools appears to be in question. There is some doubt as to just how much will be accomplished by so large a committee. The original motion for this committee as made by the Finance Committee called for a committee of five. The committee to report on the survey, which is reported to entail considerable expense. It seems generally conceded that such a survey should be made only by experts, and it is regarding whether such expert or experts shall be called in to make it that all common sense will decide, the voters to rally the decision at a special meeting. A committee of fifteen may possibly go deeper into the matter than a committee of five and more possibly may contain a more sectional representation. On the other hand a large committee has many minds and it may be much more difficult to secure united action. School action has always called for considerable discussion in this town. In fact the schools may well be, as Mr. Snyder says, our most important department, and it is the Town as a whole, in the end, which will decide whether an educational survey is to be desired. It is very possible that a committee of five representative men and women could present the matter to the Town for action fully as effectively as a larger body, and equally possible that the large committee may not accomplish its object in a manner to inspire the confidence of the Town in its decision.

ENGLAND'S DOGS OF WAR

Carried Messages Through Shellfire Where Man Could Not Pass

England's dog army rendered gallant service in the war. Many a soldier owes his life to some poor, untrained, cared-for, stray dog. For nearly two years dogs were employed by the British as messengers, as sentries and as guides.

Early in 1917 a war school of instruction was established by the British War Office at Col. Calverton, who has devoted his life to training dogs, was appointed commandant of the school. Game-keepers, hunters and shepherds were called from the Army to assist in the work of instruction.

After a thorough training in England, the dogs were sent to France, and on the battlefield their skill, courage and tenacity amazed the Army. Often wounded in the performance of their duties, they never faltered while strength remained to carry on. The official record of their heroic work tells of successful message-carrying through darkness, mist, rain and shellfire over the most difficult ground. In a few minutes' time dogs have brought messages over ground that would take a soldier runner hours to cross.

During the great German advance last Spring part of the British line in front of a famous French town was cut off by severe enemy barrage. A messenger dog was released with an urgent appeal for reinforcements. The dog ran two miles in 10 minutes. The result was that a French Colonial Division was sent up and prevented a disaster. The messenger was a Highland sheep dog.

Another dog with a message ran nearly four miles in 20 minutes, and still another in 30 minutes carried back from the front a map of an important captured position, when a man would have taken an hour and a half to bring it in.

The dogs which have been found most successful in war work are collies, sheep dogs, lurchers and Alpdoodles, and crosses of these varieties, while in a number of cases Welsh and Irish terriers have given excellent results.

On many occasions dogs have given warning of enemy patrols long before the soldier sentries were aware of their presence.

TREMENT THEATRE

"Blind Youth," a dramatic comedy with Lou Tellegen as the star will be the attraction at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, for only two weeks beginning, Monday, March 10. The play is in three acts and was written by Ward Macaulay and Lou Tellegen. Not only is the brilliant young actor star and author of the play but is his own manager, as well.

So great was the popularity of Mr. Tellegen among the younger set that it would seem he has once more brought a matinee idol to our stage. His first appearance in this country was in the capacity of leading man with Madame Bernhardt. He fell in love with the United States and has remained here ever since married to an American girl, Geraldine Farrar.

Mr. Tellegen's company will include Jennie Fustate, Mark Smith, William S. Rogers, Jean Robertson, Miriam Sears, Maria Norlina, Nan DeVoe and others. Seats are now on sale, and mail orders will be carefully filled.

FROM A LITTLE FRENCH GIRL

The following is a letter received by Miss Mildred Harrold, 333 Washington street, from a little French girl, "Over There":

Neufchateau, February 13, 1919.

My dear friend Mildred: You can imagine my pleasure when I received your sweet letter. I thank you a hundred times for it and for your picture.

I wish I could send you one of me, but I have given those I had to my friends and have no more. But I think I shall be able to send you one soon. We all think you look like your brother. You laugh like him.

We saw him just a few days before your letter arrived. He came with another boy and we were very glad to see them. Mr. George is always very gay, he makes us laugh all the time. He speaks French quite well and speaks it splendidly. But he did not stay a long time here, one day, it is a short leave.

Still he said he would come back after all is done, and we hope it—and hope that he will take you with him to France. Mr. George, your brother, is now not very far from Paris. I guess he will leave France very soon.

We have a very severe winter here now. Before it was raining all the time, but now it is very cold and it is very cold. We skate on the river. This afternoon I had a very good time on the ice. I was with friends and enjoyed ourselves much. There were only young people, girls and boys of the town, soldiers and a few American boys.

The sunset was wonderful to-night, and it was very pretty to see the red and blue sky over the white pure snow. The river in very small ones, between woody hills and meadows. Every day when I come back from College I take my skates and go there. And at night I work a little later to do my tasks. You know it is the only attraction I have. I have the habit to stay at home all the time. But I do not know what I should do.

Yes, my dear Mildred I have several cousins who are in the service, seven I think. Two of them are in the front line, where they are very prisoners. The other has been killed on the front. The rest are yet well but when will they come back?

I wish I could go to the wedding of one of my cousins. I rejoice in a wedding. I go to and I do not know how to dance!

I forgot to tell you that I heard from your dear brother some days ago. He asked if I had received a letter from you. I am answering at once I had heard.

By your picture I see you have many, many friends. I guess you live in a very pretty country. Our Louaine is also picturesque (not in winter). The town is very quiet. Most of the houses were formerly convents. They are old fashioned, and have old customs and ways, the people. You will ask your brother if they are not?

We had beautiful celebrations on Christmas for the first time since the war. We had a midnight Mass. Well, now I think I will retire, with my best wishes to you dear and your family.

I hope I will hear from you soon again and I will have the pleasure to see you one day. I remain,

Your little French friend, Berthe Caplebosse.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

If a candy-maker, having a national reputation at stake, produced a bad batch of chocolates, says Don Francisco in Pratt's, "I probably wouldn't take him long to decide to throw away the batch rather than market it at the risk of his reputation."

A national reputation costs money. Even a local reputation costs money. Both are gained for marketable commodities by continuous advertising. The merchant who constantly advertises to build up confidence in his wares isn't going to have that confidence destroyed by lowering, even temporarily, the standard of the goods he deals in. If chance, or carelessness on the part of his employees, or other causes over which he has no control, throw on his hands goods inferior to those he has promised to supply, it is cheaper for him to throw them away than to market them.

Buying of regular advertisers in the STAR is an insurance that you will get what you pay for.

"If the Tenthons sink more than a third of the shipping of the rest of the world, and this seems to be the general estimate," remarked a Winchester gentleman "there will be wonderful results in the way of salvage. There is reason to believe that the efforts in this line will surpass all former undertakings."

This Winchester gentleman compared the appliances of industry or science now in use with those of a half a century. The contrast was striking. The salvage crews of today have equipment that they would be proud to have purchased in former periods, but this by no means covers the whole advance. Superstition is less potent.

The dread of the marmalade or some mysterious being under the sea is not so prevalent as it was. An increasing number of men are as ready to work under the sea as they would be to work anywhere else. Their work will be done with scientific precision, not because they have provided themselves with charms but because they have outgrown the terror once universal.

There will be enough treasure recovered from the bottom of the sea to amaze those Winchesterites who believed the old-time stories.

A contemporary published in a community less than a dozen miles from Winchester has been lending its columns to a critic whose object seems to be to make out the worst case against the public schools. The critic is aware of cases in which children have failed of promotion and therefore the censor blames the text books, the teachers, the board of education and everybody else save the lazy boys and girls.

As there are men who lose chances in life through their misconduct there are right here in Winchester children who do not want to learn. They are Lousburs say have infinite capacity to resist the introduction of knowledge. They shirk and trifle away whole weeks and when they fail of promotion somehow soothe their wounded vanity by saying that it is not the teacher's fault. It is not wise to leave out this element—in fact it has to be taken into consideration by those who study mental development.

Handing authorities had cause to regret their failure to keep their contract with the piper who charmed the rats. Now "Star Reader" wants to know what will come of the anti-rat measure soon to be laid before the British Parliament.

The Spectator.

ANOTHER WINCHESTER BOY BACK FROM FRANCE

Among the men to return March 7th from France on the transport Verde was Alfred E. Hibbard of this town. Hibbard enlisted from here on the outbreak of the war, entering the Coast Artillery at Fort Banks, Feb. 3, 1917. He was sent across Aur, 14th, being among the first men of the C. A. C. to go. On Nov. 28, 1917, he was badly gassed and was confined to the hospital until March 8, 1918. He was returned to the front line, and on March 8th was blown from a tree where he was doing observation work and badly hurt by a shell. He was again discharged from the hospital the last of June of that year and went to the front again, seeing active service up to the time of the armistice.

Hibbard was an observer with the big guns and saw much of the destruction they caused. He came to Winchester and spent Sunday with his family, returning to Camp Devens Monday. He is with the regulars and has two more years to serve. He has been in a position to tell some interesting stories. Through Mrs. C. E. Kibbler he sends greetings to his Winchester friends who kept in touch with him while across by writing or otherwise. He states that he is particularly grateful to Mr. Everett Smith of the Richardson Market for cheer boxes, which followed him through 19 months of service.

Milton, violinist; Miss Bessie Grant of Winchester, contralto. Mrs. Florence Taylor of Woburn, select readings from Donbar. ### SPECIAL AD

The Winchester branch of the S. A. is hostess at the Wendell House on the second Sunday of each month. In spite of the storm last Sunday this branch was represented and from this one experience, made to feel the great need of such a place, for a set of boys who are not satisfied to just knock around. They want to feel as the lad did whom we have quoted before: "Gee, this is a room, comfortably furnished, a player piano at one end and a pool table at the other."

The lad seem to enjoy finding someone there to chat with as with mother at home, and they can supply their own entertainment if the hostess does not do so.

The first to come in was a lad of 21, who had run away from his Virginia home as a kid, he said, and served in the Spanish War. He is here now with his medical officer, is so interested in the work that he reads everything he can get hold of and hopes to have his chance to study some day for the medical profession.

There was a "Gib" from Wisconsin who was a school teacher. He declared, and is now in government work in Quincy. "It is such a noisy place, a fellow doesn't want to live there." So "Gib" proved him to be a communitarian at the Wendell House and go back and forth each day.

A lad from Wisconsin sat at the piano and gave us classical selections, or war songs. All the crowd sang these with a real war swing. He said he learned to play as a kid, and did anything else he could find to help him earn his way through college.

Then came the lad with the wild cut insignia, they who fought with the tanks in the awful fighting at Mihel and Belleau Woods.

A lad six foot two inches, whose nickname is "Slim" proved him to be an artist at the player piano and was in constant demand. He was a very modest chap, but his pal, a boy from New Jersey, told his story. He had been in the N. Y. 27th division, who helped break through the Hindenburg line; was badly wounded and sent to the English hospital, and has arrived here recently and discharged.

So they came and went all the evening, these lads who have done their work so well, and we were glad that in a small way the Winchester branch is doing its share to give them this comfortable home.

To show its popularity, they told us, that although the house could only accommodate 60 guests, Saturday night they found place for 100, they could not turn them away. So they slept on the corners, in chairs, and even on the pool table.

Our plans enable us carry on our part of this work.

MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION MEETING

Miss Amy R. Whittier, supervisor of drawing in the Winchester schools, will speak to the Mothers' Association at their regular meeting next Wednesday, March 19, 3 p. m., High School Assembly Hall.

Her subject will be "The Teaching of Art in the Public Schools." Miss Whittier will explain the changes that have taken place in the plans of art teaching during the past few years and the purposes of the program of art teaching as conducted at the present time. She will illustrate her talk by drawings made by the pupils.

The music will be Selection by the Girls' Glee Club of the High School; an instrumental trio, the Misses Feller, Farmer and Dean; and a violin solo by Master Thomas Glavin.

The association extends a cordial invitation to the teachers in particular and to all others interested in education and welfare of children. A social hour with refreshments will follow the lecture.

CITIZENSHIP

To the Editor:

I noticed in the report of the last Town Meeting, as given in the STAR, March 7, that the question whether women are citizens was raised. The moderator seemed in doubt but "gave it as his judgment that ladies could be included," in the Educational Committee under discussion.

I fear the moderator and most of us are not as familiar with the Constitution of our country as we might be. The Fourteenth Amendment to that instrument, proposed by Congress, June 16, 1866, and declared in force July 28, 1868, reads: "All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside." Could anything be clearer? Nevertheless, not long after, the Supreme Court of the United States handed down an explicit decision that women are citizens. That certainly should settle the matter definitely.

The word "citizen" is used in connection with imposition of taxes. Has anyone ever heard a man in Winchester question whether women were "citizens" in this connection? Mary E. Allen.

PROBATE AND OTHER COURT NEWS

The will of Philip H. Borden of Winchester who died September 27, 1918 has been allowed by the Probate Court. The Union Safe Deposit & Trust Company of Portland, Maine, has been appointed as executor and has given a bond of $20,000. The estate is valued at $20,000; $10,000 in real estate and $10,000 in personal property.

James W. Russell, Jr. of Winchester has been sued for $50 in an action of tort by Pellegrino De Napoli of Arlington. He alleges that on July 27, 1918 a cow owned by him was struck by the defendant's automobile and was killed.

THOMAS F. BARRY

Thomas F. Barry, aged 11 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Barry of Salem street, died on Saturday after a short illness of pneumonia. He was born in this town and leaves besides his parents, two brothers, John and David, and three sisters, Mary, Helen and Anna.

Under my care many prominent men and women have had their first experience of the physiological value of Swedish Massage. In treatment when given by an expert, will produce results both favorable and lasting. Possibly you have not learned these facts because you have not known where you could find a Masseur whose you could trust, and with whose persons you would care to associate. Having seventeen years of practice in the business district of Boston, I have treated and am treating today many of our famous business and financial leaders, and fast men of large success who know me well, and because of the value of life and from all parts of the country. I treat all whom you may wish to see. I can refer you to men whom you know and in whom a physician or nurse will find confidence.

For the time being, however, I do not fully understand. If I cannot help you, you will be free.

If you wish to feel more fit for your daily work, your social affairs, and your heart, feel free to reach me by a letter or a personal visit will be my prompt attention. Entertain by early well known Wanchester.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

Advertising is primarily utilized as a means of securing financial profit or advantage of some kind for the individual firm or corporation resorting to this form of publicity, but it may be made to serve a higher form of vision than this. States and communities seek its benefits, and even great nations are not alone its persuasive pull. Now business men are asked to advertise liberally in order to stimulate trade, expedite reconstruction and put things back on a pre-war basis as rapidly as possible. An appeal issued by Roger B. Harrison, the well known statistician, now connected with the Federal Department of Labor's Information and Education Service, says that his is the surest and quickest way to overcome the general buying apathy which exists at present.

"We would like to see more retail advertising and more national advertising," it reads, "and we believe the press of the country and ourselves will appreciate the fostering of such a movement."

The press is always ready to lend itself to such a work, from patriotic as well as selfish motives. Business men here in Winchester and elsewhere should find that the appeal is more directly aimed at them. If by increasing their own trade through judicious advertising they are also boosting the country's welfare as a whole they cannot well refuse to give an attentive ear to Mr. Harrison's plea.

A Winchester gentleman devotes himself to the study of the skies. What a hobby this Winchester gentleman has! Long before the printing press and long before the lands of the Roman empire, the astronomer made himself felt. No one can even guess at the beginning of a science so old, Egyptian, Chaldean, Chinese, Greek, Arabic, then passing to western Europe and winning triumph after triumph. For practically fourteen centuries it stood still. Ptolemy was supposed to be the highest authority on the subject, then came the great moderns and the ever-improving apparatus. So abstract that the greatest metaphysicians have found to their delight, and so practical that the crops, the clearance of vessels and the time tables of railroads are based on it. Astronomy will always have a devoted following.

It is one thing to pity the weakness of others which may be largely due to physical causes and may deserve a great deal of charity, and another to boast of one's own weaknesses. One gentleman here in Winchester has never forgotten a sight of long ago. A baby had a spasm, the mother shrieked and went on like a maniac, while the grandmother went to the child's relief, and in a twinkling the danger was past—the young mother was rather proud that she was so sensitive and could not bear to see the baby ill—nevertheless, if the grandmother had been equally nervous the infant might have died. The mother thought the grandmother somewhat romantic and matter-of-fact, but as there was no physician near the grandmother simply went ahead on the plan of first aid to the injured.

A weakness may be very hard to overcome. The schoolboy, the business man, the scientific worker may have some physical or temperamental handicap that gives him a great deal of trouble. But after all, Demosthenes forced himself to speak; he did not boast of his impediment in speech. Among the oddities of life, these should be set down. We must resolve men and women who struggle against their weaknesses, make new efforts, after every failure, and never seem to pride themselves on their sturdy courage, while we also meet those who make no struggle, allow a little weakness, or a fault to reduce them to slavery, and seemingly pride themselves as being in bondage. The Spectator.

CHARGED WITH ATTEMPT TO KILL

Grace Mottolo was arraigned in the Woburn court Saturday morning and was held for the grand jury after waiving examination. She was charged with assault with intent to kill. She fired a revolver at Dominick Flowers of Spruce street.

The trouble was occasioned over a pile of lumber. Some time ago the Mottolos bought two houses from Flowers. Following the sale there was trouble over the ownership of some second-hand lumber in the yard. Both claimed the lumber, and on Friday when Flowers and another man attempted to remove it, Mrs. Mottolo refused to give it up. When they refused she appeared with a revolver and opened fire on them.

Only one cartridge exploded, although examination shows that an attempt had been made to fire them all. Flowers escaped being hit, the bullet flying by his head and imbedding itself in his nearby house.

LETTER FROM DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS MAN

The following letter is printed through the courtesy of Mr. Robert H. Sullivan. It is of interest as being written by Priv. Joe Huntley of Co. 1, 104th Inf., one of the few men to be awarded the Distinguished Service Cross. Huntley resided on Baldwin street and is well known to many.

Co. 1, 104th Inf., A. E. F.
Dear Bud: I would drop you a few lines to let you know I pulled through this war all right.

I've been over here fifteen months and put nine straight months of that in the trenches. I was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for the "Second Battle of the Marne" last July. I got a few of the Hunns all right.

Say, Bud, I guess I didn't fool a few of the people back there. They thought I wasn't good for anything. Well, Bud, I guess we'll be sailing back soon and maybe it won't seem good.

Well, Bud, I guess I will wind it up, hoping you will drop me a line sometime. Hoping everybody is well. Wish you the best of luck. I am, Joe Huntley.

LETTER FROM OSCAR McELHINEY

The following letter has been received from Oscar McElhiney, who has been fighting with the Canadians: Ripon Camp, Yorkshire, England, February 23, 1919.

Mr. T. P. Wilson, Jr.

Dear Friend: I received your letter of Dec. 20th last night and was very pleased to hear from you. This was the first mail that I have received from home since last November, as I have been most of the time on the move. I have just got out of a hospital here in England and am now with our Reserve waiting to be sent home. We will leave for home some time in March. I was in the hospital three weeks with the "flu", and then in quarantine for ten days more. We are having a good many deaths here with the "flu", and it is hard on the boys after coming through what they did in France for years. I also got a letter from my son Allan. He is in Germany now. I just met Wm. Hall of Winchester here. He is on his way home too. I want to thank you for the letter. I don't think anything, as I will soon be home. I will call in and have a chat with you when I arrive. Give my best regards to all my Winchester boys. Hope you and family are well.

From your friend,

Oscar B. Elhiney.

BROTHERS MEET IN FRANCE

In a recent letter home Edward Lloyd of this town tells of meeting his brother Arthur, also in the American army, in France. After being separated for 19 months Edward and Arthur, who are sons of Mrs. J. Arthur, spent three days together. Arthur is located at Anzures, France, in the headquarters of Q. M. C. Edward is at Le Mans with the 1st Division.

On Feb. 19th Gen. Pershing reviewed thirty thousand men in one place, and every man with his pack on and bayonet fixed, and in every way at his best. Edward says: "It was a great sight, never to be forgotten. Prices are high in France, eggs being $1.00 a doz., butter 70 cents a pound, no kind of a meal less than $1.25 and an ordinary pocket handkerchief costs 25 cents. I need not say that our time was fully occupied talking over home, our towns, the little grey church on the corner and our friends. Homeward bound."

SPECIAL AID

An urgent request for Comfort Bags has come to the Base Hospital at Hampton Roads, Virginia. They will gladly use all we can send them up to a thousand. We have received grateful thanks from Parker Hill Roxbury Base Hospital for 172 bags recently sent there. They also can use all we can send them.

Will not friends respond to these calls, and help us give joy to the hearts of our wounded boys in the hospitals?

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

The Board of Health reports the following cases of contagious diseases for the week ending March 19: 7 Chicken Pox, 9 Influenza.

"THE ROADS TO DESTINY"

At the Unitarian Church, Sunday morning, Rev. Mr. Metcalf will speak on "Destiny with special reference to new modern dramas—"The Roads to Destiny" and "The Roads to Destiny". The public is cordially invited.

Don't forget the place—Town Hall—Nor the date—April 5—Nor the price—$1.00. Tickets for the show—Tech Glee Club Concert.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The attention of members of The Fortnightly is called to the fact that the business meeting of the Club began at 2:30. Everyone is especially urged to be in her seat promptly on Monday, March 24th, that necessary business may be transacted in the following hour. As this is to be an open meeting, the lecture will begin at 3:30.

The people of Winchester are especially fortunate in having this opportunity of listening to Mr. Donald B. MacMillan, and of seeing his pictures, still and motion, of strange lands of ice and snow—"a portion of the world concerning which no one can possibly speak with more authority, and few of any with such commanding eloquence." Mr. MacMillan has been associated with Peary in his explorations. The extent of his arctic travels is suggested by the fact that he has traveled eight thousand miles by dog team, nearly one third the distance around the globe. His story enables his hearers "to sense the cracking and rumbling of breaking seas of ice; the biting blizzards; the only odor of life, the exhalation of the Eskimos, still and motion, of strange lands of ice and snow—"a portion of the world concerning which no one can possibly speak with more authority, and few of any with such commanding eloquence." His story enables his hearers "to sense the cracking and rumbling of breaking seas of ice; the biting blizzards; the only odor of life, the exhalation of the Eskimos, still and motion, of strange lands of ice and snow—"a portion of the world concerning which no one can possibly speak with more authority, and few of any with such commanding eloquence." TELEPHONE NUMBER 29.

The STAR office received a visit Friday from a delegate of the State Board of Labor and Industry, the first honor of its kind we remember during almost forty years of business. He inquired as thoroughly, asked numerous questions, personal and otherwise, looked over our equipment, and, in fact, gave care to the State's interests in a most painstaking manner. As we employ less than one hundred persons in our plant, he did not require that we equip a rest room with a trained nurse in constant attendance. But he did require us to discharge our office boy. Perhaps you know our office boy. His name is Gleason Ryerson; he is almost thirteen years old, and he goes to the Prince school. He wears a small cap perched over one eye in a most absurd manner, and has red hair and a lot of freckles. He takes our mail to the Post Office, and runs twice around the dog basin of the fountain on the Common both going and coming. We suppose because it helps him train for something or other. He takes the proof of the Congressional calendar to Mr. Chidley at the church. He takes the summer paper, examining in Welsh pond, back of the church, while Mr. Chidley looks it over. After he gets out of school at quarter of two he goes home and has his dinner, and he comes to the STAR office at three and does our errands if we can find him. He is a good boy. His father is dead, and his mother is now back at work after a recent operation. Gleason says he gives her all of his money and that he has come to the bank. He is ambitious, too. He says that after he learns the newspaper business, he is going to be a reporter. We shall miss Gleason. We shall miss his cheery "three o'clock whistle" and his "this letter isn't put in stamp" when we want him, and go to his favorite corner back of a bale of paper, and find it all empty except for the lace, which he used to set at night, and read last week's copy of Life, we are afraid we will lack a little solemn. Still the delegate says Gleason can come back in three weeks, and do our errands again if he wants to, and is still ambitious. Gleason knows he should not work. The delegate told him so. Perhaps Gleason knows that his kind benefactor, the State, will continue to put money for him in the bank, and give him a new suit once in a while. Anyway Gleason is now going to have two hours a day more, when he will have absolutely nothing to do, except if he wants to read last week's Life, just to keep him from being lonely, some, we will see that he has it.

Of course there was nothing political in our delegate's visit. We are surprised at our misfortune. Some of our good fortune—in escaping the visit of this pleasant and careful person during the market panic—perhaps he has got a new pair of glasses, and just spied us when passing by. How lucky he did not drop in last September on the day when we had a new quarter (miserable pitance) thereof. How much happier and better off we would have been had he only found us as we are now. Even he today's proprietor of the STAR. We might even now be a laborer with a good job. Yes, certainly we are fortunate. Think how tired we used to be when mother or father told us to bring in the wood or shovel the path to the barn. How much happier we are now. Why, we could have told them a thing or two if we had only have known. And now we can't even go on a strike. We are nothing but a slave in an office, working over days we might have enjoyed. Yes, our ignorance and ambition were unfortunate. The new boys have never told the prizes he to their kind and considerate foster-father, the State.

The STAP is looking for a new office boy. He must be over sixteen years of age and need not go to school. He can be Jewish or any other race, and need not even be Jewish in his manner; in fact we do not expect that. We expect to pay him four times as much as he paid last year, and give him more than he is worth, and he will spend most of his time in the office. If time continues to pass, we will continue to pay him more and more. He will be a good boy with an automobile, or a motorcycle at least. He will not be required to study the status of our letters, we will continue to pay him more and more. We will make special hours for him and provide an exceptionally comfortable, easy chair for his personal use, together with the most "exclusive" novels. He need not stay with us any longer than it takes him to get acquainted with his father, and we are willing to agree to other terms to suit.

The white owl mentioned in last week's STAR, which has been seen at the Goffard school, has been seen by several people within the past few days, notably a child of the Wyman school when he the peak of the Nickerson house on Church street. These children wrote to State Field Secretary Packard of the Audubon Society, and from their description he returned a reply that it appeared to be a barred owl, a rare specimen in this neighborhood. Since it was shot, however, it has been established that it was a snowy owl, usually found only in the arctic regions. The boy who shot the bird is having it stuffed.

CALUMET THE BEST

The Highland Club of Melrose visited the Calumet Club Wednesday night and engaged in matches in bowling, billiards, pool and cards with teams of the local organization. Calumet took nine of the fourteen points, winning four in bowling, one in billiards, two in pool and two in cards. The Calumet first team came near rolling a record match. After winning the first string by one pin it rolled a 401 string and set a total of 1010. Every man was over 300. Anderson and Newman got 354 each, the former having 128 for his best single and the latter 130. Goudale got 311 with 128. Berry did with 112 and Stephenson 304 with 198. The second team dropped three points. In this match Baker had a string of 1018, Taylor 109, Pitman 105, and Crafts 101.

Combs won at billiards by 12 points and Nor last by 27. Stevens and Rogers each won at pool and both Calumet card teams won.

K. OF C. NOTES

The third degree was exemplified on Friday morning by District Deputy John H. Gately and District Deputy Joseph A. O'Neil of Dorchester, on Thursday evening in Lyceum Hall.

All the new members praise the work of the District Deputies and express a desire to see both of the gentlemen in Winchester Hall in the near future. The efforts of the officers of the council were well appreciated by everyone attending the degree. The roll call in the council rooms added greatly to the success of this major degree.

As there are a great many friends waiting to join our Council, we wish to announce that the membership drive has been resumed and that a first degree will take place in the near future. Applications for membership can be had from any member of the Council. It isn't necessary for one to be approached. It is your duty to invite and make up your mind that our work is your work. We need you and you need us. Grasp the opportunity now.

Brother John Maynard informs us that the visit to our neighboring city is called off and he now knows "Barkie."

Brother Charles O'Connell does not want the title of Sergeant, which was bestowed upon him in the play, "Stop Thief," as it is a constant reminder of army life which he wishes to forget.

Brother James B. Sullivan, who has been flying and instructing at the Aviation School, Colburn Field, Arcadia, Florida, has returned among us having been given his credentials of honor and faithful service from Uncle Sam. Jim says it is an awful jumping off place where he was stationed.

Brother Edward F. Boyle says, "as fine a day over there," as his opportunity will come in the near future.

Brother "Pete" Cullen knows us now and we believe his navy experience has led him in good stead.

Brother Hart Connelly, whose enthusiasm never wanes, informs us that he was surprised when he learned how it happened.

Brother devereux Boyle tells us that he is often mistaken for his brother and sometimes it works out alright as it did this week.

Brother Mel Connelly believes is the youngest member of our Council, and we expect to hear from him often.

Brother Philip Lehar can't be beat. He is some lad, and he will soon lose a good sailor while we gain, which can't come too soon.

The Lecturer, Brother James V. Hiley, informs us that the new talk is in the making. We hope the worthy Lecturer will make this one as interesting as the previous one.

The Council has under consideration the reception to the members who have been in service and those still in service. The plan is to be presented to the members at the next regular meeting. Every member should be interested in this affair.

Brother "Bill" says he is using the riding outfit and the expansion of steam is giving the maximum efficiency from the initial pressure. We hope the good work continues and the best of luck to Brother Bill.

Remember the Membership Drive is on and the old motto is better than the new "Hard a port." Full speed ahead, and "Watch us grow."

W. C. T. U. NOTES

At the meeting of the Union last Friday Miss Ethel Gleason gave an extremely interesting address which was of distinct value in its nature and was of some vexed problems before us at this time. There was a good attendance and Mrs. Martin D. Kneel presided in place of the president who is still ill. Messages of love and sympathy went from the Union to both Mrs. Hamilton and the secretary, Mrs. Hellen, who has also been in the hospital. Mrs. Hamilton's friends are glad to know that she has been taken home for the long season of convalescence while Mrs. Hellen is making a good recovery.

Plans were made for the April meeting to be held in the Home for Aged, and it was voted to have an all day meeting in May for the benefit of the Belgian and French children.

Mrs. J. C. Adams, who is in charge of this part of the work will be glad to give out carnations to those members who may wish to do something at home before that time. The need is great and it is hoped there will be a good response to the call. In this connection it may be well to say that the W. C. T. U. leads the national list of organizations turning out carnations to the special society for the relief of these unfortunate children.

The White Ribbon Home at Averb, and its social place of the Massachusetts W. C. T. U. executive board last week and much important business was transacted. The Home has proved to be of great value in the months of its existence but the need for its special work is rapidly disappearing as the need is no longer so great as it was when it was first established. It shall become a Home for Aged Women, members of the Massachusetts Woman's Christian Temperance Union, something for which a strong demand exists. As the cost of the Home has been little more than the rental of a place suitable for the work, and the conditions prevailing at the time of its purchase, the expenditure has been fully justified and great good has been accomplished. It is well to recall, in this connection, that the relations with the people of Averb, especially the town officials, have been exceedingly pleasant and only words of commendation have been heard regarding its work.

Among those who will be on the team are: Hollis Riddle, Gordon Wheeler, Lincoln Russell, Robert Hart, Parker Hart, Theodore Clifton, Reginald Kibbe, James Fitch, Eugene Elliott, Daniel Beggs, Everett Clifton, and Stephen Ryan. ## An Early California Harvest.

One of the most peculiar harvests in the world takes place in the foothills of the Coast Range of the State of California, through its insectary department, does the harvesting, and the crop is estimated at from 50,000,000 to 75,000,000 bushels. The bees are found under light cover in sunny nooks in only a few places in Nevada and Florida counties. They are caught into cases, each holding a quart, or about 25,000, and sent to Sacramento for storage until next summer. During the growing season they are let loose in a wooden ship, ran alongside of her. The other goods

Historic Stories of Battle.

As far back in the days of the Vikings, the Saga of Olaf Trygvasson, the Norse hero, tells how Olaf in his great ship, the Galle, slipped into Salten fiord, where his enemy Rand lay asleep in the early morning after a feast, and carried off Rand and his dragon ship almost without striking a blow. And yet everyone remembers that in the famous battle of Salten in 480 B. C. the Greeks were victorious in battle when the captain of the last Greek ship, Amintas, turned the prow of his trireme against the enemy, and, cutting the line of a Persian ship, ran alongside of her. ## RED CROSS REPORT

Secretary's Account of Year's Activities Given Out

Following is the report of Miss Edith J. Sweet, secretary of the American Red Cross, as read at the annual meeting last week. The report should be of especial interest to every Winchester resident in that we are all members of the organization. The report is exceptional in its complete detail of every branch of the work engaged in and gives ample proof of the activity and wholehearted work of Winchester people.

Mr. Chairman, members and friends of the Winchester Branch. On Dec. 6, 1917, at a meeting of the Winchester members of the Boston Metropolitan Chapter of the American Red Cross, called by the chapter in the Winchester High School Assembly hall, the Winchester Branch of the Red Cross was organized, and the following officers elected.

Chairman, Mr. Fred Joy.
1st Vice-Chairman, Mrs. Joel H. Metcalf.
2nd Vice-Chairman, Miss Corneilia Ames.

Secretary, Mrs. Edith J. Sweet.
Treasurer, Mr. A. Miles Hollbrook.
Members of Executive Committee, Mr. James J. Fitzgerald.
At the same time it was voted that these officers elected constitute the Executive Committee to draw up by-laws, extend their membership, fill vacancies, appoint committees, make all in the work requires, and have general power to direct the affairs of the branch during the interval between annual meetings.

In accordance with this vote the officers present met immediately after this meeting and elected the following committees: Publicity and information, Finance, Work, (Knitting, Sewing, Surgical Dressings, Membership, and eight (8) other members of the Executive Committee. One of the latter was Mr. Ferdinand French, who was elected to decline, being unable to attend any more meetings. At a later meeting of the Executive Committee, he was made an honorary member of the Executive Committee in appreciation of the work he had done in the past for the Red Cross.

After careful consideration, the present form at 9 M. Vernon street was secured and approved, and has proved most satisfactory.

A constitution and by-laws were adopted that accorded with those of the chapter.

From December 17 to 24, 1917, a successful membership campaign was conducted. Mr. W. L. King, chairman, when the membership increased from about 500 to 2500 and $2624 was collected, 25 per cent of which came to our local treasury.

The need of proper financing was partly solved by sending out letters to Winchester residents, asking for pledges, the replies to which, while small in number, yet brought in a goodly sum of money, enough to warrant every strenuous effort put forth for work to be accomplished.

A persistent effort was made to start a Junior Red Cross, but because it was not sanctioned by the State Committee, the matter had to be given up. But right here, I want the townspeople to realize that the children have done a great deal to help in raising the proceeds of entertainments, managed chiefly by themselves, and the numerous games, puzzles, etc., by making games and puzzles to be sold to camps, and by giving a knitting machine for the wool department.

In March it was voted to accept Mrs. Bowen Turt's offer of a convalescent hospital in case of need. The need, however, did not arise.

HOW TO GET SOLDIER AND SAILOR $60 BONDS

Certified copies of discharge certificates.

Army.
In order to get the bonus from the Government, the soldier or sailor officers who have been honorably discharged from the Army must send their original discharge certificates to the Finance Department, Washington, D. C., with a statement of his military service since April 6, 1917.

Discharged officers who have received discharge certificates may send their discharge orders which show final payments made to them, but these are not acceptable from officers who have received discharge certificates.

Navy.
Enlisted men and officers honorably discharged from, or released from active duty in the Navy should apply to the Navy Disbursing Officer, Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, Navy Department, Washington, D. C., and must send either their original discharge certificates or original orders releasing them from the service. Certified copies of discharge papers will be made by the Home Service Section of the American Red Cross for men to use when their record until the original papers are returned to them from Washington.

The Winchester office of the Home Service Section of the American Red Cross at Town Clerk's Room, Town Hall, will be open from seven o'clock to eight o'clock on Wednesday evening for the making of certified copies.

G. E. K. DANCE

What was acclaimed by all the most successful and most enjoyable dance of recent years was held in Waterbury, Conn., Saturday night, in the Gamma Eta Kappa Fraternity, between fifty and sixty couples filled the hall to capacity while four of the liveliest pieces from a colored band furnished unobtainable music for all. The hall was very attractive, decorated with the Fraternity and chapter banners, on the right and left of a white silk embroidered service flag, bearing three lone golden stars, the members who died in the United States service during the world war. These flags were beneath the stage on which was placed the electrical lighted sign of the fraternity. Hanging high over all was an immense American flag. At the other end of the hall hung the regulation service flag with the stars arranged in the fraternity letters. Over this was hung an electrically lighted moon which with the seal was used in moonlight dances. The chandeliers were adorned with greens and a multitude of small American flags. At ten-thirty there was an intermission during which punch, ice cream and cake were served. An added novelty was fraternity favors in the form of green and white candy mints. Shortly after midnight a big dance was held. The winning couple were Mrs. Percy Burleigh and Miss Williamina Ross, who danced a solo dance and were applauded by all.

Mrs. Apsey and Mrs. Skinner were matrons. Besides the Winchester couples there were dancers from Melrose, Malden and Southerfield present. Among the present were Misses and Messrs. ARCH OF WELCOME

Attractive Tribute Being Erected on Common

The Committee on Welcoming Returned Soldiers and Sailors took active steps this week following its meeting of organization, and as a first step in the returning of Winchester men the appreciation of the townspeople a handsome arch of welcome is now under construction on the Common.

The arch is being erected at the entrance of the path from the cemetery and stands in a conspicuous and commanding position where it will be at once seen by anyone entering the center. Ralph Vinal is the architect who has designed the tribute.

The general scheme is a handsome white arch. Across the top will be a band of blue on which in gold letters will be the inscription "Winchester Welcomes Home".

The committee so decided, so which appropriate sentiment. On either side of the arch the column supports the arch will be gold globe holding a group of flags, and on each side of the arch the blue band will be lettered "Welcome Home".

The arch will be illuminated at night by some 60 old electric lights, placed around the top and around the curve of the arch.

The tribute will be among the most elaborate of its kind to be found in any of the surrounding places.

THE PHILBRICK EXHIBITION

Through the kindness of Mrs. Hunter Robb, many Winchester people were introduced on Tuesday afternoon to the work of Otis Philbrick, the young artist who occupies the artist's studio, near the North Reservoir.

Oil paintings, pastels and drawings in charcoal and in red chalk were placed to advantage in the beautiful music room at Terrace of Oaks.

Philbrick's specialty is children. He draws them and he paints them, awake and asleep, as a prominent artist who was present said: "When this man goes after a child he never fails."

His drawing is so good it is difficult to see how it could be any better, his color work, striking and arresting, the oil portraits are arrestingly lifelike.

The last time Otis Philbrick's work was shown in Boston, W. H. D. Hones, secretary of the Boston Art Association, called him "The Master of Sleeping Babies." It is easy to see why, two drawings of his own children asleep and those who could not sleep without whisper and tip-toe for fear of waking the babies.

Winchester is very fortunate in having such a native and talented man of such talent and application living and working here.

MAY PARTY

The annual May Party to be given by the Ladies' Friendly Society of Winchester, formed a very successful one at the Town Hall, Saturday, May 3rd.

Miss Florence Baker, of Boston has been engaged to instruct the dancers, assisted by Miss Edith P. Baker, accompanist.

The committee in charge is actively at work under the direction of Mrs. H. K. Barrows, Chairman.

INTERESTING TALK

There was an attendance of about 100 at the meeting of the Congregational Church choir, Friday evening, in the church vestry.

Program of the evening included a talk by E. J. Baconson, an American citizen, former clerk in the U. S. and in civilian life a lawyer. His talk was considered by many present as one of the most enlightening yet heard in this town or city.

Starting with the early history of that country the speaker traced the stirring events which have occurred since Charles came to the present day. He was a particularly eloquent speaker and for two hours and a half held his listeners' close attention.

Following the talk a collection was served. Mr. Fred L. Avery, president of the club, presided.

Two autos, a Winton and a Buick, came together at the corner of Beacon and Cambridge streets Tuesday night at nine o'clock. Both cars were traveling in opposite directions when they were driven by Walter I. Nobs of Jamaica Plain and M. W. Palmer of Waverley.

Both cars suffered from the impact, wheels and running gear being damaged.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING

His drawing is so good it is difficult to see how it could be any better, his color work, striking and arresting, the oil portraits are arrestingly lifelike.

The last time Otis Philbrick's work was shown in Boston, W. H. D. Hones, secretary of the Boston Art Association, called him "The Master of Sleeping Babies." It is easy to see why, two drawings of his own children asleep and those who could not sleep without whisper and tip-toe for fear of waking the babies.

Winchester is very fortunate in having such a native and talented man of such talent and application living and working here.

MAY PARTY

The annual May Party to be given by the Ladies' Friendly Society of Winchester, formed a very successful one at the Town Hall, Saturday, May 3rd.

Miss Florence Baker, of Boston has been engaged to instruct the dancers, assisted by Miss Edith P. Baker, accompanist.

The committee in charge is actively at work under the direction of Mrs. H. K. Barrows, Chairman.

INTERESTING TALK

There was an attendance of about 100 at the meeting of the Congregational Church choir, Friday evening, in the church vestry.

Program of the evening included a talk by E. J. Baconson, an American citizen, former clerk in the U. S. and in civilian life a lawyer. His talk was considered by many present as one of the most enlightening yet heard in this town or city.

Starting with the early history of that country the speaker traced the stirring events which have occurred since Charles came to the present day. He was a particularly eloquent speaker and for two hours and a half held his listeners' close attention.

Following the talk a collection was served. Mr. Fred L. Avery, president of the club, presided.

Two autos, a Winton and a Buick, came together at the corner of Beacon and Cambridge streets Tuesday night at nine o'clock. Both cars were traveling in opposite directions when they were driven by Walter I. Nobs of Jamaica Plain and M. W. Palmer of Waverley.

Both cars suffered from the impact, wheels and running gear being damaged.

PUPILS MUST PREPARE THEMSELVES

March 24, 1919.

Editor Winchester STAR.

I have heard something that throws considerable light on our school question. It seems that High School pupils are complaining of the great quantity of work assigned by one of the teachers, and that these same pupils, with their parents' consent, attend the movies at Arlington three times a week, and spend a fourth evening at a dance.

Now the manner in which these pupils spend their evenings is none of business, nor is it the business of anyone except their parents. Under such circumstances, however, it hardly seems fair for us to criticize our High School and to say that it does not adequately prepare pupils for college. No High School that exists can make them learn to study, but it can prepare boys and girls for college. The very best that it can do is to show them how to prepare themselves for college. The school can show them how to do the work, but it can't do the work for them. If High School pupils were able to go out four even-ings a week and still carry the work assigned to them, it should count that proof positive that the work assigned was too easy, and that the school teachers were not on the job.

We citizens of the United States are developing a tendency to think that but because we can take the place of individual effort. We must be inclined to make people good. We try in educational experiments, intended to make them learn to study, up to date, how reliable substitutes have been found for individual moral responsibility and old-fashioned hard work.

I hold no brief for the Winchester schools, doubtless they have plenty of faults, but bear this in mind. No teacher, no principal, no superintendent, no school board, no committee of investigation, can make pupils learn if their parents don't make them study.

Yours very truly,

Reverend Chipman.

RED CROSS DRIVE A SUCCESS

The clothes drive at the Winchester Red Cross has been most successful, not only has the response of Winchester residents been generous, but the gift of articles of wearing apparel made in great abundance, but the various contributions have made un-derstandably an excellent record.

Hardly a useless article has been received, and many of the gifts have been made of new clothes.

The Winchester Red Cross wishes to extend its thanks to all contributors for their effort and generous gift of time.

Mrs. Dwight B. Hill, Chairman
Miss Elsie B. Baker, Secretary

The alarm at 7 to this morning from box 27 was for the old Tyler house on Main street, near Herrick. The place had long been unoccupied and had been in the hands of the Lawson estate. The big yellow house was burning briskly when the fire was discovered and the firemen were still at work when the blaze was put out. It is said that the fire was probably set.

K. OF C. NOTES

The third degree was exemplified on fifty members by District Deputy John H. Gately and suite of Melrose, assisted by District Deputy Joseph A. F. O'Neil of Northbury on Thursday evening in Lyceum Hall.

All the new members praise the work of the District Deputies and express a desire to see both of the gentlemen in Winchester soon in the near future. The efforts of the officers of the council were well appreciated by everyone attending the degree. The collation in the Council rooms added greatly to the success of this major degree.

As there are a great many friends waiting to join our Council, we wish to announce that the membership drive has been resumed and that a first degree will take place in the near future. Applications for membership can be had from any member of the Council.

For one to be approached. It is your duty to investigate and make up your mind that our work is your work. We need you and you need us. Grasp the opportunity now.

Brother John Monahan informs us that the visit to our neighboring city is called off and he now knows "Barkis" was willing.

Brother Charles O'Connell does not want the title "Sergeant," which was bestowed upon him in the play, "Stop Thief," as it is a constant reminder of army life which he wishes to forget.

Brother James B. Sullivan, who has been dying and instructing at the Aviation School, Colburn, Field, Arcadia, Florida, has returned among us having been given his credentials of honor and faithful service from Uncle Sam. Jim says it is an awful tamping of place where he was stationed.

Brother Edward F. Boyle says, "As fine it is to be in the Council, the opportunity will come in the near future."

Brother "Pete" Cullen knows us now and we have lived with experience has shed him in good stead.

Brother Bert Connolly, whose enthusiasm never wanes, informs us that he sure was surprised when he learned how it happened.

Brother James J. Boyle tells us that he is often mistaken for his brother and sometimes for his son, so alright as it did this week.

Brother McFadyen, we believe, is the youngest member of our Council, and we expect to hear from him soon.

Brother Philip LeDuc can't be beat. He is some lad, and Uncle Sam will soon lose a good fighter while we gain, which can't come too soon.

The Lecturer, Brother James J. Boyle, informs us that a Snake Talk in the making, and he is sure a worthy Lecturer will make this one as interesting as the previous one.

The Council has under consideration the reception of new members who have been in service and those still in service. The plans are to be presented to the members at the next regular meeting.

Should be interested in this affair. The trustees have decided that we must get busy, and have agreed to carry out their plans, which we think will prove a source of satisfaction to all members.

We hope the good work continues and the best of luck to Brother Bill.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

At the meeting of the Union last Friday Miss Ethel Gleason gave an extremely interesting address, which was of distinct value in its illumination of some vexed problems before us at this time. There was a good attendance and Mrs. Mary D. Kneeland presided in place of the president who is still ill. Messages of love and sympathy went from the Union to both Mrs. Hamilton and the secretary, Mrs. Hefflin, who has also been in the hospital. Mrs. Hamilton's friends are glad to know that she has been taken home for the long season of convalescence while Mrs. Hefflin is making a good recovery.

Plans were made for the April meeting to be held in the Home for Aged, and it was voted to have an all day meeting in May for the benefit of the Belgian and French children. Mrs. J. C. Adams, who is in charge of this part of the work, will be glad to give out garments to those members who may wish to do something at home before that time. The need is great and it is hoped there will be a good response to the call. In this connection it may be well to say that the W. C. T. U. lends the largest list of organizations turning in garments to the special society for the relief of these unfortunate children.

The White Ribbon Home at Ayer was the meeting place of the Massachusetts W. C. T. U. executive board last week and much important business was transacted. The Home has proved to be of great value during the months of its existence but the need for its special work is rapidly disappearing so it was decided that when it is no longer so needed it shall become a Home for Aged Women members of the Massachusetts Woman's Christian Temperance Union, something for which a strong demand exists. As the cost of the Home has been little more than the rental of a place suitable for the work, we have been under conditions prevailing at the time of its purchase, the expenditure has been fully justified and great good has been accomplished. It is well to record, in this connection, that the relations with the people of Ayer, especially the town officials, have been exceedingly pleasant and only words of commendation have been heard regarding its work.

He was uproariously welcomed and many cheers of welcome were rendered him at the close of his talk by everyone present. Private Kibbe was obliged to leave Winchester again for camp that evening as he was only allowed a limited furlough. He expects his honorable discharge very soon.

At a recent meeting of the Boys' Athletic Association a new constitution has been drawn up and passed. The committee who drafted the constitution was as follows: Theodore Clifton, Ralph Farrington, Hollis Riddle, Mr. Butters, and Mr. Schuster.

The crew season is almost at hand and the high school expects to put up a stiff race for the Lawson trophy. This year's trophy was easily won two years ago, for less than a material than that which is now expected will report for practice. Fires answered by the chief's car and auxiliary chemical occurred on Tuesday. At 10:25 grass near the garage of the Kelley estate on Fletcher street endangered that property. G. Bond. There was no material damage at any of the fires.

Mr. Quigley left his wife and did not reappear, so Mrs. Quigley notified the police. Meanwhile Mr. Quigley, upon his return to the station had boarded the train, supposing his wife was with him. When he arrived home, not finding her, he also notified the police that she had disappeared. They were united later.

An Early California Harvest.

One of the most peculiar harvests in the world takes place in the foothills of the Sierra Nevada. The state of California, through its forestry department, does the harvesting, and the crop is estimated at from 20,000,000 to 25,000,000 lbs. The logs are found under light snow in sunny nooks in only a few places in Nevada and Placer counties. They are gathered into piles, each holding a quart, or about 30,000 lbs, and sent to Sacramento for storage until the summer. During the growing season, they are best to save the canyons, and various other crops from enemy insects.

Historic Stories of Battle.

As far back in the days of the Vikings, the Saga of Olaf Trygvasson, the Norse hero, tells how Olaf in his great ship, the Longship, slipped into Siltan fiord, where his enemy Raud lay asleep in the early morning of a frost, and carried off Raud and his dragon ship almost without striking a blow. And not everyone remembers that in the famous battle of Salamis in 480 B. C. the Greeks were retreating in panic when the captain of the Persian fleet, Xerxes, turned the proof of his triumph against the enemy, and, ending the ram of a Persian ship, ram alongside of her. The other Greeks turned then, and the battle was won.

Lantern Fly a Lustrous Insect.

The lantern fly of South America is said to be by far the most brilliant of all luminous insects. It sometimes measures more than 2 inches in length. The shape of the head is very unusual. It is furnished with a hollow transparent snout nearly the length of the body, whence it emits the luminescent light.

TOURNAMENT CLOSURE

Final Match Makes First Place Tie

The final matches in the mixed bowling tournament at the Calumet Club were rolled on Friday night, the interesting feature being the possibility of team 9 tying team 3 for first place. This team 9 did by winning all three points from team 2. As a result there will be a roll-off to decide which team, 9 or 3, will take the top honors. The match was an interesting one, team 9 winning its first string by ten pins and its second by a similar margin. It was nip and tuck, with plenty of thrills. Mrs. Caldwell got a total of 162 with a string of 85. Mrs. Goldard a string of 86, Mrs. Lane 81 and Mrs. Tucker 80. Mr. Caldwell rolled a string of 125 and a total of 212 and Mr. Brown got a string of 100. In the other matches team 10 won three from team 4, taking the match by a good margin. Both were in the second division. Team 13 also got three from team 11, the match not changing the standing. Mrs. Fenn got a string of 94. Mrs. Kneeland 101 and 187, and Mrs. Brown 92.

MUSIC MEMORY CONTEST

Fortnightly Suggests that Groups of Children be Invited into Homes to Hear Contest Numbers

Additional interest in the Music Memory Contest has been aroused by the fact that many Winchester women are inviting groups of children into their homes to hear played some of the contest numbers. This is a many others will follow the example and encourage the children in every way possible by playing the numbers to them. It would be well perhaps to have the children write the name and composer on a piece of paper.

The voters of Wakefield decided to continue the town form of government and rejected the plan of a city charter at a meeting in Town Hall Tuesday night, and incidentally established a record of complete unanimity in the history of the town. The plan was rejected by a vote of 120 to 0. At the election last fall the citizens favored a city charter, 54 to 30, when the question was submitted on a referendum, but it was stated that the wording of the question did not come to the point and was only an expression of sentiment. When the question came up this week it was estimated that less than a dozen favored the change.

The tunneling of Bear Hill in Stoneham is offered as the solution of the Reading sewer problem that has existed the town for several months past. Reading was threatened with complete isolation from the Metropolitan sewer district after much money had been spent on the preliminary work. The town limits, a bill just reported in the Legislature provides for a system that will connect with the Stoneham end of the sewer system. Some time Bear Hill will be tunneled but until this is done the sewage will be carried over the hill by means of a pump. The town is now working on a plan to carry it over the grade. The job will cost $100,000.

The executive board of the Boston Central Labor Union, at a recent meeting, appointed a committee to take up the question of "movie advertisements" in the public schools with members of the school committee. It was reported to the board that since one firm with a nationwide reputation, was permitted to advertise its commodities in the schools by film, others are now applying for the same privilege. President M. J. O'Donnell and other members of the board question the right of the school authorities to grant such permission and are doubtful as to the instructive merits of these films.

CRONIN DECEASED AWARDED LIEUT. FRED M. BROWN

First Lieutenant Fred M. Brown, 2nd Division, U. S. Army, has been cited for the French War Cross. The citation, signed by General Petain, contains the following: "From October 3, 1918, near St. Etienne a Frenchman, he displayed the greatest heroism in leading his men to the attack, was killed after having reached the objective and maintained a liaison with the adjoining companies."

Lieutenant Brown enlisted immediately on the entrance of the United States into the war. After training at the Harland School of Artillery, he was sent to the second Plattsburg camp where he received his commission. In January 1918 he went to France, spent two weeks in a French training camp, two weeks in a French sector for observation and was then assigned to the 2nd Infantry of the Second Division. He was severely wounded at Chateau Thier and returned to the front just before the beginning of the Argonne drive. He saw almost continuous fighting from the March offensive of 1918 until his death, October 6, 1918. In the engagement in which he met his death his entire platoon was wiped out, with the exception of thirteen men and a second lieutenant.

Lieut. Brown had been a resident of Winchester for the past eight years, during which time he had lived with Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Heron at 2 Rameyville. In a letter to Mrs. Heron a fellow-officer says: "His simple, kindly manner won the love of his fellow-officers and men. And his cheerful bearing and courage were an inspiration to his associates."

IN MEMORY OF LT. FRED M. BROWN

Killed in Action in the Argonne, Oct. 6, 1918.

Into the life eternal he has gone; His shining eyes have seen the golden dawn Of that resplendent endless day When trouble, pain, and sorrow—all are not.

Where all that he has suffered is forgotten, When ended with the weary way.

To him has come the end of toil and strife, Before him lies infinity of life. Now he may and seeing find, What'er his new-awakened soul may wish.

Serenely contentment or the joyous task, To satisfy his eager mind.

"His well with him. For us each day, Will slowly pass, until he shall appear To stand at the corner of the road, With a welcome smile and an outstretched welcome hand; Where we shall see the glorious heaven land, And unremembering leave earth's heavy load."

—Schuyler F. Heron, Grandcourt, France.

Honorary Army Promotion. Brovet is a French word for a commission or warrant. In many cases it gives an officer higher pay than he is entitled to. It is an honorary promotion. The first time it was used in the United States Army was in 1812 when Capt. Zachary Taylor, who afterwards became president, was made major for his brave defense of Fort Hume against the Indians near Torre Haute.

The Slacker's Load. The slacker's load is a term used by the military to describe a load that is too heavy for a person to carry. It is a term that is often used to describe a person who is lazy or who does not work hard.
